MAC DONALD OFF FOR AMERICA ON PEACE MISSION

London Says Good-by with Songs.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Amid wild cheers from bowling crowds, in which all hatted cabinet ministers, dignified government officials, railroad employés and sweating taxi drivers rubbed shoulders with each other in true democratic form, Prime Minister MacDonald left London at 8:30 p. m. for Southampton, where he boarded the Homeric. He is bound for America in an effort to negotiate a naval disarmament agreement with President Hoover. He is scheduled to arrive in New York on Oct. 4.

A former cabinet official described it as the greatest sendoff any British prime minister ever received. Ambassador Dawes was at the station to say farewell.

The prime minister, looking a good deal like the simple schoolmaster he was 40 years before his dramatic rise to the head of the British empire—he was dressed in an ordinary brown soft hat and a dark lounge suit and stiff collar—took the ovation good naturedly.

Hopes to "Narrow Atlantic."

Arriving at the station at 3 o'clock he stood on the platform and smilingly acknowledged the cheers of the multitude and posed for the battery of cameramen, then chatted informally with newspapermen.

"I am off in the hope of being able to do something to narrow the Atlantic," he said.

He then warned the journalists that they were expecting too much from his trip.

"I do not, as I already have said, cut my stay in Washington to lead to spectacular developments as the result of continued negotiations. One reason for this is that the current conversations concerning naval disarmament have been carried so far that they have now to be brought to a close by international statesmen.

Time Ripe for Conference.

"Before there could be any progress in naval disarmament it was necessary for Washington and London to agree on a means of terminating the deadlock which had arisen between them at the Geneva conference in 1927. I am glad to say that we have made such good progress in this work that the moment has come, we hope, when the five naval powers who signed the Washington treaties can be invited to join and insure a common happy issue to the conference.

"If all goes well the five power conference will be held early in the new year. If it succeeds, it will supply the preparatory disarmament commission of the league of nations with a substantial contribution to naval disarmament. The preparatory commission would then be free to proceed with its general work, and it will also be possible for the league of nations to summon a general disarmament conference of all nations, to which it has long been working."

Tells Reasons for Visit.

Then, addressing himself particularly to the American correspondents, Mr. MacDonald explained his particular reasons for his visit to America, the first official visit any British prime minister ever made to American shores.

"Disarmament is not the only interest which moves me to go to America," he said. "I want very much to see President Hoover once again and many other American public men, some of whom I know already.

"We have so much work to do in connection which cannot be done unless we understand and have confidence in each other. The history of the Anglo-American naval situation during the last three years proves, if proof is needed, that the closest possible understanding between the two nations is of greatest importance, not only for those nations, but for the world.

Wants Personal Contact.

"I have always felt that a personal contact between those actually responsible for the governments in Washington and London is essential if that understanding is to be developed as fully as we all wish it to be. Both nations have a great rôle to play in the advancement not only of disarmament, but of many other democratic and moral issues with which their history is associated."

Then, in a less serious vein, he said:

"I am certainly looking forward very much to my visit to the United

EXPOSE 'COMEDY OF ERRORS' IN FREEING THIEF

Crime Board, Judge Assail Prosecutor.

Prosecutor Under Fire

The state's attorney's office was under fire from two sources yesterday. First, the crime commission called attention to a "comedy of errors" which permitted a burglar to go free without even a paper bond to hold him. Second, Chief Justice Normoyle of the criminal court charged that the incompetence of an assistant prosecutor permitted the cancellation of a fugitive thief's bond.

"An assistant state's attorney acted upon the request and ordered the bond released and the surety freed of all responsibility—a comedy of errors which led to the escape of just one more criminal."

This is an excerpt from a report of the Chicago Crime commission, made yesterday to Frank J. Loesch, its president. Mr. Loesch is also a member of President Hoover's crime commission.

The report is an explanation of why George Baker, a burglar who was shot and captured in a store, is free. The explanation required other explanations which State's Attorney John A. Swanson is to seek today from Assistant State's Attorney Justus Mozart.

Bond Cancelled; Burglar Gone.

The crime commission did not hesitate to call Baker a criminal; and it was said that in terming Baker's release a comedy of errors the commission was inclined to be charitable. The commission said the prosecutor's office allowed Baker to free himself from jail with a bond and then free himself from the bond.

Of course, Baker wasn't present yesterday in Judge William N. Gemmill's court when his trial was scheduled to start. There wasn't any bond to forfeit either, and just by way of not overlooking any possibilities, court attachés looked for Baker in the county jail and in the House of Correction. But Baker wasn't in either place.

The crime commission knew Baker wouldn't be in court or in jail because the records had been looked up at the request of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea company.

How It All Happened.

The commission's report told what had happened, as follows:

"George Baker was shot by Policeman David Tinman who caught him in a store at 1115 South Paulina street early in the morning of July 27. Baker was taken to the House of Correction hospital.

"On July 31 the wounded burglar was released from the House of Correction when Attorney Frank A. McDonnell and Policeman John Callopy called there with a bond for Baker. The bond was for $7,500, and was signed by Fannie Cowen, 819 Independence boulevard. That's the last heard of Baker the burglar.

"The case was called before Judge Daniel P. Trude in the felony court on Aug. 3, and a doctor's certificate was presented to the court stating that Baker was too ill to appear. Policeman Tinman informed the court he had shot Baker and had taken him to the jail hospital. Judge Trude held Baker to the grand jury and issued a mittimus ordering that the defendant be taken to the county jail.

Woman Released as Surety.

"The bailiff and clerk made a notation on the files that the defendant was not in court and attached the mittimus.

"Then Mrs. Cowen asked to be released from the bond—which should have been forfeited then and there—as her bond was only binding until the disposition of Baker's case in the Municipal court.

"Assistant State's Attorney Mozart gave her the release, which she promptly took to the recorder's office and had the lien on her property removed. The next day she signed bonds for another criminal, Lee Philips, who, upon his release, committed a series of other crimes and was arrested again yesterday.

Record Is Cited.

"Baker was indicted and on the presumption that he was in custody or under bond his case was called today. Attorney McDonnell, who brought the bail bond to the House of Correc-

KILLS NEIGHBOR WOMAN SEEKING TO CONVERT HIM

For three years Mrs. Elizabeth Finkruak, 52 years old, had been laboring to convert her neighbor, Frank Fortuna, to her religion.

Last evening she and her 3 year old daughter, Martha, went to the Fortuna home at 5230 Kenneth avenue to visit Mrs. Fortuna. The housewife was not at home and Fortuna's four children were at play or asleep, so Mrs. Finkruak renewed her missionary work on Fortuna.

Fortuna pressed fingers to his ears and rushed to his bedroom. He reappeared with a pistol and before the woman could rise or scream fired three shots. One bullet grazed the child's scalp and the other two pierced Mrs. Finkruak's breast, resulting in her death an hour later in Holy Cross hospital.

"She asked me for a donation for her church; that's why I did it," said Fortuna.

SHERIFF WARNS JAIL'S ELECTRIC CHAIR MAY FAIL

Sheriff Traeger yesterday urged the making of arrangements to guard against the possibility that the overworked heating plant supplying the new $7,500,000 Criminal courts and county jail building will not be able to generate sufficient power to electrocute a condemned murderer. In a letter to the county board the sheriff asked that the board make a contract with the Commonwealth Edison company for the necessary current.

"It would be a terrible spectacle if we should find we were unable to electrocute a man, placed in the chair, because of insufficient current," the letter said.

LIQUOR SELLER PUNISHED MORE THAN SLAYER

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Noah Bailey slew James Custinau, hitting him over the head first with the barrel of a shotgun and then finishing the job with an ax. Perry Gish violated the liquor law by manufacturing and selling whisky. Each was convicted yesterday in Mackinac County Circuit court.

Today the slayer was given two and one-half years in Jackson prison and the moonshiner was sentenced to serve seven and a half years in the same institution.

Judge Reid of Grand Rapids passed sentence. It was Gish's fourth offense and Bailey's first.

Joyce Calls Wife Bigamist in Reply to Suit

J. Stanley Joyce, Chicago lumber man, who was the fourth of the millionaire husbands of Peggy Upton-Archer-Hopkins-Joyce-Morner, yesterday filed an answer in the Circuit court to the divorce bill filed by his second wife, Mrs. Nellie M. Joyce. The answer charges Mrs. Joyce with bigamy, alleging that she was not divorced from her first husband and won a decree from her second husband on perjured testimony. It also charges her with improper relations with other men.

The Joyces were married Nov. 20, 1926, at the home of Mr. Joyce's mother, Mrs. William Joyce, 4614 Woodlawn avenue. Joyce was divorced from his first wife in 1921 and Mrs. Joyce had won a divorce from her second husband, R. N. Vail of New York, a month before the wedding. They separated May 3, 1929.

Wife Charges Cruelty.

Mrs. Joyce filed suit for divorce on Aug. 8 through the law firm of Winston, Strawn and Shaw. The bill alleged cruelty, on which ground the first Mrs. Joyce won her decree. It contained numerous citations of unusual acts of cruelty in France, in Florida, and in their apartment at 1540 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. Joyce's answer, filed by the law firm of Brundage, Landon & Holt, declares that Mrs. Joyce was married to a Walter Linsberger of New York in 1921. It declares that Joyce has been unable to find any record of a divorce from the first husband. In January of 1925, it continues, she married Mr. Vail.

The following April she is said to have filed suit for divorce in Dade county, Florida, on a charge of habitual drunkenness. The answer declares that the decree granted several months later is illegal, because Mrs. Joyce represented herself as a resident of that county, when she was really a resident of New York.

Charges Improper Conduct.

The answer charges that in December of 1928 Mrs. Joyce lived in their home with a man known only as Paul. She is charged with having held clandestine meetings with other men in the apartment when Joyce was out of the city on business, and to have arranged meetings outside of the home when he was in town.

Joyce denies the acts of cruelty alleged in his wife's bill and characterizes her as being of a quarrelsome disposition. He declares that he has frequently attempted to pacify her when she became angry and had to defend himself from assaults.

Says Wife Attacked Him.

On the night they separated Mrs. Joyce came home intoxicated after a gay evening with a man companion, her husband alleges. She became furious when he remonstrated with her and assaulted him, according to the answer. She was quelled only after servants intervened. Joyce states.

She is charged with having left home for several weeks on a visit to Detroit and with having returned to take some furniture from the apartment to establish herself in other quarters. The answer declares that Joyce did not know of her relations with other men until after the separation. It maintains that the Joyces were not legally married.

Killed When He Tries to Fight Off Bandit Pair

Two colored robbers shot and killed Max Stein, 50 years old, 4322 Lexington street, last night when he resisted their attempt to rob him. He had just stabled his horse in a barn at the rear of 1453 Hastings street when the bandits accosted him. He grappled with them and one of the men shot him twice in the chest.

Wife Killer Sentenced 20 Years to Life

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Earl Peacox was found guilty of second degree murder tonight for the killing of his wife, Dorothy, on April 21. Supreme Court Justice Tompkins sentenced him immediately to 20 years to life in state prison.

The young radio repair man, pale when he entered the courtroom to learn his fate after waiting more than six hours while the jury deliberated, took the verdict and the sentence without a flicker of an eyelash. His mother, Mrs. Catherine Peacox, showed no emotion, but the courtroom crowd uttered a short cheer.

As the jurors departed, the judge summoned the young man, who had killed his wife and later burned her body, before the bench.

No Appeal to Be Made.

Sydney Syme, chief defense counsel, waived his right to two days in which to make motions. There will be no appeal.

The prisoner gave his age, 21, and his birthplace, Yonkers, in a voice that was so low that even those in the tightly packed room about him could scarcely hear. He looked straight at the judge.

"Earl Peacox," said Justice Tompkins, "I sentence you to prison for an indeterminate term of 20 years to life."

Bailiffs cleared the courtroom as Peacox was led back to his cell in the Westchester county jail, where he will remain probably over the week-end before going to Sing Sing prison.

Four Ballots Reported.

The whole proceedings took less than five minutes. It was reported the jury had required four ballots to reach its verdict. The same source of information had it that four jurors had been for conviction in the first degree, two for second degree and six for manslaughter in the first degree on the first ballot. The final result was a compromise, it was said. On none of the ballots were any votes cast for acquittal.

The jurors for two weeks had been listening to evidence of a case of domestic maladjustment which ended in a murder. They began their deliberations at 4:14 with a warning from Justice Tompkins to banish sympathy from their consideration.

Pleas Last All Day.

All day they had listened to the closing pleas of District Attorney Frank H. Coyne and Mr. Syme, the defense counsel.

Justice Tompkins told the jurors they could acquit Peacox only if they believed he had been insane at the time of the killing. The other alternatives outlined by the judge were manslaughter in the first degree, murder in the second degree or murder in the first degree.

The courtroom was tense as the district attorney sought to drive home to the jurors the minimum time it must have taken Peacox to choke his wife to death. He showed them photographs of the dead girl's body, pieces of her charred dress, bits of a burned towel and a fragment of a night gown which Peacox had tied about her head.

"Three Minutes" to Slay.

"Three minutes," said Mr. Coyne. "Doctors have told you that that is the minimum time it took this defendant to choke his wife to death. This is an out and out strangling case, and because of the time required to choke another to death and the opportunity provided for a person to make a choice to kill or not to kill, a verdict of guilty as charged is properly justified, even without further evidence of premeditation or deliberation as the court will charge you."

Mr. Coyne's demonstration ended

EVERY BUILDING DAMAGED; HIGH WIND AT MIAMI

Vessels Are Wrecked and in Peril.

BULLETIN.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The center of the West Indian hurricane off the lower Florida coast was about 100 miles east of Key West and the same distance south of Miami at 6 a. m. and was slowly moving westward at the rate of 4 or 5 miles an hour, according to Richard W. Gray, meteorologist of the Miami station of the United States weather bureau.

The barometer in Miami was 29.47, having remained steady since 5 a. m. Mr. Gray said indications were that this would be the lowest point. For the five minute period between 5:50 and 5:55 a. m., wind velocity in Miami averaged 54 miles an hour east northeast and during this period reached an extreme of 58 miles an hour. Between 4 and 5 a. m. the velocity reached an average of 47 miles an hour in Miami.

Mr. Gray's statement said: "Winds of gale force should continue at Miami well into the forenoon, but velocities should begin to abate within the next few hours. Early Saturday morning it was indicated that the center of the storm should pass very near to Key West."

BULLETIN.

Key West, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A steadily increasing wind of between 30 and 35 miles velocity, slightly out of the northwest, was blowing here at 3 o'clock this morning. The barometer had fallen to 29.56, and was dropping rapidly.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Twenty deaths as a result of a hurricane at Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, which lasted nearly three days, were reported to the Miami Herald late tonight in a dispatch received here by the Tropical Radio station.

The dispatch stated the storm damage was "worse collectively than ever before and that no building escaped injury."

Radio reports described how boats were crushed against the shores, houses wrecked, vegetation whipped into shreds, and the city flooded and left in darkness by disrupted power facilities. The water system is intact.

The sea wall was broken in several places by the force of the wind-lashed sea, which also wrecked virtually all small vessels anchored inside.

Churches Damaged.

The dispatch continued with: "Vegetation is whipped to shreds. The governor's house is badly damaged, as are all churches. The Baptist church on Shirley street is leveled, with the cathedral the least damaged."

Nassau's famous hotels were reported not to be damaged to any great extent. The dispatch ends with the statement: "We have had no communication with the outside world since Wednesday."

Radio sets on other islands in the Bahama group have been silent.

Several islands of the group known to have been visited by the hurricane still were isolated, and fears mounted that the storm may have raked them furiously.

A previous message, sent over a makeshift radio, said that the Princess Montagu, freight and passenger ship operated by the Inter-Island Transportation company between Miami and Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, is aground on Tony Rock near Nassau.

Former Pleasure Yacht.

The Montagu is a remodeled yacht once owned by the late Julius Fleischmann, yeast manufacturer, and later by Barron G. Collier, advertising magnate. Collier is listed as president of the company now owning the ship.

A later message from Nassau said part of the crew of 33 men was rescued on a lifeline after others had made their way to shore in a boat.

The Domira, ocean going steamship, abandoned by all but three of her thirty seamen, tonight apparently had withstood a third day of pounding by the storm-tossed sea that drove her aground off Abaco island, Bahamas, but the whereabouts of another British freighter, the Bahaman, became a mystery. The Bahaman has been unreported since leaving Jacksonville Monday for a forty-eight hour run to Nassau. She carries a crew of twelve.

Growing fear was felt here tonight

Gale Sweeps Key West.

Shortly before midnight Key West reported a 25 mile wind from the north, gradually increasing. The storm center at that time was said by the weather bureau to be about 150 miles east of the city.

A dispatch from Bimini received here at midnight said that city was being lashed by a 70 mile an hour wind and that the barometer had dropped to 29.47. No mention of any property damage was made.

Meanwhile the hurricane, said by meteorologists to be centered about 100 miles southeast of Miami and moving westward, brought grave fears to the Florida keys and the northern coast of Cuba. Government weather bureau warnings were broadcast to inhabitants of unsheltered keys.

Cuba Out of Danger.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Weather reports issued this afternoon by the national observatory assured Cuba that it would not be visited by the Bahama hurricane. The vortex was 55 miles southeast of Key West today and swerving away from Cuban shores.

Local weather conditions remained unchanged this afternoon. Barometer readings were 29.81 with an 18 mile northwest wind. Skies continued murky and rain squalls were forecast.

The Gulf of Mexico waters were lashed to a fury throughout the forenoon. Exceptionally high waves broke over the Havana seawall, forcing traffic to back streets. Coastwise shipping was stopped. Fishing fleets did not dare venture out in the choppy waters.

Warning from Washington.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The following storm warning was issued tonight by the weather bureau:

"Advisory northeast storm warning continued, Miami to Jupiter. Tropical storm central one hundred miles southeast of Miami, apparently moving very slowly westward, attended by strong shifting gales and probably winds of hurricane force near center.

"Caution advised vessels Florida straits and off southeast Florida coast. Wind will likely reach gale force greater part area Jupiter to Key West within the next twelve hours."

GUNMEN CAUGHT IN TRAP SET BY CICERO POLICE

Three armed men who the Cicero police believe were planning a robbery walked into a trap set by Chief Martin Wojciechowski early this morning and were captured. They were seized as they left the restaurant of Tim Malivetis at 4725 West 22d street, Cicero, where $3,000 was on hand to cash checks of workers in the plant of the Western Electric company.

Chief Wojciechowski, informed that an attempt would be made to hold up the restaurant, concealed three of his men armed with shotguns in the place. The suspects entered the restaurant, but apparently became frightened and walked out again into the arms of the chief and two other policemen. Those in custody are George Popoff, 30 years old, 127 South Halsted street, Chicago, and John Skogereo, 23 years old, and Patrick Rowland, 25, both of whom gave 3125 South 47th court, Cicero, as their address.

Britain and Russia Reach Basis for New Agreement

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The resumption of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Russia seems a step nearer tonight with the official announcement from the foreign office that an agreement has been reached on the list of subjects to be settled by negotiation on the resumption of full diplomatic relations, including the exchange of ambassadors. This is interpreted in many quarters here as a soviet diplomatic victory inasmuch as Moscow insisted on the renewal of the regular diplomatic relations before it would consent to talk about outstanding questions such as debts and communist propaganda.

CRUSADER DIES

Mrs. Virginia Brooks Washburne, who at the age of 25 in 1912 won herself the title of "Joan of Arc of West Hammond" by leading a number of vice raids in that town, died yesterday in Portland, Ore., according to a telegram received by her friends. She had been living in the west for eleven years, conducting a ranch.

West Hammond, now Calumet City, was noted as a "bad town" seventeen years ago. Miss Brooks had inherited a number of pieces of property in the town. As a result of the corruption there the value of this property declined. She determined to clean up vice conditions and after a year of warfare with an unfriendly city government and the vice interests she succeeded.

Her campaign gained nation-wide attention for a time. She led raids upon resorts, bought a newspaper with which she aided her campaign, went into politics and put over a new city government. As a result, the dives were closed and she was given entire credit.

She was married in 1913 to Charles S. Washburne, Chicago newspaperman. They were divorced in 1917. She is survived by a son, Brooks Washburne.

POLICE SEIZE MOTHER, 17, FOR SELLING LIQUOR

A squad of detectives searching for prohibition law violations in Chicago yesterday nabbed a 17 year old mother who was alleged to have sold a half pint of liquor. While her 8 months old baby was left crying at home, Mrs. Gertrude Guttillo, 1167 Townsend street, was taken to jail and later released on bond. She will be arraigned in court today.

Sergt. James Quinn and his squad declared they saw Mrs. Guttillo emerge from the basement floor of her flat with the half pint of liquor and hand it to Oscar Beagan, 56 years old, 1241 Clybourn avenue. The squad charged in courageously and seized the young mother. They also arrested her husband, Anthony, 25 years old, and Beagan, who was accused of disorderly conduct. The young mother was the only person charged with violation of the Illinois prohibition act.

The arrest was termed the inauguration of a campaign to mop up the Chicago avenue police district, in which several hundred saloons and speakeasies are reported to be operating.

State's Attorney R. C. Rice said he will be held without bond.

tion, was in court but denied being Baker's lawyer.

"This means that the police will have to make another search for Baker, whose record is as follows:

Aug. 17, 1926, held to the Criminal court on a charge of burglary.

July 11, 1927, fined $50 and costs for mutilating license plates and sentenced to 60 days for vagrancy.

October, 1927, fined $200 and costs for disorderly conduct by Judge Joseph L. McCarthy.

March 27, 1928, appeared as a defendant on two indictments charging receipt of stolen property. Judge Emmanuel Eller found him not guilty of one charge, but stated that while the evidence was insufficient to convict, he, the judge, was satisfied the defendant was a burglar and that some day the police would get a case on him that would stick.

July 31, 1929, freed.

CHIEF JUSTICE ROILED

Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court said yesterday that he was inclined to believe that incompetency in the state's attorney's office was responsible for the release on $5,000 bail of William Ward, a pickpocket with a record dating back to 1894. Judge Harry B. Miller had increased the bond to $10,000 and ordered it not to be reduced without his knowledge.

The revelations made by the Chicago crime commission in connection with the Ward case gave indications of causing an exchange of statements by the courts and the state's attorney's office.

Judge Normoyle, who had said on Thursday that he would demand explanations from State's Attorney Swanson's office, declared yesterday that instead he would institute a new system on bonds, which would place the responsibility on the police department record bureau. He at the same time issued a brief statement about his observations of the state's attorney's office.

Assails Prosecutor.

"From an examination of the records I am convinced that the state's attorney's office was either imposed on or is incompetent," said Judge Normyle. "And it is probably the latter.

"If the state's attorney's office with all the assistants cannot advise the courts in such matters as the Ward case, what can the courts do?

"This man De Witt [Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt] thinks he is a second Napoleon. He thinks he knows it all, but as a matter of fact knows nothing."

De Witt is in charge of the prosecutor's bond department and is the man who signed the papers allowing the bond forfeiture judgment in the Ward case to be set aside.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who himself sanctioned the reduced bond, came to the aid of De Witt and said that some of the judges were against him because he was making things too hot in bond matters.

"Why should they make so much fuss about a petty larceny case?" he asked. "The judges are not so concerned when they cut bonds from $50,000 to $15,000 in the bombing cases."

"The whole trouble is that the newspapers and every one else is ready to crucify the state's attorney's office if we forget to dot an i or cross a t. I know what is the trouble—it is politics behind all this. We would not get credit for anything we do in this office."

Ward originally skipped his bond when ordered to trial last August. Judge Miller then raised the bond and ordered that no one touch the case without his knowedge. Recently the crime commission discovered that Ward's bond forfeiture was set aside and the bond reduced. The new bond was revoked Thursday when the crime commission apprised Judge Miller of what had occurred without his knowledge.

Strip Mystery from Two New Slates Entered in Judicial Race

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Indignation was mingled with amusement among the politicians yesterday when they stripped the "mystery" from the twin "political principle" judicial tickets which were filed Thursday just before the closing gong sounded. The ancient case of the "Up in the Clouds" dancing club where Blackstone shook a hoof with Terpsichore at a dime a dance, which enlivened the public prints back in 1923, landed smack on the middle of a solemn campaign over the election of judges.

To sketch the day's diversions briefly:

The two mysterious interlocking slates were filed as the nominations of caucuses of citizens. They did not have the signatures required for independent nominations, but were filed under a caucus provision in the election law which for years has been slumbering on the books. County Clerk Sweitzer and other authorities say they are in conformity with law and the tickets cannot be dislodged from the ballot unless all their nominees withdraw.

Judges Repudiated Tickets.

They discovered that one of the twin tickets, the one with Republican makeup, bore the signatures of Justus Chancellor as chairman and W. T. Gridley as secretary of the "caucus" that made up the ticket.

The other twin, the one with Democratic complexion, bore the name of Harry W. Standidge as chairman and W. N. Leonard as secretary of the "corkus."

Hunting up a law directory, the Superior judges pointed out that Mr. Chancellor was president and Mr. Standidge treasurer of the Lawyers' Association of Illinois.

Afraid of Long Ballot.

"I've known about this provision for caucus nominations," said Clerk Sweitzer, "but I've kept my trap closed because I've been afraid that if it became known we'd have maybe a hundred or more caucus tickets filed and the ballot would look like a roll of wall paper. Under this two or three fellows can call themselves a caucus and put up a ticket without going to the trouble of getting signatures for an independent petition.

In danced Terpischore at this juncture. Judges and members of the Bar association spoke of the disbarment proceedings against Mr. Standidge which grew out of the litigation over the "Up in the Clouds" club in the City Hall Square building six years ago of which he was impresario.

The lawyers' association, of which Standidge was at one time president, had quarters on the 21st floor of the City Hall Square building. Three nights a week, the rooms were given over to the dances of the "Up in the Clouds" club. The owners objected and brought action to restrain the dances. During the hearings it was testified that dancing partners were obtained by want ads for "attractive girls." The girls got 5 cents apiece for each of the 10 cent dances. Judge Hugo M. Friend issued a restraining order. The appellate court, composed of Judge Thomas Taylor, J. M. O'Connor, and Charles M. Thomson, upheld the decision.

Standidge Is Suspended.

A damage suit for $100,000 against the three judges was filed by lawyers for Standidge. The Chicago Bar association got busy on the question of disbarment, and on Dec. 20, 1928, the Supreme court suspended Standidge from practice as an attorney for a period of six months. The court held that an attorney bringing civil action against judges for alleged erroneous decision is guilty of unprofessional conduct, and said "It is of the greatest importance to the welfare of the people that for acts within his jurisdiction a judge should be immune from attack in a civil proceeding."

The appearance of the Siamese twin tickets, while regarded by the politicians as a publicity dodge, has muddled the situation somewhat as the judges and the independents view it. The tickets put on names of sitting judges and of lawyers of prominence, some of whom are supposed to be difficult to reach within the five days given for withdrawals. Clarence Darrow, who was put on one ticket, is in Europe; Ada M. Cartwright is in a hospital.

Quiz by Bar Association.

Tuesday is set as the last day for withdrawals, and today the Bar association is to send out messages to all remaining on the new tickets asking if they are bona fide candidates.

Indignation ran high at the La Salle hotel headquarters of the "People's Ticket Against Coalition," which grew out of Edward J. Brundage's onslaught upon machine politics. A statement was put out:

"These two slates," it said, "are an affront to the dignity and importance of a judicial election. What is the motive behind them except to confuse the people by having a number of independent tickets? It has all the earmarks of scheming politicians."

Campaign plans for the Democratic ticket, on which are running the seventeen sitting Superior court judges, were made last night at a conference at the Iroquois club. Clayton F. Smith, county recorder, is to be chairman of the campaign; Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, secretary and, M. S. Szymczak, Superior court clerk, treasurer.

Company Sues Sanitary District; Seeks $900,000

A $900,000 property damage suit was filed in the Circuit court yesterday against the sanitary district by the Illinois Zinc company. The bill alleges that the company suffered damages to that extent to its buildings on the Illinois river at Peru from overflow waters of the sanitary district system. This is one of 1,300 similar suits against the district.

HUNT TWO GIRLS, MAN IN KILLING OF McELLIGOTT

Mother Asks Arrest of Earsman for Slaying.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joe Johnson, contributing to the delinquency of a child, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Fred White, indecent liberties, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge William N. Gemmill.

Two unidentified girls and a young Oak Park man were being sought last night in the latest attempt to solve the slaying last May of Thomas McElligott, labor leader. "Big Dave" Earsman, well known gangster, is the latest underworld figure to become enmeshed in the investigation of the slaying.

The slain McElligott's widowed mother, Mrs. Catherine McElligott, 724 South Kenneth avenue, was responsible for the injection of Earsman's name into the murder inquiry in a sensational scene in the South State street court of Judge John H. Lyle.

While Milton Smith, Earsman's counsel, was trying to smooth over a disorderly conduct charge against Earsman which had precipitated a clash between Judges Lyle and Francis Borelli of the Felony court, McElligott's mother, a woman in early middle age, burst into the room.

Mother Demands Arrest.

"Judge," she called, hurrying up to the bench, "Big Dave Earsman, the man that killed my boy, Tom, is right out her in the hall now. Have him arrested quick."

This announcement was a bit disconcerting to Attorney Smith, who had just got through telling the court that Earsman had not thought it worth while to appear at the disorderly conduct hearing. Judge Borrelli, it seems, had vacated a motion of Judge Lyle's declaring Earsman's bonds to be forfeited.

Several spectators rushed to the corridor to get a glimpse of Earsman. But "Big Dave," if he had been there as Mrs. McElligott had declared, had taken flight.

Judge Lyle advised Mrs. McElligott to take her information about the murder to Judge Borrelli's court.

Name Linked to Murder.

Deputy Commissioner John Stege said Earsman's name long ago was brought into the McElligott killing. He said that Arthur Ryan Jr., of a good Oak Park family, and the two girls sought were with McElligott when the latter was shot to death in a saloon at 361 West Madison street and that the trio since had eluded arrest.

"Ryan is the key man," said Stege. "If Earsman killed McElligott, Ryan should know it."

BRIDE IS SAVED FROM CELL BY PLEA OF JUDGE

Admits Perjury in Annulment Case.

County Judge Fred E. Carpenter of Rockford, Ill., yesterday saved Mrs. Janet Bedard Behrens, 24 years old, 5437 Adams street, from a jail sentence for perjury on which she won an annulment of marriage. Circuit Judge Feinberg canceled the annulment and dismissed her bill for want of equity after she confessed to giving false testimony by declaring that she was intoxicated during the ceremony.

Mrs. Behrens was awarded the annulment decree after a hearing by Judge Feinberg on Sept. 5. She charged that she had been kidnaped from the suitor of her choice, plied with liquor and forced into marriage by Herbert Behrens, a draftsman. She averred that the ceremony was performed by Judge Carpenter in Rockford on May 5, 1929, but she knew nothing of it until the next day when she awoke from a stupor.

Refused to Quit Proposing.

The girl said that she had been engaged to Raymond Pauley, a clerk, when she met Behrens. Behrens refused to accept her denials of his proposals, she said, and persuaded her to take an auto ride. During the ride he gave her liquor and married her, she testified.

The case attracted newspaper comment which was read by Judge Carpenter. He advised Judge Feinberg that Mrs. Behrens' testimony was untrue and demanded a hearing to clear the implied attack on his reputation. Mrs. Behrens was taken into custody and brought before Judge Feinberg.

Judge Carpenter testified that he remembered marrying the couple and that he saw no evidence of liquor on either of them. He was corroborated by his clerk, who added that he had spoken to the couple and exchanged pleasantries with Mrs. Behrens.

Judge Criticizes Girl.

"You are a character assassin," Judge Feinberg addressed Mrs. Behrens. "The rankest injustice has been done to Judge Carpenter. You have challenged his honor as a judge and brought great injury to his reputation.

"It is an outrage for a woman to appear in court and think a judge gullible enough to believe such testimony. I will give you a chance to tell the truth. You owe it for the injury you have brought on Judge Carpenter."

Mrs. Behrens stubbornly insisted through sobs that her story was true. The judge ordered her to reconsider. After two hours she returned to the courtroom and admitted that she had not told the truth. She declared that she remembered the marriage, and had not been drinking. She explained that she had entered into the marriage under a pressure which she could not analyze and was extremely nervous during the ceremony.

Enters Plea for Mercy.

Immediately after her confession Judge Carpenter made a plea for mercy.

"You have come as close to jail as any woman ever has," Judge Feinberg told Mrs. Behrens. "I will make you an example to discourage others who might be inclined to follow your path. I order the bill dismissed for want of equity. Under this order it will be impossible for you to obtain a divorce from your husband for two years. At the end of that period he can secure a decree on a charge of desertion."

STEALS PLANE, FALLS, THEN VANISHES, WITH SPECTATORS NEARBY

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—(Special)—The police of the border cities are searching for a man who stole an airplane from a field near Riverside, Ontario, last night and stunted with it for nearly an hour before he crashed into a rutted pasture, less than 50 yards from where he took off.

The wrecked plane, nose buried deep in the earth, was surrounded by witnesses of the crash less than five minutes after it came down, but the pilot had disappeared. He had been seen frantically working the controls as the plane went into the spin which caused the crash.

At first it was believed the pilot had fallen from the plane and been killed, but a search of the region over which it had been flying brought no trace of a body. The police then adopted the theory that the pilot escaped safely and, fearing arrest, ran away before the dust had cleared from the crash.

There is a possibility that the unknown pilot fell into the Detroit river, as the plane landed only about 300 yards from the bank.

FOUR CHARGED WITH EXTORTION IN PAVING QUIZ

Swanson Gets Ready for City Hall Inquiry.

BY CARL WARREN.

Two alleged labor union racketeers and two gangsters implicated as their associates late yesterday were formally charged by State's Attorney Swanson with conspiracy and extortion in connection with their reported activities with the Chicago asphalt pavers' paving ring.

The four men were accused of extorting $5,000 from Frank J. Lewis, wealthy sponsor of the McGrath & Swanson Construction company, to end a strike of workmen on the south park outer drive project. Issuance of the complaints against them was the last of a series of swift developments during the day in the state's attorney's paving investigation.

Plans City Hall Inquiry.

Among the other developments were the following:

1. Mr. Swanson announced that he is considering use of the paving ring inquiry as an opening wedge to a grand jury investigation of alleged dishonesty and extravagance in the city hall.

2. John A. McGarry, secretary of the Paving Contractors' association, gave out a statement attacking Mr. Lewis as "a cheap, cowardly fourflusher," intimating that he fixed the strike himself because his company could not finish the job on time, and praising the association innocent of any connection with it.

3. Detectives working under Chief Investigator Patrick Roche rounded up five more union officials who were questioned for several hours and then released.

Subcontractor One of Accused.

The four men booked on charges of conspiracy and extortion are James Swan, a subcontractor for the McGrath-Swanson concern; Vito Mirro, agent for the common laborers' union; Dan McGeoghegan, former pal of Midget Fernekes, a convicted robber; and Steve Oswald, member of the south side O'Donnell gang who was jailed in connection with the St. Valentine's day machine gunning of seven men on North Clark street.

The men were brought before Municipal Judge McKinlay after Attorney James McDermott, of the law firm of Bell & Ahern, threatened to obtain their release on writs.

Lewis Tells Bribe Offer.

According to the story told by Mr. Lewis to the state's attorney's office, he came to him on Tuesday after the laborers on the outer drive job quit and offered to fix things up for $5,000. Rowan told Lewis, it was charged, that the strike was ordered at a conference of paving leaders attended by McGarry, Patrick H. Moynihan, president of the Contractors' association, and Richard McCarthy, representing the Conway Paving company.

Mr. Lewis said he gave Rowan $200 in cash and two checks for $2,500 and $300, indorsing the checks himself. After cashing the checks, it was charged, Rowan failed to end the strike. On Thursday he returned to explain that he had been double-crossed, according to the investigators. He was accompanied by McGeoghegan and Oswald, and all three were arrested.

Swanson Takes a Hand.

State's Attorney Swanson took a hand in the inquiry yesterday morning after he heard a report from Roche as to the activities of the night before. He commended Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Keller for their speedy action and announced that the inquiry would be pushed to the limit with the possible impaneling of a special grand jury.

"If a special jury is called," he was asked, "do you think the investigation would be broadened to take in other matters?"

"Undoubtedly," he said.

It has been known for months that Mr. Swanson was awaiting a favorable opportunity to shake up the city hall with an investigation and the paving ring inquiry leads directly into the board of local improvements. Ald. A. F. Albert [43d], recently demanded that the city council invite Mr. Swanson to conduct an investigation. City administration followers recalled yesterday, however, that the inquiry did not develop and they were inclined to look upon Mr. Swanson's statement yesterday as "just another scare."

The reply of Mr. McGarry to Mr. Lewis' charges revealed for the first time the bitterness with which the war of the millionaire philanthropist against the paving combine is being waged.

"We are all thankful that this investigation by the state's attorney has turned this would-be reformer, Lewis, out into the open," McGarry declared. "It shows just how low he would stoop to achieve his ends which are purely selfish and not at all philanthropic. For months he has been working under cover, apparently afraid of the publicity which he has forced upon others."

The conference which Rowan told of attending, McGarry said, was a fiction from beginning to end. Neither he, Mr. Moynihan nor any other member of the Contractors' association ever saw Rowan or had anything to do with the strike, he declared.

Blames Lewis for Strike.

"The real reason for the strike, as I see it, was that Lewis saw that his company was not going to get the south park job finished on time and needed some excuse for delay," McGarry continued. "In my opinion, it was all a frame up. Why did Lewis pay over $5,000 as a bribe if he is on the square? Let him explain that. If the strike wasn't his doing, then the labor leaders are responsible. Certainly the 'paving ring' had nothing to do with it."

The McGrath & Swanson Construction company, Mr. McGarry asserted, is merely an "empty shell" with a long and dubious record. It was formed, he said, in 1924 to do paving in a south side subdivision controlled by Lewis. On that job it became involved in court troubles over refusal to pay a bill, he said, and has been in difficulties of various sorts ever since.

Says Lewis Held Up Bonds.

It was Lewis, with McKinney as his mouthpiece, who attacked the south park outer drive bond issues and held up the improvement for nearly two years, according to McGarry.

"Doesn't it seem rather queer that the same man who delayed the improvement so long finally got the contract when it was awarded?" McGarry said.

So far as the paving ring is concerned, McGarry admitted that five or six companies do most of the work for the city and the other governmental bodies. He said it was because only these few concerns have the equipment to handle big jobs. The reason that smaller contractors cannot break in, he said, is because they do not have the equipment.

Five Union Men Questioned.

The five union men questioned were found at 184 West Washington street, the office of the excavating teamsters' union, where they were looking for John J. [Skinny] Flynn, manager of the union, who is said to have been the one who double crossed Rowan. The five men are Thomas Flynn, brother of the union manager; Frank Moynihan, a city paving inspector; Thomas McPhillips, office secretary; Charles O'Kelly, a city vehicle bureau employé, and James Burns, assistant to Flynn. All denied knowledge of the strike and were released.

A few minutes later John J. Flynn walked into the state's attorney's office, accompanied by his attorney, Everett Jennings.

Flynn said that he knew nothing about Rowan's deal with Mr. Lewis. He said the men of his union had been ordered to strike because he found a half dozen non-union laborers on the job.

ILLINOIS MARRIAGE TOTAL DECREASES AS DIVORCES INCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—There were 79,725 marriages performed and 15,703 divorces granted in Illinois during 1928, according to the department of commerce.

These figures, compared with those for 1927, show a decrease of 497 in the number of marriages and an increase of 719 in the number of divorces for the year.

Cook county, which led all other counties in the number of marriages and divorces in 1928, also showed a decrease in marriages and an increase in divorce during the year.

BOARDER ADMITS HITTING HECKLEY IN WOMAN'S FLAT

Leo Langlois, a chauffeur and "star boarder" in the home of Mrs. Florence Jacobs, 1157 East 47th street, confessed late yesterday to Hyde Park police that he struck Mrs. Jacobs' 62 year old suitor, G. M. Keckley, who has been unconscious in the Chicago hospital since his injuries were discovered by police early Thursday.

Langlois, who has roomed with Mrs. Jacobs for five years, declared that when he went to his room Wednesday night, Keckley, a salesmanager in the firm of his son, O. C. Keckley of Glencoe, and Mrs. Jacobs were quarreling. Both were intoxicated, the boarder asserted.

"I went to sleep but was awakened by someone pushing furniture around," he said. "Keckley and Mrs. Jacobs were tusseling. I interfered and when Keckley struck at me I hit him behind the ear. He fell backwards, knocking his head against a door jam. Neither Mrs. Jacobs nor I thought he was seriously hurt."

A slight improvement in the condition of Keckley, who incurred a skull fracture, was reported by hospital attendants last night. If he dies Langlois will be charged with murder and Mrs. Jacobs with being an accessory, said Capt. Thomas Kilroy of the Hyde Park police.

Fugitive Eagle Keeps Oak Park Firemen Busy

Oak Park firemen sought vainly for hours last night to capture a young eagle which escaped from the back yard of Mrs. Anna Runsey, 222 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, and flew to a tree on the property of Mrs. M. C. Farber, 237 South Elmwood avenue. The bird, which has a wing spread of six feet, fluttered from branch to branch as the firemen tried to trap it. The eagle was the property of M. J. Bilharz, 2205 Eastwood avenue, who captured it in Minnesota some months ago.

FRANCE SHIPS 33 CONVICTS HOME FOR DEATH TRIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANTES, France, Sept. 27.—A prison ship bearing 33 prisoners from the penal colony of French Guiana arrived here today as a preliminary to the most sensational trial in French colonial history. The prisoners have been brought to France to act as defendants and witnesses in the trial for murder of Jean Galmot, deputy of Guiana, who died Aug. 6, 1928, after drinking a cup of broth containing arsenic.

During the rioting in the penal colony following the announcement of the deputy's death four other officials were killed.

The feeling became so high that it was decided that it would only be possible to hold a fair trial within the boundaries of France.

4 Robbers with 1 Gun Hold Up 14 in Saloon; Get $1,300

Four robbers, one carrying a shotgun and the other three unarmed, marched into a saloon at 1900 Wolfram street last night, rifled the cash register of $800 and the pockets of 14 patrons of an estimated $500. The proprietor, Tony Brunke, was tapping a beer barrel in the basement when the robbers walked in. He saved $150 by hiding there until they left.

ISABELLE POPE WILL BECOME BRIDE TONIGHT

Miss Isabelle Pope, former fiancée of William Nelson McClintock, youthful millionaire, whose death of typhoid in 1924 resulted in the trial of his guardian, William Darling Shepherd, on a charge of murder, will be married tonight to Melvin Veeder of Winnetka. The announcement of the marriage follows news that the bitterly contested fight over McClintock's $1,000,000 estate will be settled out of court.

Only members of the two families are to be present at the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pope, 901 Lake avenue, Wilmette.

Mr. Veeder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Veeder Jr., 635 Maple avenue, Winnetka. He is a graduate of Yale university and is an executive of the Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing company. He met Miss Pope when they were students in the New Trier High school.

The Rev. Vere V. Loper, pastor of the First Congregational church of Wilmette, will officiate. Mrs. Sherman Barnett, a sister of the bride, will act as matron of honor, and George Veeder, a brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. The couple will leave immediately for a honeymoon in Europe.

Italian Expedition Fails to Find Clew to Lost Italia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 27.—The Italian expedition which early this summer set out to try to find the remainder of Gen. Umberto Nobile's crew of the dirigible Italia, returned today to northern Norway and reported that they had found no trace of the crew or airship. They said that they consider any hope of finding the men alive gone.

Young Robbers Hold Up 2 in South Side Hotel Shop

Within a few feet of the thronged lobby of the East End Park hotel, 1656 East 53d street, two young robbers last night held up a clerk and customer in the hotel's drug store and escaped with $113. The money was taken from Joseph Holt, the clerk, Kenneth Michael, 8014 Euclid avenue, the customer, and from the cash register.

BREAK IN LEVEE SENDS NEW FLOOD NEAR AUGUSTA

Marooned Georgia City Is Still Believed Safe.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A twenty foot break in the Savannah river levee at a point six miles from Augusta tonight sent a rush of water into the surrounding lowlands. City officials said the break was not expected to endanger Augusta.

The river stage tonight stood at 46.1 with the water still rising slowly. The stream was expected to reach a depth of 47 feet by tomorrow morning. The Savannah river levee that protects Augusta was built to withstand a flood stage of 48.4.

Virtually all business in Augusta was suspended, and residents of the section behind the levee began packing household goods and moving their families to higher ground.

Negro Town Swept Away.

Hamburg, S. C., a Negro settlement just across the river from Augusta, was virtually swept away. Swirling waters were rushing over the housetops, but an exodus of residents began yesterday and no loss of life was reported.

In the lowlands of north Augusta several manufacturing plants have been wrecked. The Augusta Veneer plant was undermined today and the mill was said to be a total loss.

The city is entirely cut off from transportation. Every highway leading out of the city is under water and bridges have been washed out. All railroads have ceased operations.

South Carolina Still Menaced.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Northwestern South Carolina tonight continued menaced by flood and rains, which, during the last 48 hours, have done great damage to crops and put state and county highways out of commission.

In South Carolina a washout on the Little river at the outskirts of Laurens prevented railway traffic between Greenville and that town.

Conditions were reported improved at Spartanburg, although one cotton mill, the Enoree, had been forced to suspend operations when the Enoree river flooded the engine room.

The 5th United States cavalry, after a disastrous experience in Ninety-six creek yesterday, when nearly a dozen horses were drowned and several soldiers barely escaped, was able to proceed to Columbia.

U. S. Woman Makes 6 Mo. Survey of Mongolia Alone

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Sept. 27.—Ethel Johanna Lingren, young American woman, whose absence on a scientific expedition to Mongolia since last April has caused anxiety to the United States consular officials here, returned this week none the worse for her experiences. She made a solitary journey of many weeks among the Tungus Dahurs and other Mongol tribes in outer Mongolia as well as in the Urga district, fronting on Soviet Russian territory.

6 HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR CULT BATTLE MURDERS

Detective Bares Rise of "Moor Temple" Racket.

Six colored members of the "Moorish Science Temple" cult were held to the grand jury on murder charges late yesterday by a coroner's jury of white and colored men, who conducted an inquest into the deaths of the two policemen and the cult member who were killed in Wednesday's gun battle around one of the cult headquarters at 4139 South Park way.

Ira Johnson, also known by the name of "Ria," the "sheikh," was held as the actual killer of Policeman William Gallagher in Wednesday's battle. He was also held for the murder of Claude Green, a cult member, who was slain on March 14 in a hall at 3140 Indiana avenue.

Five Others Held.

The five other men held are Eugene Jackson, one John Doe, Compton Johnson, Mose Jackson, and one Emile, known by the "Moorish temple" title of "El." These five, each of whom bore either an "el" or a "bey" after his name, were held as accessories for the murders of both Policeman Gallagher and Policeman Jesse Hults, the second policeman shot to death in the battle last Wednesday.

The jury in its verdict commended Sergt. John O'Toole and Sergt. Frank Reynolds for their courage in the face of a withering fire from guns of the cult members, barricaded inside the south Park way flat. It was Sergt. Reynolds who followed D. Stephenson, one of the cult leaders, through darkened corridors to a flat on the third floor at 4147 South Park way, and there killed him as he tried to shoot Reynolds.

While the inquest was on, Sheridan A. Bruseaux, head of the Keystone National Detective agency at 47th street and South Park way, laid information concerning the origin and conduct of the Moorish cult before Deputy Commissioner Stege and Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne.

Charges Cult Is Racket.

This information was that the cult was operated by the leaders as a racket, that it had twenty-one "temples" in various cities in the United States, and that the income to the heads was between $15,000 and $18,000 a month.

"These leaders, denying under the cult oath their negro blood, posed at Moors," Detective Bruseaux said. "They duped the poor and the ignorant into believing they also were not Black but Moorish, taught them hatred of their negro neighbors and collected thousands of dollars from them.

"Women and men alike were taken into the cult. The women paid $1 a month dues, the men $2. The members were given the title of "El," which they affixed to their names; and the officers took the title of "Bey." There are branches in Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, New York, Washington, D. C., Atlantic City, and other places. In all they have had 12,000 to 15,000 members."

Cult Started in 1923.

Bruseaux said that the cult was originated in South Carolina, in 1923, by one Eli Drew, who took the title of "The Prophet of Allah." "Temples" were organized in several South Carolina cities. Then Drew moved to North Carolina and on into Virginia. Drew posed as a Moor, born in Europe. He was born in the south. He was a Negro.

Drew, according to the colored detective, moved from Virginia to Washington, D. C., to New York, on to Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and then to Detroit. He came to Chicago three years ago, Bruseaux said, and because of the large Negro population on the South Side here, established "national headquarters."

Fake Moslem Teaching.

"Drew clothed himself in mystery and purported to spread the 'teachings of Allah,'" Bruseaux said. "As a matter of fact he knew a smattering of the eastern religions and that was enough to fool his ignorant dupes."

Once well established in Chicago, Bruseaux continued, Drew made Claude Green his right hand man, set himself up a "harem," took in the money from all over the country and proceeded to live in oriental style.

When elections came along Drew threw his support to the colored politicians who could do him the most good, Bruseaux said, and during the last aldermanic election he supported one candidate from the Second ward against two others.

Hold National Convention.

The second year he was in Chicago Drew held a national convention, which was attended by delegates from all the other cities. He formed a "board of governors," who drew no pay, to function for the cult.

Only two weeks ago the second annual convention was held, and delegates representing some 10,000 members of the cult attended.

But Drew died shortly after Green, his assistant, was murdered in a meeting at 3140 Indiana avenue, on March 14 last. Green and Drew, who was reputed to have had at least two wives, grew bitter in a quarrel over a woman, Bruseaux said. Green was riddled with bullets. Drew was arrested as a suspect, but released and the murder apparently forgotten by the authorities.

Offers Prosecutor Job.

Drew died shortly after this trouble. On his deathbed he asked that Aaron Payne, colored, an assistant city prosecutor, succeed him as "The Prophet," Bruseaux said. Payne, however, declined the honor and became "business manager" of the cult.

Payne testified at the inquest yesterday that he has received five threats of death since the battle on Wednesday and that his home is being guarded by a police squad.

Coming to Wednesday's battle, Bruseaux said that Charles Kirkman, kidnaped just before the battle, and others, had organized a new cult among the Negroes of the north and west side colonies. They also retained some control in the old Drew organization. There had been strife ever since Drew died as to who would take over the fat controlling jobs. That caused the split, the kidnaping of Kirkman and determined the faction headed by Ira Johnson to arm themselves to fight "our enemies, police or anybody else who interferes."

Bruseaux said that after Drew died his former chauffeur fled with his $6,000 automobile, and that his secretary, a young woman, has been missing, as has his bank account, said to contain between $60,000 and $100,000.

DAN MOODY.

TROOPERS TO ASSAIL "CRIMINAL RING" OF OIL TOWN IN TEXAS

Austin, Tex., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Gov. Dan Moody tonight prepared to send state troops to Borger, oil town where District Attorney John A. Holmes recently was assassinated, to dislodge what he called an "organized and entrenched criminal ring." The only thing likely to avert martial law is resignation of certain county officers.

"The peace officers are for some reason failing to suppress crime and bring criminals to justice," Gov. Moody said.

Information gathered by state investigators, he asserted, indicated that the assassination of the district attorney "was brought about by a conspiracy among the peace officers."

The governor said "the law abiding citizenship had been intimidated and is living under a menace which prevents their giving information on law violators."

"We have affidavits showing that money has passed to peace officers for protection from enforcement of the law," he averred.

Witnesses questioned regarding law violations have been threatened and in some cases run out of the county, he said.

JOE BERTSCHE AGAIN TRYING TO OUTWIT LAW

Joe Bertsche, Chicago safeblower, with a record extending back to 1898, who has been termed by police one of the most elusive criminals they have encountered, was reported yesterday in dispatches from Cincinnati to have started another legal maneuver to outwit the law.

Through an attorney, Bertsche yesterday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to release him from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where he has served a two years term. He was sentenced to serve a second term of two years, but now contends that he should be released because the indictments upon which he was convicted were both for the same offense, a $100,000 mail robbery in Cincinnati in 1921.

Bertsche, when finally arrested in Chicago for the mail robbery, evaded extradition for many weeks by his moves in the courts. Through the use of clever counsel he has been able to stay out of prison on many other occasions, according to his record.

Six Children Are Burned to Death in Their Home

Danforth, Me., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Six children, ranging in age from 2 to 8 years, were burned to death today when fire destroyed the farm home of Llewellyn Munsey in West Danforth.

WIFE HE LEFT BEHIND BOBS UP, CHARGES BIGAMY

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Charles Athlone O'Sullivan Sloan, 31, was locked up in the Tombs today in default of $10,000 bail on indictments charging bigamy and perjury. Mr. Sloan is head of the National Radio Press association.

Complications with his second wife, and a small report thereof in a New York newspaper led to Mr. Sloan's present dilemma. The wife he left behind in Grand Rapids in 1925, happened about two weeks ago in Grand Rapids to pick up a New York newspaper published in April, and noted an item reporting that Charles Athlone O'Sullivan Sloan was being sued for separation.

The Michigan Mrs. Sloan immediately telegraphed her suspicions to District Attorney Joab H. Banton, who investigated. Last week both wives appeared before the grand jury and Charles Athlone O'Sullivan Sloan was indicted.

The records show that he married Dorothy Mogue of Tudor City, Mich., Oct. 3, 1925, after she had nursed him in St. Luke's hospital, through an appendicitis operation; and that he had married Gladys Robinson in Grand Rapids on Nov. 29, 1919. After two children were born, Mr. Sloan deserted her, the first Mrs. Sloan declared.

BANGS, TRANSIT COUNSEL, IS OFF CITY'S PAY ROLL

Frederick A. Bangs, an assistant corporation counsel assigned to the council local transportation committee, was taken off the city pay rolls yesterday by Corporation Counsel Ettleson. Bangs, who was paid $100 a day and still has $4,000 coming from the city, was told that his services could not be afforded and approval of his salary vouchers could not be obtained. His salary came from the $212,000 appropriated from the transit fund by the council in January as did that of Edward C. Higgins, also an assistant corporation counsel on transit matters. Ald. Joseph B. McDonough [18th], chairman of the transit committee, notified Ettleson that he wouldn't approve the salaries of both and Mr. Ettleson announced that he couldn't dispense with the services of Higgins.

POLICE MENACE U. S. WITNESS IN INDIANA INQUIRY

Prosecutor Vows He Will Punish Terrorists.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—An attempt to intimidate government witnesses in the northern Indiana graft investigation was revealed today. It caused the United States prosecutors to take drastic steps to trace those guilty.

JOHN PRATT.

Assistant United States District Attorney Oscar B. Luhring, in charge of criminal prosecutions, was buttonholed by a witness who had testified concerning violations of the prohibition law in East Chicago. This man reported that he had been visited by members of the East Chicago police force and threatened with assault and with tar and feathers unless he repented his testimony or left his business and the county at once.

It was also reported that gangsters had threatened other witnesses who have talked to the grand jury.

Death Threat Reported.

Several days ago one witness, whose name was withheld, was reported to have been accosted by two men who told him he would be taken for a ride unless he left the county.

District Attorney Oliver Loomis has placed three men and one woman, accused of having threatened witnesses, under arrest.

Ralph Bradford, former political adviser to the Ku Klux Klan in Gary, who has aided the government in the investigation, reported that one of his witnesses rushed into his office on Wednesday crying that he had been followed by two men in an automobile.

Still another witness, according to government agents, reported having been fired upon as he drove south of the Lake county line.

District Attorney Loomis gave emphatic orders that the identity of all witnesses who have been threatened should be carefully guarded and assigned agents to seek those responsible.

Luhring Is Angry.

"I am amazed at the boldness of these attempts," said Mr. Luhring tonight. "We shall take the most energetic means of protecting government witnesses. Every resource of the department of justice shall be employed, if necessary, to place these terrorists in prison.

Special Assistant U. S. Attorney John Pratt granted his first interview today. He said the grand jury would make its report on or before Oct. 5. It is expected that indictments will be returned naming 200 or more defendants. The jury has been investigating the conduct of various officials of Lake county, also of a number of high prohibition officers, but it is expected that insufficient evidence has been presented to this jury to warrant their indictment.

Will Call New Jury.

Mr. Pratt announced that the present jury would be discharged and another body immediately impaneled to continue the investigation.

Following the conferences held here yesterday and today between Mr. Luhring, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran and their assistants, it was reported that the prosecution will continue until every official guilty of alliance with vice lords and bootleggers is under indictment.

The grand jury adjourned until Monday morning, when additional witnesses will be ready. Prosecutor Pratt left for the week-end for his home in Toledo, O.

Mr. Luhring was asked what progress had been made in the announced intention of the government to "dry up" the Chicago area.

"That apparently has fallen through," he said. "Until we have assurance that we are able to go completely to the bottom of the Chicago situation, nothing will be determined."

Fight Slayer's Release.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Hearing of a habeas corpus petition to free Nick Sudovich, East Chicago beer lord, on bond pending his trial for the murder of Urash Marvich, East Chicago racketeer, probably will be continued when called tomorrow morning in Judge Charles E. Greenwald's Superior court here.

Robert Moore, attorney for Sudovich, today said the he might seek to have the hearing transferred to some other court. Prosecutor Oliver Starr, who is opposing attempts to free Sudovich, said the hearing should be held in Lake Criminal court. Moore and other defense attorneys will determine their course at a conference here tomorrow morning.

Among witnesses said to have been subpoenaed, is District Attorney Oliver Loomis of South Bend and Al Armstrong, now serving a life sentence in Michigan City prison for the Marvich murder.

Sudovich is under arrest by the government in Lake County conspiracy.

Payment Denied

The $100,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Ruth Tromley, 28 years old, former model, of the Ambassador hotel, against Charles A. Channell, president of the O'Cedar Mop corporation, has been dropped. This was announced yesterday by her attorney, Maurice L. Hill, who refused to confirm reports that his client received a settlement of $25,000. Channell denied that a settlement has been made. Miss Tromley charged that Channell proposed marriage to her shortly after he met her at a loop party. Channell, who is married, described the charge as preposterous.

MAYOR WALKER AID LINKED WITH DEAD GAMBLER

La Guardia Says Rothstein Loaned Judge $19,940.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Fiorella H. La Guardia, Republican nominee for mayor, declared tonight that City Magistrate Albert Vitale of the Bronx had received a loan of $19,940 from Arnold Rothstein, the slain gambler, in return for his note, payable on July 2, 1923. La Guardia added that documents in the much discussed files of the murdered gambler would prove his statement to be true.

Mr. La Guardia called upon Mayor James J. Walker either to "repudiate or support Judge Vitale."

The Bronx magistrate is an aid in the Walker campaign, occupying a key position in the Democratic fight in his own borough.

The La Guardia statement bears out to some extent charges made by Former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, Square Deal candidate for mayor, that persons in public life had borrowed money from Rothstein. Mr. La Guardia made the charge after he had been informed that District Attorney Banton had denied that notes or any other documents compromising politicians or public men were to be found in the Rothstein files.

La Guardia's Statement.

Mr. La Guardia's statement reads in part:

"When Mr. Banton said the Rothstein files contained no notes or documents compromising to men in political or public life he did not make a correct statement.

"The files will show, in copy, that a letter was sent by Rothstein, transmitting a check for $19,940, being the proceeds of a note due July 2, 1928, to the Hon. Albert Vitale, a city magistrate in the Bronx, and expressing the happiness of Mr. Rothstein at being able to accommodate the judge.

"Judge Vitale is at this moment campaigning for Mayor Walker, has made several speeches and has announced the formation by him of an Italian-American committee to support the mayor. I ask Mayor Walker either to repudiate or support Judge Vitale. I am sure that Mayor Walker at least will call upon a city magistrate to explain a $19,000 check received from a man who, Mr. Banton declares, was a notorious gambler."

Banton Denies Charges.

When Mr. Banton was told that La Guardia had charged there is a copy of a letter in the Rothstein files showing that Rothstein had lent $19,940 to Magistrate Vitale, the district attorney said:

"I know nothing about it. I never heard of it."

Magistrate Vitale admitted he had obtained a loan from a corporation controlled by Rothstein, but denied there was a "personal transaction" between him and the gambler.

"On June 15, 1928," Judge Vitale said, "I met a personal friend of mine, a professional man of high standing whose name I do not care to bring into this controversy because he has since died. I mentioned that I needed about $25,000 in ready cash temporarily, and he promised to see what he could do for me. I have him a note bearing my signature, but made out in blank.

"On either June 17 or 18, I am not quite sure which, I received by a messenger a letter coontaining a check for $19,940, representing a loan of $20,000 less the interest for two weeks. Either the letter or the check bore Arnold Rothstein's signature, and that was my first knowledge that he was concerned in the transaction.

"I want to make it emphatic that the transaction was not a personal one between Rothstein and myself. I had only met Rothstein twice in my life and I never went to him to borrow money. My acquaintance with him was only a casual one.

"When the note became due on July 2 I drew my personal check on the Claremont National bank for $20,000, payable to the Rothmere Mortgage corporation, and mailed it to them. I have the canceled check in my possession now, showing my repayment of the loan."

Set Trial in October.

Mr. Banton explained that necessary technicalities would prevent him from trying McManus next week, but that he expected to try him the second week of October, which would make possible a verdict before election.

Mr. Banton's decision to bring McManus to trial without Hyman Iller, who, with two other unnamed men, was indicted with him, followed repeated charges of neglect and incompetency on the part of his office and the police, by former Police Commissioner Enright, La Guardia and Frederic R. Coudert Jr., Republican candidate for district attorney. Each had charged the police and the district attorney's office had protected politicians.

Mr. Coudert charged that papers had been abstracted from the Rothstein files after they had come into the possession of the district attorney and Mr. La Guardia named Nathan Burkan, a lawyer and a Tammany assembly district leader, as the man who now had the "little black books" in which Rothstein kept accounts of money loaned by him.

DORAN GOES WEST

Prohibition Commissioner James N. Doran and Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley of the Chicago district, following a lengthy conference yesterday in Yellowley's office, presumably concerning the booze grand jury probe at South Bend, Ind., declined to make any statements.

Last night both Doran and Yellowley were en route to Duluth, Minn., to confer there with S. V. Qvale, dry chief of that territory. Commissioner Doran declined to state the purpose of the trip and neither of them would say why Mr. Yellowley went along.

BAND LEADER SOUSA STRICKEN BY ILLNESS AT SYRACUSE HOTEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—John Philip Sousa, famous bandmaster, is seriously ill tonight following an attack of acute indigestion which he suffered this afternoon.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

He came here with his band to give concerts this afternoon and evening and became ill in the hotel lobby while conversing with Melville Clark, a local music leader and one of the sponsors of the concerts. He was taken immediately to his suite, and Dr. A. E. Larkin was called. Dr. Larkin announced later that the patient's condition had improved.

While conversing with Mr. Clark Mr. Sousa remarked: "I don't feel very well. In fact, I haven't since my accident." He was referring to a train accident in the west recently in which his band was involved.

"If you will excuse me," he added, "I will lie down for a few minutes."

Mr. Clark accompanied the bandmaster to his rooms and called the physician. The outcome of the attack was in doubt tonight, although at the hotel it was said Mr. Sousa was responding slowly to treatment.

Although he is 75 years old, Mr. Sousa carries his years lightly. He says he does a "daily dozen" every morning—except when he's too sleepy—and tries to walk as much as he can.

Flaw in Search Warrant Saves Gary Bootlegger

Calls London's 'Napoleon of Finance' $4,300,000 Forger

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Charges described as "shocking" and "without precedent in the financial history of London" were made today by H. D. Roome, appearing in behalf of the director of public prosecutions against Clarence Hatry and his three associates, chief figures in the recent stock market crash, which cost investors $40,000,000.

Mr. Roome said more than $4,300,000 of documents which had been forged by Hatry had already been found, and he hinted that the amount would probably go beyond that figure when the final checking up of activities of the "Napoleon of London finance" were finished.

The prosecutor told an amazing story of deliberate forgeries engineered by Hatry who, he said, seemingly faked securities right and left in order to float and maintain his various financial firms.

Reveals Some of Forgeries.

He charged specifically that six months after the City of Wakefield loan was subscribed and the books closed, eighty Wakefield loan certificates, each valued at $24,000, were forged in order to raise money for Austin Friars Trust, Ltd., one of the Hatry companies.

Later five hundred spurious certificates of $2,400 each of the Gloucester loan, were also printed.

The same thing was done with the Swindon loan in connection with which there was a fake issue of $12,100,000 in five hundred certificates of $2,420 each printed.

Financiers Face Bankruptcy.

At the conclusion of his speech at Guildhall, which was packed to the door with nervous financiers, many of whom are practically bankrupt as a result of the collapse of Hatry's companies, the prosecutor told the court that the men are liable to a fifteen year prison sentence. He predicted financial ruin for many who up to now believed that they would survive the crash.

Hatry, in a signed statement read to the court, said that he wished to assume complete responsibility himself. "Neither I nor my creditors are personally benefited by all of this."

The defendant's attorneys made pleas for bail, but the judge ordered them back to prison.

$3,500 Radium Is Missing; Fear Nurse Threw It Away

Fifty milligrams of radium, valued at $3,500, were reported missing last night from the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital south of Maywood. Supt. Hugh Scott said he believed the radium had been accidentally thrown in an incinerator by a nurse. The nurse used the radium, which was in a special container, in treating a patient. Ashes in the incinerator will be searched this morning by the use of an electroscope, which will reveal if the radium is present.

LORD BIRKENHEAD IS GLOOMY OVER DISARM PROJECT

British Statesman Here on Business Trip.

Expressing hope for their success, but adding a word of caution and none too optimistic about "these praiseworthy idealisms," Lord Birkenhead, former lord chancellor of England, more recently secretary of state for India, last evening discussed the approaching naval disarmament discussions between President Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald, premier of Great Britain.

The former British statesman made it plain he believes many difficulties beset the path to disarmament. He hoped, he said, that the President and the premier would not reckon without the other world powers, pointing out that no agreements would be of value unless all the powers agreed. In a word, he said in effect, "I'm for them, but I don't think they'll get anywhere."

Here on Business Mission.

Lord Birkenhead arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Century. At present out of politics and one of the directors of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., the $350,000,000 British chemical trust, he was met by Harley L. Clarke, president of the Utility Power and Light corporation.

He was taken to luncheon at the Chicago club and later went to the Drake hotel, where he is to remain during the three days he hopes to stay in Chicago. He said he is to go to St. Louis and Indianapolis, then back to Chicago and on to Montreal and back to London.

"Both Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald, in the responsible positions they hold, must obviously see conclusively how far a conference between them, at this stage, might be fruitful," Lord Birkenhead said. "I am prepared to hope that they are right. But as one who has always been very cautious in these praiseworthy idealisms, I must point out that the performances of these distinguished men must be conditioned, in the case of the President, upon the support of congress, and, in the case of the British prime minister, upon the support of parliament.

Not Two Nations' Problem.

"I cannot and do not believe that these important personages have embarked upon these discussions without satisfying themselves that they will, as President Wilson would have said, beyond a peradventure be prepared to deliver any goods for which they contract.

"But it should certainly be borne in mind that the problem is not limited to the conveniences of the United States and of Great Britain.

"Other naval powers must adhere if a solution of any value is to be attained.

"A nation, for instance, which cannot afford cruisers, still less battleships, may easily be able to provide itself with formidable strength in submarines. Such is the case of France.

Must Bind All Nations.

"No naval agreements will have any real value for the peace of the world which do not bind all competitive naval powers in every class of vessel which has destructive capacity.

"I wish the negotiators in the matter very well. But I hope that they have completely realized the difficulties which confront them."

Lord Birkenhead stopped there and said that was "quite enough." He was asked concerning the part chemistry might play in possible future wars. He said:

"Of course the very nature of chemistry is not one for the preservation of peace, but one of preparedness for war. If I were to venture a prediction I would say that if there is another war the power of chemistry for destructiveness will be magnified 100 fold over what it was in the world war."

Sir Laming Gives Views.

Sir Laming Worthington Evans, former secretary of war for the Conservative government, had dropped in while the earl was discussing disarmament. Sir Laming interposed his views on the subject with a chuckle and one pithy sentence. It was to the effect that disarmament was like prohibition—fraught with trouble, and not likely to be any more successful.

"Yet, I think it is coming," he said, "I believe they'll do it."

Some one asked Lord Birkenhead concerning a prediction he had made in an article recently in an American periodical that men in the next 100 years would live to be 150 years old.

"I don't remember it!" he chuckled. "But if I wrote it it must be so. Anyway, I'll be gone before any one can dispute it."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Three distinguished countrymen of Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister, have preceded him to the United States on good will business missions during the last three weeks.

A checkup on the eve of the departure of the MacDonald "good will" mission to this country reveals that one former British cabinet member is now engaged in a speaking tour throughout the west, while two former holders of portfolios in the recently overthrown Conservative government have been in New York for the last two weeks.

Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer and one of the most colorful British statesmen of the present day, is traveling in the far west on what he describes as a holiday. The other two distinguished Britons, the earl of Birkenhead, formerly secretary of state for India, and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, secretary for war in the Baldwin cabinet, are now in America.

Presence Causes Speculation.

The presence of so many influential British citizens in this country at a time when the United States and Great Britain are attempting to bring about a formal five power conference for the curtailment of naval armaments has aroused considerable speculation as to whether this is not just another indication of Great Britain's intention to have her side of the naval argument thoroughly understood in the United States prior to the convening of the pariey.

Lord Birkenhead and Sir Worthington-Evans have described their visit as a purely business one. As the chairman of the Greater London and Counties Trust, Ltd., British affiliate of the Utilities Power and Light corporation, Lord Birkenhead and his associates, it was explained, are in this country to study closely the operation and management of American public utilities and to obtain further assistance from American associates in solving the problems of the electric power industry in Great Britain.

Favors Small Cruisers.

Lord Birkenhead found time, however, on his arrival to stress the traditional British position in favor of a large number of small cruisers for defense purposes.

"It is vitally important," Lord Birkenhead said during an interview, "to remember that the situation of the British empire is distinguishable from that of any other nation or collection of nations in the world. We are not self-supporting. We have a world-wide empire, to the protection of which we are pledged. With a realization of these tasks a certain number of light cruisers is indispensable. No British minister could survive parliamentary debate if he made an agreement with fell short of this minimum. With good faith on both sides I see no reason why an agreement should not be obtainable."

For Better Relations.

Although an advocate of ample naval resources for the British empire, Winston Churchill has refrained from mentioning the naval reduction negotiations in his public addresses in this country. The former chancellor, however, spoke in favor of closer British-American relations during a recent speech at Los Angeles. In his address Mr. Churchill asserted that "the peace of the world can best be assured by the coöperation of the two great English speaking democracies."

In closing Mr. Churchill stated that arguments in behalf of closer Anglo-American unity "will never be expressed on this side of the Atlantic ocean without a sincere response and even an eager response from our small island in the northern seas."

An invitation to the five power parley had not yet been received at the state department at closing time tonight, and officials expressed the view that it would not arrive from London for at least another day or two.

Name Judges to Confer on Arbitration Plan

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court yesterday appointed a committee of five judges to confer with the Bar association on his plan of introducing arbitration in civil suits. The judges on the committee are Daniel H. Trude, Philip J. Finnegan, Freeman L. Fairbanks, George Curran, and John J. Rooney. Under the plan of the chief justice a board of three arbitrators will be judges of fact in civil suits. The arbitrators are to be named by members of their business, and will submit their findings to courts.

ROSSI, OLD FOE OF MUSSOLINI, GIVEN 30 YEAR SENTENCE

ROME, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Cesare Rossi, anti-Fascist leader, who was charged with conspiracy to overthrow the régime and with fomenting attempts on the life of Premier Mussolini, was sentenced to thirty years imprisonment by a special tribunal today.

Rossi, while still a Fascist functionary, was imprisoned in connection with the famous Matteotti murder. He was released but kept under observation. Then he fled to France by automobile and motorboat and began publishing anti-Fascist documents.

Last summer Rossi went to Lugano, Switzerland, where, according to the prosecution's outline, he intended to sell more documents to some one who would use them inside Italy to damage the Fascist régime. Rossi was decoyed over the Italian-Swiss frontier and arrested and he has since been in prison.

The prosecution today declared that Rossi's intercepted coded correspondence showed that he was in contact not only with political exiles but with Italian communists, French Free Masons, and the soviets.

MACDONALD OFF FOR AMERICA ON MISSION OF PEACE

London Says Bon Voyage with Songs, Cheers.

States and Canada and to the renewal of old and making of new friendships there."

Attired in a silk hat and an afternoon frock coat, and for once not smoking his underslung pipe, Ambassador Dawes, accompanied by Ray Atherton, counsellor of the American embassy, arrived at the station five minutes after Mr. MacDonald.

Gen. Dawes, smiling from ear to ear, stepped nimbly up to the prime minister and shook his hand with good mid-west vigor. Photographers snapped the ambassador and prime minister. The photographs being over, Gen. Dawes unearthed his well known pipe from one of his pockets and then the photographers wanted more pictures.

Ishbel Appears Nervous.

Miss Ishbel MacDonald, the prime minister's daughter, walking on the arm of her father, appeared slightly nervous at the noisy reception when the party arrived at the station.

Simply attired in a dark, close fitting felt hat, a dark coat with a plain chinchilla collar, she hugged her father's arm while the two posed for photographers. The she chatted with Gen. Dawes and other officials and her nervousness seemed to wear off.

She is traveling extremely light, friends said, and so far is totally unconcerned about the niceties of Washington's society or whom she sits next to at anybody's dinner party.

Crowd Sings Farewell.

While folk of all description, standing on the tops of automobiles, were yelling and singing the "Red Flag," "Good Old Ramsay," and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and finally "Auld Lang Syne," Mr. MacDonald was tucking away in his pocket a last minute message from King George.

"On the eve of your journey," the king wired him from Sandringham, "I wish you Godspeed. It is a departure that will be surrounded with good wishes, for it is a contribution to those happy relations between two great peoples, which must be an article of faith among all men of goodwill."

Mr. MacDonald sent a reply to the monarch as follows:

"With my humble duty to your majesty I am deeply grateful for your majesty's gracious and kindly thought in sending me good wishes for a journey which will indeed, I trust, be a fruitful innovation."

Members of Party.

This afternoon the prime minister had a final conference with A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty. The conversation was brief, but it is understood that they went over certain points in the naval agreement which Mr. MacDonald will discuss with President Hoover. Then he saw Tom Kennedy, chief government whip, about political matters, for Mr. MacDonald is not returning until Nov. 4, six days after parliament has convoked. In his absence Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, will act as prime minister.

Besides the prime minister and his daughter, the party consisted of Sir Robert Vansittart, principal private secretary; T. T. Jones, deputy secretary of the cabinet; A. L. Craigie, head of the American department of the foreign office; Miss Rose Rosenberg, personal private secretary to the prime minister.

EVADES SHIP CROWD

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 27.—Some hundreds of passengers who boarded the Berengaria before Premier MacDonald's arrival crowded the passenger gangway to see him come aboard, but they were disappointed. The prime minister and his party boarded the ship by a private gangway, where they were met by Sir Arthur Rostran, Cunard line commodore, who is in command of the ship.

The prime minister was in the best of spirits, smiling and chatting with members of his party. He greeted the commodore, who is an old friend. He retired at once to the imperial suite, which was set apart for the former kaiser when the Berengaria was built.

The Berengaria has never been so full as it is this trip. There isn't a vacant berth, and many late comers are quartered three and four in a room, while some first class passengers were compelled to accept third class accommodations.

The largest party of newspaper men ever known on such a trip is accompanying the MacDonald party. In all there are about thirty.

The Berengaria sails at 7 a. m. tomorrow morning, if not delayed by a fog which has been present in the early morning at Southampton for the last two or three days.

TORCH SLAYER FOUND GUILTY AND SENTENCED

Youth Who Killed Wife Escapes Chair.

the period given over to summing up, a period in which Mr. Syme had charged that much of the state's evidence was "framed," that Capt. Michael Silverstein, to whom Peacox had confessed, withheld part of the youth's confession to be able to say, "I've killed another one," and that Frances Newman, the dance hall girl with whom Peacox had been friendly, perjured herself when she testified he had threatened his wife.

Evidence Called Insufficient.

Insufficient evidence had been presented to convict "a yellow dog," Mr. Syme argued for Peacox. The state was undecided even whether the defendant's wife died by strangulation or was smothered to death, he declared.

Mr. Syme charged also that Dr. Amos Squire, county medical examinerr, who testified that the murdered girl was killed by "manual strangulation," had reported after his autopsy that she had died by "suffocation."

"When did he change his mind?" the lawyer demanded. "Was it at a conference before the trial started when it was found a change would have to be made to get a conviction?"

Suffers Hard Knocks.

Mr. Syme described the youth as one who had the hardest and worst breaks in life that any human being ever had crowded on his shoulders.

"Earl never meant to kill his wife any more than I mean to kill this faithful old woman here," said Mr. Syme.

"There wasn't any more reason for Earl to kill his wife than for me to reach over and strike down Juror No. 4," said Mr. Syme.

"Any one intending to kill his wife wouldn't take her to a place where every pin dropped on the floor could be heard in the apartment below. He drove with her past waste lands on the way to Mount Vernon, and he had a pistol in his pocket if he had wanted to get rid of her in a quiet place where no could could hear what was happening.

Infidelity Charge Disregarded.

Declaring that "adultery gives no license to kill," Justice Tompkins instructed the jurors to disregard all the evidence of the wife's alleged infidelities except "as they bear upon the state of mind of the defendant at the time of this killing."

Likewise, he dismissed from the jury's consideration on one count in the indictment, explaining that the allegation that Peacox had tied a piece of rope about his wife's throat, causing her death, was incompatible with the rest of the state's case, since this act took place in the woods near Greenburg, "while it had been proven that death occurred in defendant's apartment in Mount Vernon." The allegations that Peacox choked his wife with his hands until she was dead, and that he suffocated her by knotting a towel about her head and throat were allowed to stand.

DU PAGE BANKS, POLICE TO FIGHT CRIME BY RADIO

Sheriff Lawrence Hattendorf of Du Page county yesterday announced plans to equip banks and police stations in the county with low wave length radio transmitters and receivers. The plans will be presented to the county board in Wheaton for approval Oct. 9.

"There are about twenty-five banks in the county and fifteen police departments in the various towns that could be included in our proposed police radio alarm system," the sheriff declared. "The reports of any crime in any portion of the county could be flashed to every station simultaneously, thus increasing the chances of apprehending offenders. The master station would be located in the courthouse at Wheaton."

County officials said they became interested in the plan as a result of THE TRIBUNE'S successful experiment in supplying detective squad cars in Chicago with radio sets.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS KILLED AS AUTO UPSETS IN DITCH

Two Officers on Way to Jail with Prisoners.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Gordon Leonard of Du Page county was almost instantly killed, Deputy Ralph Hoy was fatally injured, and a motorist they had arrested for drunken driving was seriously hurt last evening in an odd automobile accident on Roosevelt road, three miles east of Wheaton.

The sheriff's sedan, driven by the chief deputy, with Hoy and the prisoner in the rear seat, left the straight stretch of concrete at the foot of a long steep grade known as Baker's hill. The heavy car rode the clay shoulder of the road for 20 feet, careened into a five foot ditch and rolled over three times.

Motorist Sees Accident.

That much was seen by another motorist, who said he was a quarter mile behind when the sheriff's car hit the ditch. This witness, apparently the only one besides the injured prisoner, telephoned the sheriff's office at Wheaton, but drove on before his name could be ascertained.

When Sheriff Ray Hattendorf reached the scene the sedan was upside down, with its front wheels to the east, the reverse of the direction it had been traveling. He and his deputies sped with Leonard, Hoy, and the prisoner to the Elmhurst hospital. Leonard was pronounced dead when he was taken into the hospital and Hoy died within an hour without regaining consciousness.

Can't Recall Accident.

The sheriff questioned the prisoner, Adolph Gall, a York Center farmer, 50 years old. Gall, who was being taken to the jail in Wheaton, declared he could recollect nothing from the time he had been taken from his own car at Roosevelt and Butterfield roads until he opened his eyes in the hospital. He sustained a fractured left leg.

Sheriff Hattendorf said he could see only two plausible explanations for the accident. Either the intoxicated prisoner lunged over and wrested the wheel from the chief deputy or else the steering mechanism was defective, the sheriff believes. He plans to examine the wreckage today for evidence of a defect and, if he finds none, will proceed on the theory that the prisoner caused the deaths of his deputies.

Leonard was 37 years old, unmarried, and a candidate for sheriff in the coming April primaries. He lived at 35 East North street, West Chicago. Hoy was 32 years old, married, and the father of two children. He lived in Warrenville.

Ten Hurt in Collision.

Ten persons were injured and a score more shaken up when a motor truck collided head-on with a street car at Long and Grand avenues yesterday. The injured, who were taken to Keystone hospital, are: John Schoo, 46 years old, a truck farmer of Bensenville, Ill.; Alex Stewart, 45, 1535 North Karlov avenue, a motorman; Bernard Coleman, 30, 4236 North 77th court, Elmwood Park; Mrs. Bertha Hartman, 49, 2833 North 77th court; her daughter, Bernett, 13; Mrs. Irene Wright, 24, 2324 North Normandy avenue; her daughter, Maria, 5; Andrew Gusy, 16, 1623 West 51st street; John Mertus, 17, 1653 West 51st street, and Francis Calabrass, 13, 2344 North Normandy avenue.

Schoo was driving west on Grand avenue. He lost control of his machine and drove into the path of the street car.

4 Deaths Raise Toll to 656.

Four deaths yesterday raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 656. The victims:

Raymond Shea, 35 years old, 2547 Washington boulevard. Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile while he was waiting for a street car at Madison street and Kilpatrick avenue. The driver, George Buck, 1533 North Mansfield avenue, was held.

Eugene Muzzin, 47 years old, 834 North Leavitt street. Fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Walter Hossman, 33 years old, 4816 West Kinzie street, in front of 4710 West Division street. Hossman was held.

Ida Moe, 65 years old, colored, 6429 St. Lawrence avenue. Died at his home of injuries received when he was struck by an auto on May 23.

James T. Murphy, 54 years old, 7006 North Rockwell street. Died in the Rogers Park hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile at Lunt and Western avenues. The driver, Walter Neiebecki, 1412 Blackhawk street, was held.

FIRE DAMAGES POWER HOUSE OF HOSPITAL

For the second time in less than five months fire broke out last evening in the power house of the Chicago General hospital at 741 Diversey avenue.

Propmt action by engine company 55 and truck company 44 of the fire department prevented a recurrence of the confusion on the night of June 3, when eighteen patients had to be carried out and scores of others transferred to nearby hospitals after smoke swept through the institution.

The blaze was discovered about 5 p. m. when nurses were serving patients their supper. Within 15 minutes Capt. John McKimmons, Lieut. Arthur Brady and their crews had quelled the blaze and gone through the hospital, reassuring the staff and patients.

Following the June fire, which caused $25,000 damage, the fire prevention bureau exonerated hospital authorities of blame. Damage in the blaze last evening was estimated at $1,000. The power house is of frame construction.

FREE EX-CONVICT OF LOS ANGELES MURDER CHARGE

Prove Blair Could Not Have Slain Clerk.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Granville Blair, ex-convict arrested early today on suspicion of aiding in the slaying in Hollywood of David Antink, drug store clerk, was released after proving he could not have come here by airplane from Hollywood in the time between the killing and his surrender.

Antink had been a leading witness against Blair in 1923 when the latter was sent to San Quentine penitentiary for twenty years. At the prison Blair was a model convict, so was paroled last Feb. 19.

Advised to Surrender.

The shooting of Antink by three men in an automobile occurred at 6:10 o'clock last night. Blair had been visiting here at the home of a sister. Six hours later, on the advise of State Parole Officer Edward Whyte, the former convict surrendered to the Oakland police.

Two witnesses of the Antink killing flew here today, saw Blair and declared positively that he was not in the gang which shot Antink. Blair's release followed.

St. Paul Denies Collusion.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—State and county authorities today denied accusations of Los Angeles officials that Minnesota had "obstructed" the extradition of Morrie Moll, alias Miller, wanted in Los Angeles in connection with the murder of David Antink.

Gov. Theodore Christianson, before whom the Miller extradition hearing was held, also said that the charges of District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles of "political maneuvers" at St. Paul were ridiculous. County Attorney C. D. O'Brien Jr. asserted it was a "shocking statement for any official to make, and I shall not dignify such a charge by a denial."

At the hearing here last spring Antink identified Miller as one of a band which had robbed him in Los Angeles. Miller was ordered extradited to Los Angeles, but he disappeared and forfeited his $10,000 bond.

"The fact that Miller had left St. Paul, where he was out on bond, when the adjourned hearing on the extradition request took place is no fault of this office," Gov. Christianson said.

KEMAL PASHA PUTS TURKEY ON ROAD TO RICHES

Destroys Methods of Old for Western Ideas.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANGORA, Turkey, Sept. 6. — [By mail.]—After Mustapha Kemal Pasha —what?

This question has ben raised so often it inspires a public declaration from the ghazi.

"I've been reported a sick man. You can see I'm not sick. I'm well and strong. I want to live and I'm going to live a long time yet."

Energetic as Ever.

And in all activities from fire fighting, farming, city planning, leading in educational and social reforms, he is still as energetic as ever.

Speaking from the window of his train he tells the people:

"We have shown you the way to prosperity and national and personal freedom. You must take the course we have set. Work, save, encourage home industry, adopt western civilization."

To the judges of the Supreme court who greet him at Eskishehr he admonishes:

"The state cannot permit undermining political influences now. Elements which tend to destroy the work of the revolution, hamper the progressive advancement of Turkey along western lines must be annihilated."

Fights Red Propaganda.

Reference here is made to Communists who were arrested for spreading bolshevik propaganda in Smyrna and Constantinople.

During the recent big fire in Angora the ghazi himself came to the rescue. After watching the energetic but ineffective attempts of the regular fire fighters to put out the blaze, hampered because of lack of water, he ordered out a garrison with hand grenades. When the soldiers failed to use the grenades properly in blowing up the buildings, doomed to the flames and which would only serve to spread the fire throughout the city, he himself took the grenades, set the fuses and blew up the fire traps before the path of the flames. Here was a public example of initiative and action that evoked awe and admiration.

When the fire was over he immediately hastened action on the rebuilding and personally decided which of several plans were to be adopted.

Sets Example in Farming.

He has set an example in farming which is a model for the country. He employed one of Germany's greatest agricultural experts to develop a farm of more than 10,000 acres within three miles of Angora.

This land was heretofore mostly unproductive. Modern American tractors and agricultural machinery were introduced. Model farm buildings were constructed. A pretty farmhouse was built. He has started a zoo there, too. Near the farmhous on top of a hill overlooking the acres of grain, meadow, orchards and tree nurseries, he has constructed a miniature lake modeled after the Sea of Marmara.

The farm is open to the public on Fridays and public holidays. Thousands visit it every week, sit around, listen to the band, look at the wolves and bears in the zoo, inspect the farming methods employed, ride in a boat on the lake, sit around and drink coffee, tea and otherwise amuse themselves. In order to get people to look at the farm he made a recreation center out of it and few visitors to the capital fail to see it and learn.

Scorns Pomp.

There is an attempt on the part of his entourage to surround the ghazi with pomp. But he will have none of it. He walks into an ordinary restaurant, sits down, orders a drink and talks to everybody.

It is aparent that the loss of such a leader would be a tragedy to a country that needs as much as Turkey does this type of leadership. Yet such is the foundation of the westernization program that without him the machinery for its continuation, technically, at least, would still operate. And since the grand national assembly is the pilot of the ship of state and already has its course mapped out, nothing short of a revolution could reverse the engines.

And a nation which six years ago veiled its women and today publishes their pictures in a beauty contest has already gone so far it can never turn back.

Penn R. R. Will Dedicate New Flyer Tomorrow

The Golden Arrow, new twenty hour flyer on the Pennsylvania railroad, will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon prior to its first trip to New York at 2 o'clock. Princess Floating Cloud, Winnebago Indian girl, will christen the train, using a golden bow and arrow as a good luck symbol.

OPEN CAMPAIGN ON W. SIDE FOR HIGHWAY BONDS

Dr. Robertson Outlines Benefits of Plan.

BY HAL FOUST.

The merits of the Austin-Kinzie elevated highway, for which the west side will ballot on a $20,000,000 bond issue in November, were debated last night before the Kedzie Avenue Improvement association at a meeting in Humboldt park. It was the beginning of the active pre-election campaign on the proposition.

Emanuel Goldberger, secretary of the West Side Through Streets association, talked against the super boulevard, claiming it will raise taxes and arguing that a greater need for that section of the city is for through north and south streets.

Robertson Tells Benefits.

Speaking for the bonds was Dr. John Djll Robertson, president of the west park board, which will build the improvement if the electorate approves the issue. He showed the property owners exactly what it will cost in taxes and pointed out what benefits they will receive in return for their money.

Goldberger said that the raise in taxes will be six per cent. Dr. Robertson said it will be four per cent the first year and an average of two and a half per cent for the twenty years over which the bonds will be extended. This would mean $2.50 a year, or a little over 20 cents a week, to the property owner who now pays $100 taxes.

"In return for this investment," said Dr. Robertson, "the west sider will be from fifteen to thirty minutes closer to his work, will be that much closer to the lake and its bathing beaches, and that much closer to the country for holiday outings. Transportation is a vital factor in renting apartments; it is the vital factor in building a community.

Other Improvements Seen.

"These calculations are based on a theory that the seven miles of elevated boulevard will bring no additional improvements to the west side. As a matter of fact the developments with private capital that will follow the super highway will bring an increased assessed value to the total west side property that will offset the tax rate increase.

"For example, the Michigan link bridge cost $18,000,000. Private improvements worth $200,000,000 were added to the city's assessment rolls. If the west side assessment rolls are increased $100,000,000 by new hotels, apartment buildings, and stores along the route, the additional tax revenue will pay the interest on the bonds.

Safety a Big Factor.

"The safety feature must not be overlooked. The elevation, along the north side of the Chicago and North Western railroad embankment, will give seventy-six grade separations. Thirty-three pedestrians were killed by automobiles last year on west side boulevards. Surely, thirty-three lives a year are worth $20,000,000.

"I agree that we need through north and south streets. But that is not a west park board job. The public in November will have an opportunity to vote on an $18,000,000 city bond issue for the Ashland, Western, and Ogden avenue improvements. In addition, I am on a committee that is working on a plan to spend $15,000,000 of the county's share of the gasoline tax on through city streets."

Main Highways in County Are Blocked in Sixteen Places

The autumn weather that is calling many motorists to the country roads is also furnishing the last days for highway construction before low temperatures halt the laying of pavements. So there are many detours. Main routes in Cook county are blocked in sixteen places this week end.

River road this week has been opened to "travel at your own risk" between Rand road and Milwaukee avenue. Lake street, between Mannheim road and North avenue, has been opened with the same reservation. Both of these construction jobs will be completed by next Saturday and the traffic will be admitted without the ominous warning signs. Seventeenth avenue, between Roosevelt road and 22d street, is now open.

A summary of the detours follows:

Dixie highway—Closed between Southwest highway and 79th street. Traffic is directed southwest over Southwest highway to 79th street, then east on 79th street to Dixie.

Route 21, Milwaukee avenue—Closed between Golf road and Dempster street. Traffic is directed east on Dempster street to Shermer avenue, north on Shermer avenue to Golf road, then west on Golf road to Milwaukee.

Dempster street and Church street—Closed at the Sanitary district canal. Traffic is directed south on McCormick boulevard to Main street, each on Main street, and then north over a village street to Dempster and Church.

Higgins road—Closed between Cumberland avenue and River road. Traffic directed north on Cumberland avenue to Devon avenue, then west on Devon avenue to Higgins road.

Lawrence avenue—Closed between River road and Mannheim road. Traffic directed north over village streets.

Harlem avenue—In poor condition between Diversey Park boulevard and North avenue. Traffic is advised to turn east on Diversey Park boulevard to Sayre street, south on Sayre street to North avenue, then west on North avenue to Harlem avenue.

St. Charles road—Closed to traffic between 19th avenue and 5th avenue. Traffic is directed south over village streets.

Washington street—Closed to traffic between Thatcher avenue and Forest avenue. Traffic is directed north over village streets.

Madison street—Closed to traffic between 1st avenue, Maywood, and Thatcher avenue. Traffic is directed north on 1st avenue to Washington boulevard. East on Washington boulevard to Thatcher avenue, then south on Thatcher avenue to Madison street.

Dixie highway—Closed to traffic between 159th street and Lincoln highway. Traffice is directed east on 159th street to South Park avenue, south on South Park avenue to Homewood-Lansing road, east on Homewood-Lansing road to Halsted street, south on Halsted street to Lincoln highway, then west on Lincoln highway to Dixie highway.

Halsted street—Closed between 167th street and Homewood-Lansing road. Traffic is directed west on 159th street to South Park avenue, south on South Park avenue to Homewood-Lansing road, then east on Homewood-Lansing road to Halsted street.

183d street—Closed at Western avenue. Traffic is directed south on Kedzie avenue to Flossmoor road, east on Flossmoor road to Dixie highway, then north on Dixie highway to 183d street.

Crawford avenue—Closed between Lincoln highway and Sauk trail. Traffic is directed east on Lincoln highway to Main street, south on Main street to Sauk trail, then west on Sauk trail to Crawford avenue.

Cicero avenue—Closed between 147th street and 183d street. Traffic is directed east on 147th street to Crawford avenue, south on Crawford avenue to 183d street, then west on 183d to Cicero avenue.

The survey was prepared under the direction of County Highway Superintendent Quinlan.

NEW PREMIER OF AUSTRIA PLEDGES TO REFORM LAWS

Says He's Strong Enough to Prevent Revolt.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Sept. 27.—His government can and will preserve order while the constitutional changes demanded by the country's restive conservatives are rushed through, Johann Schober, new chancellor of Austria, declared today in his ministerial declaration before a hushed parliament.

With the bogey of a civil strife still lurking about in view of the massive Heimwehr demonstrations planned for Sunday, the old policeman's assurances that he would keep peace were welcomed by all factions.

But, as he stated his intention to jam through reforms in the constitution, the Socialists, who have 43 per cent of the seats in parliament and whom these reforms are intended to hogtie, sat in dull silence which is not promising for an early cure of Austria's illness.

Calls Situation Serious.

Recalling how he came into power in the difficult days of 1921, Herr Schober said:

"I am sorry to say the situation is very tense again. One would be blind not to see the importance of this enormous movement by the Heimwehr and calls from all parts of the country for reforms, both in constitution and administration. The events of July, 1927—the rioting in Vienna—gave the movement a tremendous impetus.

"Opinion abroad seems to be agitated. Therefore, I deny that a putsch is imminent. I will undertake to keep in close contact with the Heimwehr and see that its energies are directed in such a way that it will be in a perfectly legal manner. There is no cause for anxiety as, thank God, the power of this government is sufficient. But we must make haste and reform the constitution. I will introduce a new project, the main features of which will be a strengthening of the executive powers."

Herr Schober wants the president to be given power to dissolve parliament and declare emergency legislation in event an emergency arises. He indicated a sweeping reform of the electoral laws to bring the deputies into closer contact with the electors, and perhaps to raise the voting age to 24, so as to squeeze out the radical youth.

In the direction of foreign policy Herr Schober made it clear that what is the German policy will also be Austria's, although he intends to preserve cordial relations with all states. He is one of the weightiest proponents of a union of Germany and Austria.

Socialists Refuse Reforms.

The Socialists sat in frigid silence while Herr Schober spoke. But when the time came to answer, Robert Danneberg, one of their cleverest leaders, rose and in even tones averred that his party had no intention of being stampeded into voting for so-called reforms intended to muzzle them.

"Let the government set the tempo for these proceedings if it likes, but when the crime comes to vote on the reforms, the Socialists will not respond to terrorist pressure of any kind," he said.

Herr Danneberg criticized the new cabinet as having been formed more to appease English and American bankers than opinion at home.

BUTLER FINDS SLAIN WIFE'S BODY; NEGRO SUSPECTS ARE HELD

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The body of Mrs. Elsa Marshall, 34 years old, and married eight months, was found today in a cluster of bushes near the Knollwood Country club. After fatally wounding her with a shotgun, her assailant had dragged the dying woman into the shrubbery.

The body was found by her husband, John Marshall, an Englishman, employed as butler at Kelcourt, the estate of Henry Kelly Jr., produce merchant, in New York City. Mrs. Marshall was employed as cook at the estate.

Two Negroes were held tonight for questioning after Marshall had identified them as men he had seen near the spot where his wife was found.

IMPORTANT

YOUR CAR SHOULD BE PREPARED FOR WINTER DRIVING

FOLLOW THESE PRECAUTIONS

1. Use a free-flowing winter grade of oil in the crankcase. Be sure that the differential and transmission have proper cold-weather lubricants.
2. Have spark plugs, ignition cables and battery inspected. Cold gasoline needs a hot spark.
3. Inspect the fan, thermostat and winter front.
4. Clean the cooling system. See that all old scale and rust, accumulated over a summer's driving, are thoroughly flushed out.
5. Be sure the cooling system is tight, without the slightest leak anywhere—in hose connections, pump, radiator or gaskets.
6. Add water and one supply of Eveready Prestone and your car will go through the hardest winter season in perfect safety.
7. Go to your garageman. For a small sum he will be glad to render this cleaning and tightening service. It is an investment worth many times its small cost.

Eveready Prestone, the perfect anti-freeze, does not contain alcohol or glycerine. It will not overheat the motor if the weather turns warm. It is a pure, undiluted product. Its permanent protection makes it a most economical investment. One supply lasts all winter, through any amount of warm and cold weather driving.

RUSSIAN FLYERS LAND IN ALASKA; SPAN PACIFIC

Fly 700 Miles Over Sea from Dutch Harbor.

SEWARD, Alaska, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Russian plane, Land of the Soviets, with four soviet flyers aboard en route from Moscow to New York, landed here at 3:42 p. m. [5:42 Chicago daylight saving time] today.

The Russians took off at 7:20 a. m. [11:20 a. m. Chicago time] today from Dutch harbor, 700 miles west of Seward. The landing at Seward today was their first contact with the Alaska mainland and their third landing on American soil. They previously had touched at Attu, most westward of the Aleutian islands, and then at Dutch harbor, on Unalaska island. The flight today from Dutch harbor to Seward was the last the aviators will have to make over extended areas of water. They next will fly to Sitka, Alaska, a distance of 593 miles, skirting the Alaskan coast, and from there will take off for Seattle, a flight of 1,174 miles. They will follow the coast line on this flight. From Seattle they will fly to San Francisco and then to New York by way of Chicago.

Coste Unheard From.

LE BOURGET, France, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte tonight were believed by French observers of their attempt to set a new distance airplane flight to be well on their way to the far east. No word had come from them since they passed Cologne, but the plane carried no radio and its straight line course would not necessarily carry it near big cities.

When the famous sesqui-plane, Question Mark, left the army field here at 6:16 a. m. it was loaded with sufficient fuel for 50 hours in the air at an average speed of 109 miles an hour. It was calculated that it should be able to do well over 5,000 miles if weather was propitious.

Route He Will Follow.

The regular Paris-Berlin passenger plane had flown with Coste as far as Cologne, and reported that he was then making 120 miles an hour. Coste, one of the leading French aviators, has been planning all summer this attempt to wrest the distance record from the Italians and to capture the French Renault cup.

He chose a route to the east which lay close to Berlin, Riga, Moscow, Tobolsk, Irkutsk, Chita, and then either Nikolaevsk or Vladivostok. In event of fuel exhaustion along the way Coste planned to take on fresh supplies and continue toward the east.

RICH CATTLEMAN SLAIN IN HOTEL, DIAMOND GONE

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Hands and feet securely tied with cord and a gag in his mouth, P. R. Austin, a wealthy cattleman of Victoria, Tex., was found dead in his room at a hotel here today, presumably the victim of robbers.

Police believe Austin strangled to death from the gag in his mouth and the position in which he was tied to the bed.

A large diamond ring which he customarily wore was missing. This fact, together with the fact that no money or valuables of any kind were found in the room, led to the theory of robbery and murder.

His feet were tied to one rail of the bed and his head was tied down on the other side. The theory of police is that chloroform was used and that two persons probably participated in the robbery.

Austin, an elderly man, had been in the city about ten days.

3 MINERS DEAD, 6 TRAPPED.

Fort Smith, Ark., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Two miners were known to be dead and six others were imprisoned in a gas explosion late today in a coal mine on the Covington lease, 25 miles south of here.

NEW CHANNEL OF RIVER READY FOR USE ON DEC. 1

Opening of the new channel of the south branch of the river for navigation will be delayed until Dec. 1, Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe was informed yesterday when he visited the river straightening work on the south side. Most of the dock walls are in place and forms for the remainder have been constructed, the commissioner said. High water levels interfered with the work until cofferdams were built and the water lowered six feet, for which the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, the contractor, is asking an extra of $150,000. Earlier in the summer the commissioner had predicted that the new channel would be open by Oct. 1.

NINE WOMEN QUESTIONED IN PANTAGES QUIZ

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The grand jury's investigation of testimony in the recent manslaughter trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages today resulted in the summoning of nine women, some of them prominent socially, for questioning. Each woman was questioned whether she attended a party in the Pantages' home on Sunday afternoon, June 16, a few hours before the fatality which caused Mrs. Pantages' arrest and trial.

Conflicting testimony about Mrs. Pantages' condition of sobriety, control of her automobile, and her whereabouts prior to striking Joe Rokomoto with her automobile led to the summoning of the women.

Deputy District Attorney James P. Costello, who prosecuted Mrs. Pantages in her three weeks' trial, went before the grand jury to lodge accusations of perjury against three defense witnesses for Mrs. Pantages.

GOEBEL WINS AIR DERBY AND $3,000 IN CASH

Mexican Flyers Vie for Second Place.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Col. Art Goebel, who won the Dole air race from California to Hawaii, winged his way to another long distance victory here today, finishing ahead of other entries in the Mexico City-Kansas City air Derby.

Ojcial compilations will not be announced until later, but Goebel's known elapsed flying time between control points assures him of $3,000 first prize money. He arrived here at 3:13 p. m. from Springfield, Mo., last night's control point.

Other contestants in the race, all Mexican army flyers, arrived here as follows: Col. Roberto Fierro, 3:15 p. m.; Capt. Luis Verdeja, 3:19 p. m.; Capt. Feliciana Flores, 3:25 p. m.

Tardy Flyers Arrive.

Lieut. Carlos Robirosa, delayed by a forced landing near San Antonio, Tex., Wednesday, fell behind the other derbyists, but flew from San Antonio to Springfield yesterday. He, with Rex Purcell, American flyer who joined the racers at the border, arrived with the regular contestants. Robirosa was delayed again today by motor trouble and arrived an hour behind the other flyers.

Officials are considering the status of Robirosa and Capt. Verdeja and Col. Fierro. The latter two pilots did not stop yesterday at Joplin, Mo., a regular control point.

One Contestant Out.

One other Mexican flyer, Col. Fernando Proal, was forced down soon after leaving Tampico, Tex., and withdrew from the race.

Winner of second place in the Derby will receive a prize of $1,000. The flyer finishing third will be given $600 and fourth place honors carry a prize of $400.

DIES REPAIRING REFRIGERATOR.

E. E. Weiss, 30 years old, 412 Thomas street, Forest Park, fell dead yesterday while repairing a refrigerator in Oak Park. The police said death was due to heart disease.

Aviation Notes

An air-minded American public may be expected to accept two new words in its everyday language as flying becomes more general. They are "enplane" and "deplane," having the same relative significance as "entrain" and "detrain" or "embarked" and "debarked." The coinage is justified by Frank H. Vizetelly, chief lexicographer of Funk & Wagnalls, dictionary publishers. The Aviation corporation announces that the words will hereafter be used in the corporation's literature.

Upon completion of a recent aerial tour of the United States, Maj. Shefik Bey, head of the Turkish air mission, declares that this country has surpassed Europe in commercial flying.

Regular passenger service between Chicago and San Francisco will not be started before next year, according to officials of the Boeing Air Transport, Inc. First production in the new Boeing six-place flying boats will start soon in the new Vancouver, B. C., factory, which will look for its markets in Australia and other British possessions, as well as in Canada.

Miss Rose Lauder, secretary of the Palwaukee airport, yesterday made her first solo flight after nine hours of instruction. During the summer months Miss Lauder, who lives in Lake Forest, took private instruction along with her work at the landing field. She expects soon to qualify for a department of commerce pilot's license after ten hours of solo flying.

The "reducing diet" that stole her beauty

SHE was one girl who was going to be slim and beautiful—so she began a strenuous reducing diet. She counted calories. She shunned this and sought for that. But, all the time, she was missing something every diet should have. In the dishes she so carefully selected there was scarcely any roughage. Constipation gained a foothold. Her looks suffered as is often the case with constipated persons. She had headaches and her complexion became sallow.

Thousands of women and men are paying the price of diets which are lacking in bulk. Constipation continues to poison the system. No other evil is more widespread. It often ends with serious trouble and disease.

By adding Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to any diet, the ideal roughage is obtained to relieve and prevent constipation.

ALL-BRAN does not add fat to the body. It just sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Its regular use restores health and above all priceless beauty and charm.

No pills nor drugs can play the part of ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet. Their dose has to be constantly increased and they do not produce the natural results that ALL-BRAN does.

Don't trifle with pills

You will like the appetizing nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. It can be enjoyed in many ways. In soups. On salads. Soaked in orange, prune or fruit juice. As a cereal with milk or cream. Delicious with honey added. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal.

If you write us we will gladly send you a valuable booklet on the subject of safe reducing. It contains many approved diet suggestions which promote beauty as they help you reduce. Grocers everywhere sell ALL-BRAN. Be sure to get the genuine—made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars.

GUARANTEED!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

MODESTA

G. B. STERN'S
New Novel
Author of Debonair

Amidst the brilliant sunshine, the olive trees and the blue waters of the Italian Riviera is laid this gay romance. Under the golden spell of Italy, Laurence Ferrier falls in love with the fragile beauty of Modesta and gallantly marries her. But in the luxury of his mother's London home, this simple peasant girl becomes a grand signora with ambitions and schemes that lead her husband a merry chase. How he lures her back to her native land and instills in her the gentle virtues that become a wife makes this tale as amusing as Shakespeare's famous comedy.

Prince Mirsky Attacks Wells' Tolstoy Views

But Applies Them to Turgenev and Tchehov.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON—[Special Correspondence] A little thrill has accompanied the publication of the first volumes of Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Maude's great memorial edition of Tolstoy. To one of the books published in the first batch "Resurrection," Mr. H. G. Wells has contributed an outspoken preface. Mr. Wells is not, apparently, a tremendous admirer of "Resurrection," and he has said so in a vivid and characteristic manner. Incidentally, he has stated that the best portion of the book could well have been written by Mr. Galsworthy.

RICHARD ALDINGTON.

To the preface Prince Mirsky has issued a fiery answer, describing it as "a disgrace!" Now Prince Mirsky is a very much younger man than Mr. Wells, and he knows more about the history of Russian literature than anybody I ever met. His histories, of which the larger one was issued in two volumes, while the shorter one is an excellent handbook issued by the Oxford University Press, both tell the story of Russian literature better than it has been told before. Prince Mirsky, however, is an enthusiast for Tolstoy, and he decries both Turgenev and Tchehov, of whom he says things fully as severe as those which Mr. Wells has said of "Resurrection!"

The prince's attitude of literature retains that political prejudice which always has been a defect of Russian criticism. He condemns Tchehov because Tchehov was, in effect, not a good influence upon Russia, and because Tchehov [according to Prince Mirsky] liked only the failures. He condemns Turgenev also upon grounds which seem to me to be nationalist. Therefore, he cannot understand Mr. Wells's lively criticism of a book by Tolstoy and of the life which he thinks it resembles.

Others will find the preface one of the most amusing things they have read for years. But they will have to be prepared for a little irreverence.

What looks as if it might be an autobiographical novel is to come this year from Richard Aldington. It is called "Death of a Hero," and it is described as "a landmark in the author's career." It is a landmark because it is Mr. Aldington's first novel, but it well may be a landmark in other respects also, for Mr. Aldington, whose poems and translations from the Greek always have seemed to me to be very distinguished, may have added something to contemporary fiction. The book is a novel "of war and peace," and those who keep an eye upon the less obvious forms of fiction would do well to remember the title—"Death of a Hero," by Richard Aldington. Incidentally, admirers of Mr. Aldington's work would all rejoice if the book had a large popular success.

I note with satisfaction that a new pocket edition of the works of "the Author of 'Elizabeth and Her German Garden'" is being issued. This is a boon long delayed, for if there were ever books which called aloud to be carried in the pocket, and read whenever the spirit moved, these are the very ones. Eight volumes are coming out this season, and there are as many others to follow later.

New Galsworthy Compilation

"A Modern Comedy," by John Galsworthy [Scribner's], is a sequel to "The Forsyte Saga." It contains the complete texts of "The Silver Spoon," "The White Monkey," and "Swan Song," and two short interludes, "Passers By" and "A Silent Wooing"—the saga of the younger Forsytes. There are nearly eight hundred pages — what Mr. Swinnerton calls a "portmanteau" book, or what other Englishmen sometimes call an "omnibus" book.

Livelier Tone in the Newest Encyclopedia

Britannica Has Become Americanized.

The new fourteenth edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica has just reached the outstretched arms of thousands. Physically the volumes have been immensely popularized by the inclusion of thousands of full page photographs, color plates, and smaller drawings, by the use of a paper with the quality of thinness of rice paper without its detestable transparency.

As a reference book two outstanding changes are evident. The articles themselves which comprise the text have been popularized and humanized. A very large per cent of the new material is the work of Americans, thus removing two of the most evident disabilities of the old encyclopedia—the fact that formerly it was looked on as just a dull book of facts and that it was done from a British point of view.

At one time so violent was the accusation that it was pro-British that a whole volume was written about it, "Misinforming a Nation," by Willard Huntington Wright. (Mr. Wright is the "S. S. Van Dine" of a later literary life.) That book caused editorial discussion all over the two countries.

A preface by the new edition's editor-in-chief, J. L. Garvin, editor of the London Observer, is a plea, almost impassioned at times, for peace and unity among the English speaking peoples. As a matter of fact, the encyclopedia is no longer English. It was printed here by R. R. Donnelley & Sons. Its ownership has passed into the hands of Americans. Mr. Garvin was assisted by an American editorial board under Franklin H. Hopper, and as contributing editors or special contributors there are many of the most outstanding men and women in international scientific, literary, political, and business life.

The articles on literature are signed by many of the best known writers and critics in the world, among them Henry Seidel Canby, who writes on American literature of the 20th century; Vernon Parrington, who traces its history before that; Gilbert Murray, who writes on Homer and his period; Humbert Wolfe, who writes on modern poetry; J. C. Squire, who writes on English literature; G. K. Chesterton, who writes on humor and Dickens; George Bernard Shaw, who writes on socialism; Benedetto Croce, who writes on esthetics; Emile Cammaerts, who writes on Belgian literature; Prince Mirsky, who writes on Russian literature; Dr. Leon Feuchtwanger, who writes on the modern developments of the novel, and H. L. Mencken.

Max Reinhardt, Constantin Stanislawski, Irene Castle, Robert Edmond Jones, George Jean Nathan, Joseph Urban, Claude Bragdon, "Roxy," Lee Simonson, and Norman Bel Geddes are among the commentators on the stage.

Mrs. Elizabeth Robins Pennell and Frank Brangwyn contribute articles on lithography and mural painting.

Philosophy, psychology, education, religion, all are discussed by the most authoritative and popular figures of their fields, among them John B. Watson, Sir Oliver Lodge, Bishop Manning, Shailer Mathews, and Senator Reed Smoot.

Sports and games call forth the talents of such men and women as Gene Tunney, Grantland Rice, Helen Wills, Francis Hunter (NOT Bill Tilden), and Milton C. Work.

Aviation has a large number of contributors—Col. Lindbergh, however, not among them—as has engineering.

Henry Ford is among the writers on business and industry.

Women's affairs are not neglected. There is even an article on modern dress by Erté.

William Beebe contributes an article on Galapagos, Vilhjalmur Stefansson on the Eskimo, and Roy Chapman Andrews on Mongolia, among the articles on exploration and travel.

The biographies of great men are written by great men themselves. Commander Richard E. Byrd writes on Robert Peary, David Starr Jordan on Louis Agassiz, for instance.

Radios and motion pictures are discussed by authorities; even motion picture makeup, by Lon Chaney.

Every phase of life and its origin, medicine, surgery, and economics and the social sciences is covered. Among the names of the contributors are Dr. Alexis Carrel, Raymond Pearl, Julian Huxley, J. B. S. Haldane, Julius Rosenwald (who writes on philanthropy), Harold Laski, Grace Abbott, Fridtjof Nansen, Paul Painleve, and Elihu Root.

American—or rather United States—history, as they much more exactly call it, is treated in detail by F. J. Turner and Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard university, H. L. Osgood and D. S. Muzzey of Columbia; phases of it by Andrew J. Mellon, Gen. J. J. Pershing, Alfred E. Smith (the history of New York), Senator Borah, and James Truslow Adams. Gen. Goethals, on his death bed, wrote part of the article on Panama. James Harvey Robinson contributes an article on "Civilization."

By some miracle, perhaps through the pictures and the signed articles, the Encyclopedia Britannica has become more like an "outline of life" than a mere reference book. You really want to read it. The old joke about the man who borrowed a volume of it—or was it a dictionary—and returned it with the comment that it was like every other book—they got married in the end—never could be told about any one of these twenty-four volumes.

Even such a reader's interest would be intrigued whether he wanted it to be or not. Incidentally, the literary editor already has found it of great use, for it is up to the minute enough to include excellent critical articles on such recent writers as Sinclair Lewis and Willa Cather (discussed by Mr. Canby). Beginning at A and reading through Z would be no penance for any one. It would be an adventure.

German Writer Admits Fooling Europeans by Some Babbitty Verses

"Pep," by Leon Feuchtwanger [Viking], is a collection of verses, translated by Dorothy Thompson from the original German of "J. L. Wetcheek," who, when he published them in Germany, claimed that they were translations of American poems. There was much conjecture about the identity of Mr. Wetcheek, so Miss Thompson says in a preface, until some one discovered that it was an Anglicization of Feuchtwanger.

Thereupon the gentleman came forward and claimed the orphans and wrote a piece about them in which he said, "If these poems, to some extent, are an attempt to put Babbitt into lyrics, I certainly do not claim to be representative of America, a country I do not know.

"I wanted to hit at the European bourgeois, who more and more adopts for himself those characteristics which he likes to think are American, but which suit his own tendencies."

The poems themselves are something that a smart but not too brilliant lad in his freshman year of high school might dash off in a moment of great inspiration for his school paper. There is only one really good one in it, called "Revue," and that never would have inspired Gen. Wolfe to the immortal remark before Quebec, "I would rather be the author of that poem than the possessor of the glory of beating the French tomorrow."

Here Is Genius, Critic Declares of Hemingway

"A Farewell to Arms" Hailed as Great.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A Farewell to Arms," by Ernest Hemingway [Scribners].

Technically and stylistically the most interesting novel of the year is a judgment which any keenly critical reader would pass on "A Farewell to Arms." Any one who thus has watched American writing cannot but find in it a blossoming of a most unusual genius of our day.

Ernest Hemingway has developed—and most especially in "A Farewell to Arms"—a technique which is purely subjective, and a style which is articulate entirely in its bones and not at all in its flesh. There is no flesh whatever to his writing, no softness, no roundness, no color, no flow of muscle under the skin. There is nothing but uncompromising bone. He sees his writing as an artist sees a human being, a bone structure upon which is superimposed the flesh which the rest of mankind sees.

Any good artist can draw an almost life-like nude of any one whom, fully clothed, he studies with any care at all. For, what he sees, inside a tailored suit or a gown, is the bone structure and its articulation. I don't really know whether it is true, for I never have discussed it with an authority, but it seems to me that a good deal of the really modern art is concerned with the essential bone structure of whatever object is depicted. It sees the bones and eliminates the flesh. That is exactly what Ernest Hemingway does in his writing at any rate.

I realize that I am getting into very deep water for the average reader who takes up a book to amuse himself or herself. But whenever a phenomenon like Ernest Hemingway happens in the writing business the critic who can deny himself or herself a critical analysis of that genius does it usually because he (or she) dare not really face the problem of taking apart Mr. Hemingway's peculiar power and putting it together again.

There is going to be infinite conversation about the material of the book—it is the story of an American who drove an ambulance on the Italian front with the Italian army and of his love affair. It has the outer garments of many other books about the war. It is brutal, it is terrific, it is awesome, it is coarse, it is vulgar, it is beautiful, it is all sorts of contradictory things. But none of them counts, really, in comparison with the way that Mr. Hemingway has made it all of those things.

Years ago—I don't remember just how many—a woman by the name of Gertrude Stein wrote a book called "Three Lives." It was three short stories done in a technique entirely different from anything else that had been done before in America. It was absolutely subjective. It was written coldly, but it was comprehensible to the average reader. Later Gertrude Stein developed a technique so obviously different from any one else's that even those who admired most her brilliance in "Three Lives" found her new manner difficult to understand. They respected her, however, for the consistency with which she has, all of these years, worked at developing something new in writing.

She was one of the first to champion the modern movement in art. She worked to do in words what the modernists were doing in line and color. I speak thus of Gertrude Stein because Ernest Hemingway is the direct blossoming of Gertrude Stein's art. Whether he consciously was influenced by her no one, of course, can say. But he does, in "A Farewell to Arms," what Gertrude Stein did in "Three Lives," except that he does it in a longer, more complicated medium and with more certain power.

There are whole pages in this new book which might have been written by Gertrude Stein herself, except that, even in their most tortuous intricacies, the reader is perfectly clear about what Mr. Hemingway is saying and why he is saying it in exactly that way.

That his coldly unsentimental technique and his style are emotionally effective as well as interesting is evidenced by the effect that the ending had upon two women of my acquaintance. To both of them the printed page is an every day part of life. Neither of them is too easily moved by words. One of them I have known for many years. She is the head of the largest book shop in America.

The other I have known all of my life—ever since, that is, I have been conscious of knowing the insides of any human being's mind. She is myself. Both of them, after reading an absolutely brutal, cold blooded narrative, written in a manner which only the word vulgar describes when used in its original Latin meaning, when they came to the last page, were seized with absolutely uncontrollable sobs.

Be Kind and Head Hunter Proves Polite

So Scientist and Wife Find in Jungles.

BY BLANCHE C. MATTHIAS.

"Savage Gentlemen" is a convincing and delightful book. In it Mable Cole and her husband, Dr. Fay Cooper-Cole with never failing patience and enthusiasm show how the most ferocious head hunter or timid pygmy can be induced, with the aid of kindliness, understanding, real interest, a phonograph, a bowl of rice and cold salmon, or a timely spoonful of castor oil, to replace suspicion with trust, and fear with friendliness.

MABEL C. COLE.

Then—pronto—we have such a savage gentleman as Juan the cook, Bulakano, who liked to listen to the "breathing" of the Ingersoll [which the Coles had presented to him] or the famous smith of Tue, who made steel at his forge while they watched.

One chapter alone proves the success of their method. "We Become Headhunters," and so they did. Dr. Cole becoming Mr. Headhunter Agawan Dumalawi, and Mrs. Cole being known from then on among her new relatives as Gimpawan Ginobayan. Of this experience she writes, "For more than a year we lived among them, and we made many good friends. They were kind and tolerant of our strange ways; anxious to guard us from evil spirits and glad to make us acquainted with those kindly disposed. Their ways are not our ways, nor would we change them. They are happy and contented. They follow the custom."

Spiritism is an important part of life among these primitive peoples. "The unseen prevaded this land, a world to which we had no approach. And we realized that until we had been found worthy, its portals would never open to us." But soon they were admitted, and they learned the way of gamot or black magic.

"We learned that we could cause a person to become insane by taking a bit of dust from his footprint, or a bit of clothing, or even an article recently handled by him, and stirring it violently in a dish of water.

"We could make a person lame by placing poison on articles recently touched by his feet. Or we could cause one to be seized with fever by catching a fly, naming it after him, and putting it in a bamboo tube near the fire."

Magic they found in all parts of the Philippines, even among the Moros in Tree Dwellers.

Mrs. Cole has a gift for telling the fascinating folk lore of these primitive people. Always in the distance the tom-tom beats, the mangrove swamp waits for its victims, the great river Abra threatens destruction.

But this is not the greatest value of her work. Rather is it—to quote Dr. Dorsey that "Mrs. Cole has earned the gratitude of all who desire more understanding of and broader insight into human behavior."

The collections of Philippine ethnology, which are to be seen in the Field museum, are ample proof that Dr. and Mrs. Cole's work was of the utmost value and importance.

"Savage Gentlemen" tells of the hardships and experiences which accompanied their researches and investigations. But so human and lightened with so delicious humor is the record that scientific facts and anthropological measurements seem not to dismay the reader, but rather to awake interest and kindle admiration for the men and women who are turning into adventurers for the sciences of today.

MEETINGS AND LECTURES

On Tuesday evenings at 6:30 o'clock beginning this week, the central branch of the Y. W. C. A., Mr. William L. Richardson will conduct a study course in current books.

BRITISH AUTHOR SAYS AL SMITH'S ACCENT LOST THE PRESIDENCY

In a book called "Portraits and Reflections" [Dutton] which is a collection of sketches of international figures, Stuart Hodgson has a chapter on Alfred Emmanuel Smith in which he calls him "the most interesting figure since Lincoln," and "the first real champion of the new American democracy." He says, with English candor:

"A song made Mr. Smith; and accent ruined him. This also is, to ordinary Englishmen, puzzling. Certainly he has an accent. He says 'foist' instead of first. He talks, that is to our ears, a kind of American. But so does Mr. Hoover. And a cultured Englishman who has heard both tells me he prefers Mr. Smiths' to Mr. Hoover's.

"To the average American Mr. Hoover's accent is the accent of a gentleman, and Mr. Smith's the accent of the New York gutter. It was a fatal contrast in a democratic country."

Henry Ford is the only other American among those who are treated in what the jacket of the book calls "literary transparencies . . . drawn on the window panes of life . . . you can look at them and see through them. When you look at them you see their sterling qualities; when you look through them you see their foibles and idiosyncracies.

"Mud and Glory" Is About Football Heroes, Boneheads

"Mud and Glory," a novel by James M. Neville [Dufield], makes use of one of the famous bonehead plays in the history of football—the one last year in the Georgia-California game. It is subtitled "An Inside Story of Football." In it the author makes it easier to understand how a player in a big game might have become so confused as to carry the ball down the field toward his own goal line.

The psychological effect of such a play, by the way, was the subject of a short story by Katherine Brush called "Fumble." It appears in that excellent collection called "Night Club," but it was written some time before the Georgia-California fiasco.

Another story in "Night Club" was slightly prophetic. It was about a wealthy girl who fell in love with a prize fighter. It was called "Debutante." Its denouement was not exactly that of the life of a famous champion, however.

Prize Mark Twain Story Wins for Philadelphian

The Mark Twain society has just awarded its prize for the best anecdote about Mark Twain to John Dallam of Philadelphia. Here it is: "Mark Twain was visiting in Washington during the time that Melville W. Fuller was chief justice of the Supreme court. A little girl saw him on the street and, mistaking him for the chief justice, whom he resembled because of his luxuriant white hair and mustache, approached him and said: 'Oh, Mr. Chief Justice Fuller, won't you please write something for me in my autograph album?' 'With pleasure,' Mark Twain replied instantly. Taking the book she handed him he wrote: 'It's glorious to be full, but it's heavenly to be Fuller.' Signing his name he walked away without further comment, leaving her to discover later the treasure she had unknowingly obtained."

'Adventures of an Outlaw,' Rewritten, British Success

"Adventures of an Outlaw" has been a sensation in England. It was the July choice of the English Book Club society, and it has had an enormous success besides that. The manuscript of the book was sent to the publishers—Jonathan Cape, in London—by Mr. Charles H. Bertie, the well known librarian of Sydney, New South Wales. Mr. Bertie explained that it had come into his hands from a man who had inherited it from his wife's father, in whose possession of it had remained for thirty years.

Mr. Bertie was so sure of its importance that he personally had it typed and sent it to London. The publishers liked the book, but were fearful about its style, which was archaic to the point of being disconcerting. The manuscript was rewritten, but with fidelity to the original story. It is an amazing story of a man, by name (so he said) Ralph Rashleigh, who flourished from 1825 to 1844 and who was sent to New South Wales as punishment for theft.

It is the story of an escaped outlaw who went terribly and brutally native, was forced to do so to live. It is not, however, the story of a man pitying his fate, but the record of events over which he had no control and about which he made no complaint. In an introduction by Joseph Wood Krutch (preceding Earl Birkenhead's preface) he says: "In any form these memories would constitute an important historical document, but as they actually exist they are much more than that for they are an important addition to the literature of crime as well."

The 'Sales Lady' Finds Her Place in Sociology Now

"The Saleslady," by Frances R. Donovan [University of Chicago Press], is one of the university's sociological series, but it is something very different from a mere statistical record. Mrs. Donovan spent a summer vacation [from high school teaching] working as a "saleslady" and gathering material for this book, which became a human record of a phase of modern life rather than a sociological story of type. Her own experiences she sets down with the same exactness and clarity and interest which made her book on waitresses, "The Woman Who Waits," a memorable human document.

AMERICAN SEA POWER.

There seems to be so much concern lest the American navy should retain means for what is glibly called aggressive action that an unofficial observer from Mars would assume that the history of American naval power has been one of frequent aggression. In this assumption the observer would be encouraged by our apologetic citizens and pacifists, but the normal American, reviewing our history, will find little support for it. The American navy made a gallant but modest entry upon the world stage in 1812, fighting some brilliant duels but no battles, and, though our merchant shipping grew rapidly and our flag was on every sea, we did not build up a navy of any consequence until the civil war.

At the time of the Mexican war conditions in the navy were deplorable, although our clipper ships were exhibiting the American genius for the sea in a glorious page of maritime history. When the southern states seceded the government recognized that sea power was essential to victory, and at the end of the war the American navy was the greatest in the world. There was no question of parity then. But the American people were not ambitious to rule the sea. They were then, as at the founding of the colonies, a people of peaceful workers, and they were too preoccupied with setting their house in order and in exploiting their rich heritage to bother about the sea. Our great marine rapidly dwindled and our navy disappeared even sooner. In the eighties we were one of the minor naval powers, when a Democratic secretary of the navy, Jacksonian rather than Jeffersonian, began to build a modern fleet. That was called with ingenuous pride the White Fleet, but it was no threat to Britannia. In the Spanish war it acquitted itself with credit and, as that event had suddenly directed American eyes to the world horizon, the navy was gradually built up until it weighed substantially in the scales of world power. But the American nation has never sought for naval power as an instrument of aggrandisement. It has never destroyed another naval power, and there is nothing either in the history of our sea policy or in the character of the American people to give cause for fear that the American navy will be used for aggression or domination.

Persistent efforts to diminish American naval strength and to pledge us to subordination have no justification in American history or in American national character or policy. A weak America will not make for the peace of the world, though the pacifists and apologetic Americans would have us think so.

THE CASE OF SENATOR BINGHAM.

There is great to-do in the senate because Senator Bingham of Connecticut retained an employé of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association to advise him upon tariff matters. Mr. Bingham, a new member of the finance committee of the senate, was relatively unfamiliar with tariff matters. He justifies the employment of the manufacturers' man on the ground that there was no better way of learning Connecticut's tariff requirements, which it was his duty, as Connecticut's senator, to meet.

The explanation is forthright and it serves to illustrate the method of tariff making which, to a greater or less extent, has produced every tariff bill enacted since Alexander Hamilton first induced congress to impose import duties. That method is known as logrolling. The representatives of Pennsylvania support the tariff proposals of the members from Louisiana in exchange for similar favors to Pennsylvania. And so on. Under this system, the more familiar a congressman is with the needs of his section the more he is likely to ask and the more he is likely to get if he is a good trader. Logrolling is, perhaps, not the best method of writing tariff legislation, but it has, at least, the respectability conferred by long usage. So far as the record now shows, Senator Bingham's offense, in the eyes of the Democrats and the Republican insurgents, must lie largely in the frankness of his espousal of the recognized method of doing business in congress.

There is an alternative method of making tariffs. That is the method favored by President Hoover, in which the tariff commission plays a part. The commission does not wholly determine the rates, but it has a certain liberty of action in modifying them, within specified limits, as the intensity of foreign competition modifies. The flexible tariff is an expedient about the value of which it is possible to have doubts; but if it is the purpose of congress to get away from logrolling methods of tariff making, the tariff commission offers the only alternative yet discovered.

It is therefore a matter for astonishment that the same senators who are enlisted against the tariff commission are also pretending to be outraged by the disclosure that Mr. Bingham took the best advice he could get on the requirements of his state. They oppose logrolling and they oppose the only known alternative to logrolling. What they favor as a substitute is something they say nothing about, and the reason for their silence is not difficult to guess.

LAWMAKING IN THE MANNER OF 1066.

The senate has voted that the captain and the owners of a ship be subject to a fine if a sailor employed on the ship smuggles narcotics into the United States.

Americans used to think that the man to be punished was the man who committed the crime and not his father or his brother or his boss. The theory of individual responsibility was not arrived at in a moment. Mankind for countless generations based its criminal code on the opposite theory, and it must be admitted in all candor that the concept of joint responsibility for individual misdeeds, however unjust and cruel it may have been, was probably required for the preservation of the peace in primitive and unstable societies.

The senate's idea was also William the Conqueror's. Holdsworth, authority on the history of English law, believes that William "introduced the idea of communal responsibility for crime under the pressure of the need to protect his Norman followers." Under William's law, if a man were found dead and he could not be proved to be a Saxon he was presumed to be a Norman and every one who lived in the vicinity of the crime was by virtue of the fact responsible for the murder and liable to punishment for it. No doubt that served to protect the lives of quite a number of Normans who had driven Saxon freeholders off their lands; but to the modern mind the system is, or at any rate until recently was, thoroughly abhorrent. It works endless injustices and cruelties and cannot be compromised with the presumption of the innocence of the individual in the absence of proof to the contrary.

The theory of communal responsibility is conqueror's law. Caesar used it in Gaul. The theory survives today in military practice. Louvain was burned because its inhabitants were said to have sniped at the German invaders; but, if our recollection serves, the world did not share the view that the justification was adequate. It was frequently said that the invader would have been warranted in executing the snipers had they been found, but was not justified in wreaking vengeance on the entire community, 99.9 per cent of which was as innocent of the crime as the readers of this page.

The men who burned Louvain said that the end justified the means. If William the Conqueror had any qualms about his system of keeping the peace he no doubt salved his conscience, too, with the notion that the end, in any event, justified the means, harsh as they were. The gentlemen of the senate may follow the same line in defending the incorporation of primitive legal theories in the criminal code of the United States in 1929.

The probability, however, is that the senators do not feel that their action is in any sense a departure from traditional American policy. Every day in this country men who have themselves committed no crime are being punished for the offenses of others. The restaurant proprietor who serves ginger ale to a customer who may or may not pour whisky in it has been found guilty of violating the prohibition law, though he has transported no liquor and sold no liquor. The owner of the restaurant building may be fined a year's rental for violating the law against the sale of alcohol, though he had no reason to know that ginger ale was being sold in his building. If that is good law, it is also good law to hold the captain of the ship and the stockholder in a shipping company responsible for the crime of a sailor.

LABORATORY FLYERS.

Lieut. James H. Doolittle's experimental flying has not captured the imagination of the newspapers. But he is no less a hero and his accomplishments are infinitely greater than those flagpole sitters, the endurance flyers, transoceanic aviators, and other stunters in the air whose adventures make page one.

Lieut. Doolittle was loaned by the army air corps to the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics to solve the problem of flying and landing in fog. How great is the problem is indicated by Lindbergh's advice, "Do not attempt to fly through fog, but turn back or land before it is too late." Aviators who have flown through fog and escaped report that their sense perceptions could not tell them whether they were flying with their heads to the sky or to the ground.

The Guggenheim fund, however, assigned Lieut. Doolittle to negative Lindbergh's fog rule. With the pilot's compartment covered with a hood, only the illuminated instrument board to guide him, Lieut. Doolittle took off, flew over a fifteen mile course, and landed safely. The conditions of the experiment simulated those of fog. Lieut. Doolittle and his sponsors are confident that a primary obstacle to safe flying and an obstruction to scheduled flying has been overcome.

Lieut. Doolittle is not the only unsung hero of aviation. Dozens of other aviators are sacrificing popular fame by using their courage and skill for laboratory flying. New types of planes must be tested, wings of new ships subjected to the strains of actual flight, maneuvers of warfare conceived by groundling tacticians must be executed or proved, perhaps fatally, impracticable. Without underestimating the contribution to the advancement of aviation by the nation's idol, the accomplishments of the laboratory flyers are more important than those of Lindbergh.

Editorial of the Day

SENATOR HOWELL HEDGES.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Senator Howell of Nebraska has hedged. That was a bold utterance on the floor of the senate that prohibition could be enforced in Washington if the President wanted it enforced. But when Mr. Hoover promptly and properly requested Mr. Howell to furnish the facts of violation on which the government could act the senator's reply was disappointingly feeble.

In our judgment the President has acted most commendably in the circumstances, albeit to a degree naïve. The national capital is notorious for "making the laws it flouts and flouting the laws it makes." It is inconceivable that Mr. Hoover, after his long residence there, can entertain any illusion as to the farce of prohibition at the seat of government. It is not necessary for a member of the senate to tell the President what the condition is. The violation of the liquor laws at Washington by the men who enact those laws for the rest of the country is contemptible and vicious. It makes the whole nation ridiculous, as it has just made both Mr. Hoover and Senator Howell ridiculous.

HAY FEVER—FIGHTING IT.

Of those who were vaccinated against hay fever [or desensitized] several weeks before the onset of the season, about three-fourths are now entirely comfortable or reasonably near it. The great majority of those addicted to this disorder either were indifferent or careless and postponed doing anything until it was too late to escape. The devil was well, the devil a monk was he. Some of those now in the grip of hay fever can afford to seek freedom by going to sea, by climbing high in the mountains, or by going to places that are hay fever proof. Most of them must stay at home and fight it out.

Dr. H. Beckman suggests that such sufferers try daily full doses of full strength nitromuriatic acid. Let no man try this on his own responsibility. To begin with, nitromuriatic acid full strength is so poisonous that druggists will not sell it direct. In the second place, the person who takes it should have definite detailed instructions as to how to take it and how not to. Taken properly, Dr. Beckman found that it gave ease and relief to about two-thirds of those who used it properly. It is about the least troublesome treatment for hay fever.

The use of this drug is based on several observations. Diabetics seldom have any of the asthma group of disorders. Diabetics are in a state of more or less developed acidosis most of the time. In Germany during the war period when food was scarce and a considerable part of the people were in a state of hunger acidosis most of the time there was but little hay fever and asthma. These observations lead to the deduction that hay fever symptoms would not become outstanding in people who maintained a state of acidosis. One way to accomplish this is to take large doses of hydrochloric acid.

Chloride of calcium has long had a vogue as a hay fever remedy. It supplies the body with chlorides. Possibly it was the chlorides rather than the calcium that made this remedy of value in hay fever. If all this be true, perhaps a solution of plain table salt used as a drink or carbonated and used as a table water might prove helpful. Salt solution can also be used as an injection. Dr. Beckman adapted his method from one used by Dr. S. S. Bishop in treating hay fever years ago. Dr. Bishop gave acid phospate in full doses during the hay fever season to those who were subject to the disorder.

DIET IS THE WAY OUT.

Troubled writes: What would you suggest to a mother who has given her boy of five milk of magnesia since he was a month old? The family doctor says it is all right. The child never has a movement naturally. He does not know the urge of a movement. He is given coarse food and orange juice daily. If the magnesia is skipped an enema is necessary. Every few weeks there is a stomach upset, with vomiting and fever, with no food then for three or four days.

Otherwise he is a healthy youngster. A second child of two is receiving similar dosage. The father is habitually constipated.

REPLY.

Milk of magnesia is as near harmless as any of the simple laxatives. Nevertheless, it should not be used habitually. Have you tried sour milk, buttermilk and similar sour milk preparations? Lactose is a laxative for the same reason. A banana diet has a laxative action for many children. The diet route is the way out, but you may need the guidance of an experienced dietitian.

F. A. writes:

1. How much should a baby of 3½ years weigh? She is 41¼ inches tall and weighs 56 pounds.

2. If she is too heavy, please state how to reduce her.

REPLY.

1. Your child is nearly 4 inches above the average in height and 25 pounds above in weight.

2. She may be unusually healthy. If so, let nature take its course. Or, she may have some endocrine disturbance. What does your physician think?

My guess is that you should not try to reduce her weight.

IMPORTING A PIANO.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know how much duty I would have to pay on a piano which I am bringing here from England. I am an American citizen. My wife is English and a nonresident of this country, but she is coming here to live. The piano in question is hers, and is two years old. It cost about $500 when new. S. E. M.

Under the present tariff law a piano, used abroad not less than one year by Mrs. M., may be imported by her duty free, provided it is not for any other person or persons, nor for sale.

It may be that the above duty free provision will be changed in the revision of the tariff law now under consideration by congress. ANTHONY CHARNECKY, Collector of Customs.

NO STREET WIDENING NOW.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is Jeffery avenue to be widened from 67th to 75th street? If so, when? C. S.

We have no proceeding started at present for widening Jeffery avenue, between 67th and 75th streets, nor for paving the street with a wider roadway.
JOSEPH F. M'CLORY,
Secretary, Board of Local Improvements.

NOISE FROM BOWLING.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done in regard to keeping rear doors of a bowling alley closed, as the noise is a continual annoyance to the neighbors and our children cannot fall asleep at night? What action can we take in order to stop this public nuisance permanently? Your advice will be greatly appreciated. W. N.

There is no express time limit in our statutes or ordinances, but noises amounting to legal nuisances can be enjoined or, if the facts amount to disorderly conduct, can be stopped by the police. In determining whether a noise amounts to a nuisance the previous character of the neighborhood must be considered.

FOOTBALL FORECASTS.

CUSTOM has decreed that when performing as The Wake, not the Wake-Line, we should on each Saturday morning during the gridiron season attempt to forecast results of the more important football games. This forecast in a sport which furnishes so many upsets, or form reversals, is not intentionally humorous, but it gives many good laughs to football followers—more particularly after the games have been played. It also offers opportunity for readers of self-estimated humor to write sarcastic or chiding letters to the forecaster.

Thus football forecasts fulfill, perhaps, a useful purpose and will be continued in this sacred niche under its present management. Four colleges under the Big Ten banner open their season today. Forecasts appearing here are not always the opinion of the forecaster, but are given as the best composite opinion we are able to obtain from coaches, officials, and "experts." Hold your sides! ## THE BOOTLEGGERS' QUARREL

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 28, 1864.

CHICAGO.—The northwest sanitary commission reported on deaths in Marietta (Ga.) hospitals after Sherman's battles. The report says: "Of 2,280 patients received in the 15th army corps hospital after it was opened on Aug. 1, under Dr. A. Goslin, up to Sept. 21, 180 died of wounds or disease."

NASHVILLE.—Gen. Rousseau reached Pulaski yesterday. Forrest's rebel forces were within seven miles of Pulaski and advancing. Heavy skirmishing continued until dark. A general engagement is expected today.

NEW YORK.—The Post's Washington special says that dispatches from the Shenandoah valley report Gen. Early's rebel army thoroughly demoralized. Since Sheridan's victory at Fisher's Hill the rebels despair of being able to recover the valley.

WASHINGTON.—The Commercial's Washington special says: Several prominent Georgians, refugees now here, are confident that some kind of arrangement will soon be effected between Gov. Brown and Gen. Sherman through which Georgia will secede from the confederacy.

CHICAGO.—John A. Hardenbergh of New York and Miss Elizabeth Buckingham, daughter of Alvah Buckingham of Chicago, were married on Sept. 26 by the Rev. Dr. Hardenbergh.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 28, 1899.

LONDON.—A crisis in the relations between Great Britain and the Transvaal may be forced unexpectedly today. The News Cape Town correspondent cabled: "The pass at Laing's Nek will be occupied on Sept. 28 with sufficient strength for present needs, under the belief that the Boers will attack Natal immediately to forestall the landing of the Indian contingent." The war office announced it contemplates the immediate embarkation of the bulk of the army service corps for South Africa.

CHICAGO.—As the result of the largest bank stock transaction in the history of Chicago Samuel Nickerson will retire from the presidency of the First National bank after a connection of over a third of a century with the institution. He will dispose of the major part of his holdings, which, for himself and members of his family, total 8,900 shares. It is understood 7,000 shares are to be disposed of for $2,100,000. The active spirit in carrying out this purchase has been James B. Forgan, first vice president, who it is understood will succeed to the presidency.

NEW YORK.—Admiral Dewey will not come to Chicago for the fall festival, because of the press of other engagements. He will go to Washington after the New York reception ceremonies, then will go to his home in Montpelier, Vt., for a long rest.

CHICAGO.—Laverne W. Noyes was made director general of the fall festival association to succeed Charles Truax, who abdicated.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 28, 1919.

LONDON.—The first day of the greatest strike in England's history passed without disorder, but with practically complete stoppage of railway transport throughout the country. Only the trams and buses in London saved the whole city from walking. A great massmeeting of railway men was held in Albert hall and the audience for an hour sang "The Red Flag," official song of the international Socialists.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN.—President Wilson's condition was unchanged today. He has remained in bed ever since he was forced by his physician at Wichita, Kas., yesterday morning to abandon the rest of the league of nations tour. As the train neared Pittsburgh, running at a speed in excess of most express trains, Dr. Grayson objected to the pace and it was decided to slacken it during the night. It is understood that Mr. Wilson became uneasy at the speed of the train.

FOR A BIG NAVY.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Mr. Henry Wales' story today explains why a United States of Europe is not feasible . . . "ugly race hatreds, profound fissures in national viewpoints, inherent suspicions, primal nationalism of states."

After all the oratory is scattered to the four winds, the love feasts guzzled, and the mutual medals exchanged, Europe will remain as it always has been—the incubator of world wars.

Let's get a big navy and keep it that way.
THOMAS F. CASSIDY.

WORMS IN THE WATER.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—This morning while running cold water in the wash basin after shaving I found two small worms in the bottom of the basin. One worm was alive, the other was dead. I immediately notified the city health department, and a man was sent out who made a chlorine content test of the water. Chlorine content was normal. He took the worms to the laboratory for biological examination. I again called up the department of health and inquired if the drinking water of Chicago was filtered. The answer was no. He said that the worms were harmless. I do not feel that living organisms as large as these worms in the drinking water of Chicago are beneficial to the health of her people. Why not a law to force Chicago to filter her drinking water? W. L. WHITEHEAD, M. D.

REFERENCE MATERIAL.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—In my capacity as librarian, National Patriotic association, it has been my duty to assemble such information on the navy, naval bases and coast defense establishments as a civilian can obtain. I want to thank you for the able review in this morning's TRIBUNE covering the negotiations that have been conducted with the present British Socialist government during congressional recess. It is valuable reference material. We have much to learn. MARDY HOLMES.

LUXURY FOR FIRE BOSSES.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The fire department wants $1,000,000. They send out propaganda to newspapers showing pictures of dilapidated fire stations, etc.

Every day I see parked on La Salle street expensive cars for fire department officials to run around in. What kind of management is in vogue in a fire department whose officials run around in high priced autos at taxpayers' expense and which houses its men in such wretched buildings as pictured in the papers? It looks like audacity to ask taxpayers to vote more bonds until management of department is improved.
A TAXPAYER.

THE WRECKING RITES.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—A statesman wields a pick while other statesmen look on with approval, and the work on the Fine Arts building in Jackson park is started.

I was over there this morning and the 45 laborers present at the celebration had not done a thing to the columns to follow up the good pickings of the statesmen and the photographing of the press.

The workmen may be so dumb as to start on some unpicturesque part of the building, whereas the statesmen laboring for the people's picture albums toiled by the stately columns on the front side. A SHOWMAN.

VITTORIO VENETO.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—We all remember the adage of the last straw breaking the camel's back, yet none of us would think of saying that only the last straw should be regarded as important. Mr. J. E. C. claims that the Austrian defeat at Vittorio Veneto caused the collapse of the central powers. He claims that Germany was brought to its knees by this victory of as late a date as Nov. 1, 1918. Curiously, Ludendorff advised the kaiser to open peace negotiations on Aug. 8, after Foch's staccato jabs at the German front. The war was over on the 10th of August as far as Germany was concerned.

Austria-Hungary almost collapsed in September, 1917, long before Diaz assumed command. Likewise, after the defeat at Caporetto it was the French and English that aided Italy and Diaz to come to

One-half of the allied forces at Vittorio Veneto were English and French. Of the three allied armies, the Twelfth, Eighth and Tenth, only the Tenth (half English) and the Twelfth (half French) had any success. It was the British who broke through the Austrian army, and only over British gains could the Italian Eighth army gain the town of Vittorio Veneto.

It is historically known that Austria was but a dead eagle hanging on Germany's neck.

Several weeks ago THE TRIBUNE ran an article on the German side of the war in which the Germans confessed their greatest blows. Not Vittorio Veneto, by far, but American intervention clinched the war.

As far as comparing Napoleon's and Diaz's battles is concerned, need I mention the battles of Ulm, or Austerlitz, or Friedland, or Wagram?
PAUL L. STERN.

UKRAINIANS AND POLAND.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Donald Day's article in THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 19 undoubtedly was read by many Ukrainians whose reaction to it would run along the same line as mine does.

When is a country not a country? When she tries to blame some one else for her own tyrannical deeds. That's Poland.

When the Polish government, without backbone or foundation, headed by a self-appointed dictator, closes 2,600 Ukrainian schools and universities and is forcing the population illiterate of the Polish language to learn that language, especially when Poland was granted only a protectorate by the league of nations, she has certainly reached the end of the rope.

You can term it a terrorism against Poland or whatever you might like, but in my estimation and thousands of others' they are only fighting for their freedom, which they are as rightfully entitled to as the United States was during the revolutionary war, and if Germans are coöperating with the Ukrainians they certainly are contributing a lot to a good cause. S. W. H.

FARM BOARD NOT AGREED ON SCOPE OF ITS POWERS

Differ as to Sufficiency of 500 Million Fund.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Divergence of opinion among federal farm board members as to sufficiency of the 500 million dollar fund at the board's disposal for farm relief was revealed in today's hearing of the senate agricultural committee into the qualifications of Charles S. Wilson and C. B. Denman for membership on the board.

Mr. Wilson, former New York state director of agriculture, named as the representative of eastern and northeastern agriculture, asserted his belief that the fund is too small to accomplish substantial, permanent relief and predicted that the board would be compelled to seek a new appropriation in the near future.

Mr. Denman, a native of Missouri, appointed to the board as the spokesman particularly for live stock and wool producers, and Alexander Legge, chairman of the board, who was recalled for further examination, declared the board's experience had been too limited in its two months' existence to justify an opinion on the sufficiency of the fund.

Too Early to Decide.

If and when experience demonstrates the necessity for additional funds, the board, Chairman Legge and Mr. Denman promised, will not hesitate to ask congress for additional appropriations.

Mr. Legge was recalled to the stand at the request of Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], who wanted to know the chairman's conception of the board's obligation to not only solve the farm problem, but also to act as "the voice of agriculture in Washington." Farmers generally, the Oklahoma senator asserted, expect the board to assume a leadership which can be followed by the old established farm organizations, such as the National Grange, the Farmers' union and the American Farm Bureau federation.

"It is not the intention of the board," said Mr. Legge—"and I do not believe that it was contemplated that the board should do it—to usurp the leadership of those organizations. We believe we are to cooperate with them and other organizations in solution of the common problem."

Discuss Limitations of Bill.

"Much has been said," Senator Thomas continued, "about the limitations imposed on the board in the farm bill. It appears that the board considers itself limited by the precise text and language of the bill. I believe that neither congress nor the farmers expected the board to be so limited. Has the board considered itself so limited under the bill that it cannot do for the farmer what it should do?"

"We have considered the limitations of the bill but we are not prepared at this time to say that we cannot do effectively what is expected of us," replied Mr. Legge. "The job, it seems to me, is impossible on an individual basis, but when farmers are organized on a collective basis the limitations will not be burdensome.

"We expect to recommend additional legislation when the recommendations can be based on experience. Until we have had ample opportunity to ascertain how far we can go, we have no recommendations to make."

Brookhart Assails Board.

Senator S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], not a member of the agriculture committee, in the course of his examination of Mr. Wilson and Mr. Denman, assailed the board's activities since its creation and scored its failure to solve the farm problem over night by the immediate organization of stabilization corporations to handle crop surpluses.

WOMAN ROBBED IN STORE.

Mrs. Catherine Warrus, owner of a delicatessen store at 4127 North Damen avenue, was robbed of $18 last night by an armed robber who made a small purchase then threatened her with his revolver.

Stage Beauty Dies

[De Barron Photo.]

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Myrna Darby, 21, glorified by Florenz Ziegfeld in many of his productions, died at her home today from heart trouble.

She had been ill for two months and withdrew recently from the cast of "Whoopee," current Ziegfeld production. The heart disease which caused her death was brought on, according to her physician's statement, by strenuous dancing and swimming during the summer months.

Myrna came to Broadway from Pittsburgh, four years ago, and was featured by Ziegfeld in "The Three Musketeers," "Rio Rita," "The Follies," and "Rosalie," as well as "Whoopee." She was hailed by Ziegfeld as one of the most beautiful girls who ever had appeared in any of his productions.

FARMERS FAVOR FLEXIBLE TARIFF, LEADER ASSERTS

Farming interests of the United States are in favor of the flexible provisions of the tariff law, Stephen H. Love, president of the United States Beet Sugar association, declared yesterday in Chicago. Mr. Love was en route from Washington, D. C. to Ogden, Utah, to attend the annual convention of the western division of the United States chamber of commerce.

"Farmers are not opposed to the flexible tariff as Senator Borah contends," said Mr. Love. "Agriculture can obtain just as much protection and benefit from the flexible tariff as can industry. The American Farm Bureau federation, representing more than 1,000,000 farmers, has officially indorsed the flexible provisions."

FOES OF TARIFF REACH DECISION TO COMPROMISE

Democrats and Radicals Fear Defeat.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Anti-administration forces shifted their ground today in the senate controversy over the flexible tariff. Fearing defeat on the straight issue of the repeal of the flexible provisions, which President Hoover has defended, the Democrats and radical Republicans decided to support a compromise amendment framed by Senator F. M. Simmons [Dem., N. C.], ranking minority member of the finance committee.

Under the Simmons amendment the flexible tariff machinery in the tariff commission would remain. There would be investigations upon the application of interested parties or on the motion of the commission. The commission would report to the President as to changes in duties necessary to equalize differences in costs of production at home and abroad. The President, however, would be shorn of his present power to increase or decrease duties.

Main Issue Sidestepped.

As viewed by the anti-administration coalition, the compromise amendment would not affect the main issue—namely: whether power to change duties should be delegated by congress to the President.

By retaining the flexible tariff machinery in the tariff commission the Democrats and radicals would make a concession to those who believe that provision should be made for obtaining relief in emergency cases between general revisions of the tariff by congress. Advocacy by the American Farm Bureau federation of the retention of some form of flexible tariff has threatened to weaken the Democratic-radical coalition to an extent sufficient to enable the administration to win.

Paves Way for Increase.

The Simmons amendment does not provide exactly what the American Farm Bureau federation favors, but it at least would make it possible for an agricultural or industrial group to start the ball rolling for an increase in duty when no general revision of the tariff was in prospect.

Under the Simmons amendment the same formula for determination of rates to equalize costs of production which is in the present law is retained. The 50 per cent limitation for increases or decreases and the prohibition again the transfer of commodities from the dutiable list to the free list or vice versa are eliminated.

That the vote on the Simmons amendment will be extremely close is the expectation.

COLLEGE SHOWS FARMERS HOW TO FEED HOGS

Purdue Experiments Studied by 700.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Swine growers from seventy Indiana counties, southern Michigan and eastern Illinois, gathered around the Purdue university experimental plots here today to learn the newest in dietary practice for the lowly mortgage lifter.

Under the direction of Professor F. G. King, the seven hundred farmers were divided into three groups and conducted through the fields to see what effect minerals, tankage and other hog feeds have on pork production.

City Garbage May Be Used.

C. M. Vestal, in charge of the Purdue swine investigations, explained the types of rations and their cost in detail. He was followed by Professor G. Bohstedt of the University of Wisconsin animal husbandry department, who compared the experiments at Madison with those conducted at Purdue.

Experiments are being made to find a possible outlet for the millions of pounds of city garbage in a profitable pork ration but with little success as yet, Professor Vestal said. When such an outlet has been found he predicts that such cities as Chicago, Indianapolis, Kansas City, and Cleveland may find a rural market for their refuse as contrasted with present costly disposal methods.

Rains Speed Plowing.

Light rains the last few days have enabled Hoosier farmers to do more plowing, according to those interviewed at the meeting today.

Crops have been injured seriously in nearly every section of the state and the pasture situation is said to be acute in the live stock areas. Dairy farmers in northern Indiana supplying the Chicago milk market have felt the drouth keenly, with lessened milk production in nearly every herd. Indiana farmers expect to curtail their winter cattle and hog feeding appreciably if indications at the meeting here hold true.

FORGET-ME-NOTS TO BE SOLD TODAY FOR VETS' BENEFIT

Early rush crowds, Saturday morning shoppers, and Saturday afternoon holiday bound Chicagoans will find time to pause in their hurry today to buy the small blue forget-me-nots, symbol of the sacrifices of disabled world war veterans.

For this is forget-me-not day for the Disabled Veterans of the World War, and all the money falling into the boxes of workers stationed all over Chicago will bring a bit of joy to those who lost the happiness of health on the battlefields. The committee hopes to raise many thousands of dollars. When the sale is over the sealed boxes will be taken to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company to be counted.

Among the women rounding up groups of volunteer women to sell the flowers are Dr. Anna R. Ranes, Mrs. Herman N. Bundesen, Mrs. Frieda Koch, Mrs. Agnes Lueback, Mrs. Addie Inman, Mrs. George Atkinson, Mrs. Monroe Kohn, and Mrs. S. A. George.

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Douglas Dorling, a young British peer, is sent to Dartmoor prison on the perjured evidence of Cora Sefton, an unscrupulous woman in love with him. In revenge, because he scorned her advances, she swears she saw him kill a policeman in a night club raid. Dorling is a famous aviator, but to keep this knowledge from his mother and spare her worry he has been using the assumed name of Douglas Harris; and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in spectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown; is shaved, dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel, where, to his amazement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife.

Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Dorling enfolded by Cora on his arrival, and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly married.

Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Aylmer Granston, in the lobby, and accepts an invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note. Immediately she wires Jabez Malleron, well known amateur connoisseur of the arts and a neighbor of the Granstons. As Malleron is decoding the wire, Marthe Perralle, Cecily's maid, calls. She is obviously in his employ. He directs her to bring her mistress within a few days to a town called Mortvaig, in Scotland.

That night, while Dorling is dining with the Granstons, Malleron calls. Later Cecily comes in, not knowing Doug is there. She greets him frigidly, and creates a sensation by announcing she hears he is married.

Doug goes to see Cora, and asks her to explain all the mystery. She refuses, but tells him he is to go to Mortvaig, Scotland, to meet her chief. He agrees, but first visits his mother at Dorling Towers. Cecily's father, Charles Warren, who lives on the fringe of the Dorling estate, calls, and remarks casually that his daughter has taken a job finishing a Mortvaig millionaire's house. Doug is struck by the coincidence in names.

At Mortvaig Doug can only learn that, in return for his freedom, he is being blackmailed into a mysterious service as an airplane pilot. He takes off for his first trip, little dreaming Cecily is on board, drugged.

Charles Warren, who is in the government secret service, though this is not known to his friends, takes a holiday at home. Detective Inspector Rason of Scotland Yard calls for a conference. He believes Harris' escape from prison was a carefully planned one, and links it with a gang of smugglers whom he and Warren are pursuing. He has traced the van in which Doug was rescued to a London furniture company. Warren says this same company sent Cecily to Scotland. Rason suspects trouble, and wires the Mortvaig police.

Landing at his island base, Doug is shown about by another pilot, Lieut. Beresford. On his return to Mortvaig he is permitted to go down to London for a few days and he decides to shake himself free of the gang. He calls on Cecily to explain everything to her. But he is told by Mr. Warren that Cecily has disappeared from Mortvaig. Her maid returned without her and could shed no light on the disappearance. When Douglas sees Cecily's maid he remembers that he had seen her at the Mortvaig airdrome and suspects that she is one of the gang. With a shock he realizes that he must have carried Cecily to the island and that she is being kept a prisoner there by the chief. He decides to return. Arrived at the island he asks to see Miss Warren and greatly to his surprise he is allowed to see her. He arranges for her escape and manages to land in England. He is arrested by a navy plane, however. He flies inland, then heading the plane again toward the sea, he drops in a parachute. His plane is shot down in flames and Douglas Harris is presumed to be dead. He hurries to London, expecting to see Cecily there before him, and is amazed to learn that she has not returned. Warren tells him she has been recaptured by the gang.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

A HINT.

Jabez Malleron, like everybody else, had believed that Doug Harris had been killed.

In his very thorough organization no single member was wasted. Marthe Perralle, having played her part in the abduction of her young mistress, was not allowed to remain idle. It was part of her duty to report by telephone the name of every caller at the flat. He had been advised of Rason's coming—advised twenty minutes later that Lord Dorling had arrived.

"Ah, my dear Warren, busy as usual, I see. My little bit of news would have kept, but my own day was broken through having to attend the bedside of a dying client, and I thought I might as well break into yours."

"Your interruptions, my dear Malleron, are the most important moments in my career."

"Elegant, my dear sir, elegant!" He glanced towards the door. "Er—in the hall I happened to meet that very charming youngster—Lord Dorling. I pity the old man died before his time, leaving a spirited young fellow."

"I've never known you waste a hint, Malleron," he said carefully.

"You are surprised to see me here, Lord Dorling."

But the odd little coincidence struck me. I had come in to give you a tiny hint about that furniture firm in Bond street in which you are interested, Graun. They're going bankrupt. A great pity. They were clients of my father, but for the last generation or two we've lost sight of them. But I heard about the bankruptcy from quite a different source."

"I would like to know where young Dorling comes into all this," said Warren, a trifle impatiently.

"The professional relationship of solicitor and client is a very sacred one," he said unctuously. "If I allowed myself the least elasticity in this matter, would I be of any use to you, my dear Warren?"

Warren was thinking quickly. Here unmistakably was a hint from Malleron that young Dorling was connected with the dope trade. If he knew enough to give a hint it was ten to one he knew the whole story.

He would have turned the conversation, but checked himself. Secrecy, he thought, was becoming an obsession with him. He discovered himself carrying secrecy beyond all reason. Malleron might be useful to him in this matter as he had been useful in so many others. Besides, what harm could there be in confiding in Malleron, the friend of judges, the eminent solicitor, in the confidence of most of the leading men in public life.

"Dorling has been got hold of by—them," he said gruffly.

"I'm glad you know it, Warren. I couldn't have added to my hint."

"Now that I have told you, perhaps you will give me the benefit of your advice. The thing presents several knotty legal problems. I've only known it myself for half an hour."

Ten minutes later he had told Jabez Malleron everything that he himself knew about Dorling.

"Of course, there's no difficulty in my not handing him over to the authorities," finished Warren. "I can use my discretion there without any misgivings. The question is, can I stand in on this fantastic bargaining which he is proposing to undertake? He is almost hysterical about it—he firmly believes that if I send him back to Dartmoor this afternoon he can still bargain with the gang. There's no doubt they've impressed him."

Jabez Malleron was sitting upright in his armchair. At that moment he looked for all the world like a judge.

"My dear sir, there's no need for any kind of bargain," he said sharply.

"You see a way out?"

"This chart! Has he taken any copies of it?"

"He didn't say so."

"Where is it?"

"Naturally, he wouldn't tell me."

"Hm! Where would you or I put such a document if we didn't know any better? In the bank, of course!"

"A bank will never hand over anything—until ordered to do so by a judge," said Malleron. "Too late to get an order today. Leave it in my hands and you shall have that chart by this time tomorrow."

"I hadn't thought of that—I hadn't thought of the bank at all."

"You are tired, my friend. You will leave it in my hands?"

"Most certainly."

"By the way, young Dorling is in this flat, isn't he?" As the other gave assent he went on: "Send for him, my dear Warren."

Warren touched a bell.

"I'm in an extremely awkward position, Malleron. He wanted to marry my daughter, as you will have guessed by now. I've known him since he was a child."

"Leave the talking to me," said Malleron, wearing now the indulgent air of a family solicitor.

Dorling, summoned by the parlor maid, stated at sight of Malleron. He had taken it for granted that Warren would be alone.

Malleron, seeing this, came straight to the point.

"You are surprised to see me here, Lord Dorling. I don't know whether Mr. Warren happened to mention that I am associated with him in some small measure—on the purely legal side of his work. And we have just been discussing this rather difficult position in which you find yourself."

Dorling stiffened. He suspected that he would be subjected to further coercion. Never for one moment did the faintest suspicion cross his brain that he stood in the presence of the almost legendary chief of the gang.

"If Mr. Warren has told you the full facts you will realize there is very little to discuss," he said curtly.

"Come, come, my dear sir, you speak as if we had a different object in view. To get Miss Warren back and lay these fellows by the heels—that, I think, is a purpose common to the three of us."

"My object, first and last, is to get Miss Warren back," said Dorling.

"Yes, yes—by offering them this chart you've made. Did it occur to you that they may suspect the existence of a copy?"

"They may. I don't expect a walkover in dealing with them. From what I've seen of them, Mr. Malleron, they're a very strange crowd—they have a sort of sense of contract. They would keep a bargain—and expect me to do the same. I shall have to get them to take my word for it that there are no copies."

"Hm! Before I go any further, try to understand this, Lord Dorling. I think I have partly persuaded Mr. Warren"—he turned to Warren with an old world bow—"to offer you no immediate interference in your own plans. You are the only one of us who has come in direct contact with these people and you may understand their methods better than we do. The few questions I want to ask you now are only based on our desire to find out what chances you have of success?"

Good Morning!

"For the wages of sin is death."

"Fast Life" (all talker) is not the gay and giddy thing the title leads you to believe it might be. Starting out wittily and bibulously enough to furnish kick to the most avid jazz hound, it quickly involves its principal characters in a terrible mess and ends in ghastly, tragic fashion. It is because of this ending, possibly, that the censors have insisted on a pink permit, for there are scenes in the film that would certainly do a nervous or imaginative child no good.

"Fast Life" is, as a whole, credible, impressive, and well done. The start and body of the piece are more convincing than the last couple of reels, where hectic and not entirely probable events transpire and where (due to direction, I think) the acting of several of the good cast becomes florid. I refer especially to the work of John Sainpolis in his appearance before the governor to beg for the life of his son. However, the narrative consistently holds the interest.

The production opens with a wild party in the apartment of a wild young man, wildly portrayed by Douglas Fairbanks Jr.—who needs a haircut badly. Here you discover three youths, the host and two of his guests, one the son of the governor, all in love with Patricia Mason—a state of affairs quite easy to comprehend, for Loretta Young as Patricia is a darling.

It is Douglas whom she loves and she returns to his apartment late that night, after having been escorted home by her other two swains. This action of hers (not so reprehensible as it appears on the surface) leads to—what follows.

The picture would have been better had the elongated jail scenes been made shorter—and some dispensed with. The escape, toward the end, could not, you feel, possibly have happened when and how it does. But—as I said, "Fast Life" is, on the whole, a believable and well produced motion picture that points a moral with a capital "M."

I am quite sure this is the first time in history that we've had the pleasure of seeing the three Moore boys in the same picture. Anyhow—here they are, big as life and twice as natural—brothers on the screen as well as in real life.

O'Farrell is the name. Tom is Jimmy the cop; Matt is John, an ambulance surgeon, and Dennis, his mother's favorite, is a bootlegger and head of a dangerous gang. This last mentioned fact is not known in the family circle until the film has unreeled quite a bit, and Mrs. O'Farrell never finds it out. At least, you hope she never does. The death and tragic end of Dennis are not revealed to her so far as you ever discover.

It won't be difficult for you to imagine complications that might occur when three brothers so situated, two of them honest men and the third a beloved sinner, live, move, and have their being in the same neck of the woods. The picture will assist your imagination.

"Side Street" generally is interesting, though none of the Moore boys do the best acting of their careers. Tom, I should say, is the best of the three.

As far as acting goes, laurels must be handed to Frank Sheridan, who plays the ex-policeman, father of the boys, and to Emma Dunn, as their mother. Kathryn Perry, as Tom's sweetheart, walks and stands and looks, and that's about all she does. Direction is very good in some spots and inadequate in others.

"Side Street" points its moral, talks agreeably and may be regarded as an asset to the State-Lake bill.

See you tomorrow.

PLEDGE HE WON'T SMOKE CLEARS HIM AS METHODIST PASTOR

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A written pledge to abstain from use of tobacco was reported today to have cleared the Rev. Harry Wallace Craver, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Augusta, W. Va., of the unfavorable report given yesterday by the committee on admissions.

When 15 young men were advanced to the deaconate at the morning session of the Baltimore conference of the church today, Craver was one of the group. His case was not referred to on the floor of the conference today but he appeared as one of the class.

The Rev. Royal A. Rice of Covington, Va., who has acted as spokesman for the conference, gave the explanation that Mr. Craver had signed a written pledge to abstain from the use of tobacco. When the unfavorable report of the committe on admissions was given yesterday, the committee gave the information that he would promise not to smoke in public, but reserved the right to smoke privately.

In an address of admonition to the class, Bishop Denny, presiding, counselled the young man to avoid participation in politics.

Monette, Mo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Jazz music with some of its new tendencies is seen as an aid to the church by Bishop E. L. Waldorf of the Kansas City diocese of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"Jazz reigns in 10,000 halls in this country where no preacher will ever be heard," he said in an address before the St. Louis conference of the church here. "It reaches probably 39 millions of people that the church will not affect. So it is that song hits which encourage smiling in the face of difficulty have a great opportunity for good.

"It may be," he continued, "that the lines about 'Mary and Me, the Baby Makes Three,' have had a part indirectly in discouraging companionate marriage."

Legion Hosts Soon to Meet in Kentucky

Louisville Gets Ready for Monday Session.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Bedecked in holiday dress and with flags flying from almost every building, Louisville tonight was prepared to welcome the vanguard of American Legion visitors here for the national convention, which begins Monday.

The first ceremony of the convention preliminary activities will be the official welcome tomorrow morning to Commander Paul V. McNutt of Indianapolis. Seventy-five legionnaires, including state commanders, have been delegated to welcome the national commander. From the train he will be escorted to the city hall. There Mayor William Harrison will give the city's official welcome.

Past National Commander Howard P. Savage will arrive Sunday.

Other delegations expected Sunday are the Fond Du Lac, Wis., post with 125 delegates; several Illinois outfits; a Minneapolis group of 235, including four drum corps, the Sioux City, Ia., post, 125 strong; a Montana delegation of 125; a North Dakota party of 235 aboard six special cars and two special trains bearing the Los Angeles delegation seeking the 1930 convention.

Four hundred Louisville patrolmen and members of the detective force will be assisted by some 550 members of the National Guard in handling the crowds.

The downtown district will be turned over to the legionnaires. Parking in that sector will be forbidden. Both Gov. Flem D. Sampson of Kentucky and Mayor Harrison issued proclamations urging all business houses to close Tuesday, the day of the parade. About 50,000 marchers are expected to take part.

The other nominee for president was Mrs. G. A. Howell, Altoona, Pa., whom Mrs. McClure defeated by 152 votes to 123. The women for whom votes were cast in the nomination included Mrs. Lottie Haas, New York; Mrs. Carrie Root, Kewanna, Ind., and Mrs. Mary Bennett Little, Wadesboro, N. C.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Sadie Scanlon, 6436 South Talman avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Have the talkies taken the romance out of the movies?

The Answers.

F. W. Remley, Whiting company salesman—I don't believe so; owing to the fact the addition of speech and sound tends to intensify the realism. The crowds go to the talkies instead of the silent plays.

Miss Sylvia Libby, 426 Belmont avenue, insurance—No, instead, the talkies add to the romance of a play. One can hear the voices, and as a result the plays contain more pathos and comedy, more subtle human touches so essential to drama. The talkies have turned the movies into a beautiful and intelligent form of entertainment.

R. L. Gowdy, Enfield, Ill., railroad clerk — The reverse; sound pictures bring out romance that was not possible within the limitations of the silent drama. The old method of making motions and captions replace speech was not natural.

Mrs. E. R. Davis, 1464 East 67th street, bookkeeper — If the talkies have taken anything out of the movies they have added much in its place. The talkies are a great improvement over the silent screen. Another thing, no longer can anybody with nothing but good looks take important parts in plays.

David R. Poole, Evansville, Ind., railroad clerk—The talkies, imperfect though they may be, are just one step, perhaps two, ahead. Talk has vivified the movies. They are on the way to something better.

INDIANS CALL FOR FULL CITIZENSHIP; RESENT BEING WARDS

They want to get off the reservations, quit government-imposed farming, become managers of their own affairs, and as pure-blood Americans, have a chance to ascend to the presidency of the United States.

Indians in war paint and feathered headdresses appeared last night at Fullerton hall in the Chicago Art institute in celebration of their annual American Indian day as members of the Grand Council Fire of American Indians. While much of the program was entertainment demonstrating the primitive lore of the deep forest and wikiup plain, a serious note was sounded. The Indians believe they have come of age as American citizens, competent to determine their own destiny.

The first note so sounded was in an official call for a convention of all tribes in the United States to meet in Chicago on American Indian day, Friday, Sept. 26, next year. This was read by Scott H. Peters, Chippewa, president of the Grand Council Fire of American Indians.

"This gathering is to insure that the voice of our people shall be heard in determining our own destiny," the call stated. "Within the last year much light has been thrown on the conditions prevailing among the Indian people, principally through the efforts of white people. It is necessary that the Indians themselves discuss their own affairs and set forth their views, that justice may be obtained."

German Playwright Admitted, Prison Offense "Political"

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Ernst Toller, German dramatist and playwright, today was admitted to the United States for three months without bond following a brief hearing before a special immigration board of inquiry at Ellis island. The board found that the offense for which he had served a prison sentence in Germany was of a political nature.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The recent detention at Ellis island of Ernst Toller brought out a strong protest from the democratic press here. That points out that Toller does not belong to any political party now and has quarreled with Moscow.

"Ernst Toller is a political idealist and a literary man without a political rôle," one paper said. The American consul general at Berlin states that he gave out a visa to Toller without hesitation, especially as he was willing to put up $500 as a special caution.

The Tempo suggests: "This amazing treatment of a literary man of international note by America leads one to believe that Toller must have been denounced to the American authorities by German Nationalists."

College Work Needless for Christ, Lincoln

So Glenn Frank Says to U. of W. Students.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—Jesus, while admittedly one of the great teachers of all time, probably would have difficulty in getting a $1,800 instructorship in a modern university and Abraham Lincoln probably would not have handled the civil war more wisely had he been Dr. Lincoln, and the Gettysburg address probably would have been no better had he had a course in freshman English.

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin today sketched these views in his welcoming address to the new student body on the university grounds.

"None of the more obvious aspects of modern teaching is traceable in his ministry," President Frank said of Jesus.

"I look in vain through the New Testament for any tables of statistics he presented to his hearers. I find no labored analysis of masses of historical data. I find no record of assigned reading that he asked his hearers to ponder.

"I find no sets of examination questions submitted to his followers. I find no record of any commencement exercises in which he gave diplomas or degrees to his disciples.

"In short, here was a great teacher, who got along without any of the elaborate paraphernalia that you and I associate with the task of teaching.

"He was not primarily interested in giving his hearers any new information. He was not so much interested in having his hearers absorb any given mass of standardized information as in having them think about the pressing problems of their own lives; he was not so much interested in increasing their knowledge as in increasing their understanding.

"He was not concerned to have them practice remembering. He wanted them to practice thinking. Jesus probably would have difficulty in getting an $1,800 instructorship in a modern university, but he was one of the great teachers of all time."

President Frank described Lincoln as unschooled but not uneducated.

"Lincoln and his like usually are hailed as examples of what determined youth can do despite a lack of schooling, with the assumption that Lincoln, let us say, would have been a greater man had he gone through college," he said.

"Lincoln was, of course, a genius. But I am not sure that Lincoln would have handled the civil war more wisely if he had been Dr. Lincoln, instead of Old Abe. I am not sure that the Gettysburg address would have been the better for a course in freshman English.

"I am not sure that it is the best use of the memory of Lincoln to use him as propaganda for a mere expansion of our formal school system, so that all the Lincolns of the future may be guaranteed a seat in a classroom. It might be more profitable to think of Lincoln and his learning method as a point of departure for an honest reconsideration of our sometimes over-organized, over-formalized, over-institutionalized methods of teaching and learning.

"It may be more important that the millions that crowd our classrooms be freed to learn as Lincoln learned than that future Lincolns be forced to learn as we now seek to learn in our classrooms.

"I do not pity Lincoln half so much on the score that he was unable to go to school as I envy Lincoln that he was able to pursue his education by an almost perfect educational method.

"A Lincoln reading Shakespeare and the Bible by a log fire compares quite favorably with a modern university man reading snappy current magazines in the luxurious lounge of a fraternity house.

"In taking stock of yourself and of your teachers, don't take these suggestive sketches of Jesus and Lincoln too literally. We are not a faculty of prophets. And you are not a student of prodigies. Tables of statistics are important.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Reliable Girl, It Seems, Is Admired but Not Courted

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A story was told me recently about a certain girl in an office who held a high position, was admired heartily but suffered the not happy fate of being far more admired than courted.

A cute looking youngster not long out of school was employed as sort of a sub-secretary. She had a whole raft of beaus. "A good kid," as the boys all called her, and popular with everybody. Out of the mouth of this babe one day, the much admired secretary learned words of wisdom.

"You," she said to the head secretary, "have the quality of reliability, which I'll never have. But you underestimate the value of feminine charm."

There are just scads of girls at whom this identical charge might be hurled. They have the best charm of all—which is the quality of reliability. They can be depended on. Their word is as good as law. They never attempt to put a mistake on another. When things go wrong, there is no scene. They never resort to any subterfuges to escape an unpleasant task. One hundred per cent good souls, fine—and admired. Why this type so often does not marry is one of the problems of common grappling. The truth, however, is their failure to recognize the value of feminine charm.

I don't think it would be bad advice to suggest that the more reliable, painstaking, conscientious a girl is, the more she ought to go in for excessively feminine dress; the more she ought to practice the art of feminine graciousness. And if it doesn't sound too idiotic, which it may to the girl involved, she ought to practice up on that charm potion: "Aren't you wonderful" until it rolls off smoothly as the proverbial water off the duck's back. And she ought to do these things early—not wait until the years bring home the truth of my so-labelled axioms.

What women want out of life isn't a reputation as admirable secretaries, admirable executives, admirable nurses or whatever the vocation. Not admirable wives, even, in our sense of the word. Loved and loving wives, yes, the formula for which keeps on being reliable plus—plus feminine charms.

The Trolley Jerked.

My most embarrassing moment occurred one day while I was in Chicago. I got on a crowded street car and had to stand. The car gave a jerk when it started and as I was not holding on to anything I started to go backward. I landed in a corner of the car and, on falling, pulled a package out of a man's hand, throwing it on the floor.

Was I embarrassed? I got off at the next stop, even though I hadn't intended to.

SAYS STONE AGE ISLANDERS RESIDE CLOSE TO AUSTRALIA

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The existence of a people of stone age culture on a group of small islands in the Arafura sea north of Australia was vouched for here today by W. Lloyd Warner, anthropologist, upon his return from an expedition.

Warner said he had lived among the aborigines on the Crocodile islands off the northern coast of Australia. They have no religion and have not reached the stage where they can use bows and arrows, he said.

"The inhabitants of the Crocodile islands are the last stone age people in the world," Warner said. "They cook their food in holes among hot rocks. They have polygamy. Their only weapon is a stone headed spear. The women do most of the work. There is no money, everything is by barter."

Warner said the islanders were big and strong. They had an elaborate social organization with marked rules of conduct and that their children were obedient. They had no liquor, but used a primitive tobacco he said. Warner is on his way to Harvard university.

"FAST LIFE" at the ORIENTAL THEATER, is restricted to ADULTS ONLY by decree of the Chicago Censors. We dislike the idea of restricting our entertainment, as our policy has always been for an open door to all theatergoers. But we regard "FAST LIFE" so noteworthy a dramatic achievement even for this day of screen accomplishment that we cannot consistently deprive our adult patrons of it. WE WISH ALL CHICAGO COULD SEE IT!

But—the censors say: "It's not for Children!"

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Miss Patterson, Griffith Mark Will Wed Today

BY THALIA

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson are at Greenwich, Conn., today to attend the marriage of their daughter, Elinor, to Griffith Mark of Lake Forest, son of Clayton Mark. The marriage is to take place this afternoon at the Congregational church, and will be followed by a supper for the immediate families and a few close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Mark will live in Greenwich, as Mr. Mark is in business in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Larrence Myers of Hinsdale announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Katherine Burton Thayer, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Richardson Thayer of Hinsdale, to Robert Neal McKenna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. McKenna of Hinsdale.

Miss Thayer was graduated from Rogers hall in Boston and made her debut several years ago. Her aunt, the late Mrs. Charles Pope, presented her in the same season during which the former Margaret Willing (Mrs. John V. Farwell III.), Miss Janet Chase, and Mrs. Stanley Zaring (Marion Dixon) came out. She is a member of the Junior League and Service club. Mr. McKenna is a Princeton graduate and a member of the Charter club. No wedding date has been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Hobart are to give a tea this afternoon to present their daughter, Miss Virginia Hobart. Assisting the debutante will be Miss Betty Durham, Miss Betty Parker, Miss Marianne Stevenson, Miss Louise Lackner, Miss Margaret Emily Lynde, Miss Helen Bell, Miss Grace Dewes, Miss Ruth Fisher, Miss Anne Small, and Miss Janet Kirk. A dinner and theater party will follow the tea. Miss Hobart is to return to Bryn Mawr next February, and will spend the first part of the season here.

With a businesslike attitude that augurs well for the coffers to be filled with proceeds from the third annual St. Luke's fashion show, to be held on Oct. 22 at the Stevens hotel ballroom, the committee in charge of the arrangements has taken an office in the new Palmolive building. Each committee head has a desk of her own, and the plans laid last spring are being put into action most efficiently.

Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. called yesterday in her capacity as publicity chairman to inform me that this year's show is to be better than ever, that the woman's board is to meet at the hospital next Wednesday with a fashion show committee meeting following, and that she is to give a luncheon at the Casino next Friday for the board and the society editors. As there seems to be so much more interest in fashions this season than there usually is, the exhibit probably will be well patronized. Mrs. George A. Ranney is in charge of corralling the mannequins to model the new costumes.

Chairmen and committees of the 42 districts of metropolitan Chicago are to attend a dinner in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house next Friday evening to open Civic Opera week. Some of the representatives include Mrs. Charles H. Besly of Hinsdale, Mrs. Frank Fuller of Winnetka, Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, president of the Federated Women's clubs; Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Leslie Wiswell of Beverly Hills.

The Junior League office has reopened for its winter season, the first board meeting has been held, and it has been requested that the names of provisional members be sent to Mrs. Press Hodgkins in care of the Junior league office at the Drake, not later than Oct. 6.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr. of Lake Forest are being congratulated upon the birth on Thursday of a daughter at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Pirie was Miss Daisianna Smith before her marriage last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Powell of 743 Buena avenue are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter at St. Luke's hospital on Wednesday. Mrs. Powell was formerly Miss Imogene Taylor, and is the daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Taylor of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Taylor is now visiting her son-in-law and daughter. The new baby is to be named Jean.

The Hubert Burnhams of Evanston and their children have returned from their summer place at Mackinac island. Mrs. Burnham is accompanying Mardé to New York City on her way back to Rosemary hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jelke of 2400 Sheridan road have returned from Newport, R. I., where they have been for the summer.

GRANDSON OF LATE JAMES J. HILL TO WED EX-CO-ED

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The betrothal of Miss Dorothy Virginia Millett of St. Paul and Minneapolis to Louis W. Hill, Jr., grandson of the late James J. Hill, was announced here today. The marriage will take place here late in November.

Both Mr. Hill and Miss Millett are younger members of two pioneer families of Minnesota and the northwest. Miss Millett's grandfather, the late James Martin Millett, came to Hastings, Minn., two years before James J. Hill, the "empire builder" reached St. Paul.

The romance began last April when they met at the University of Minnesota, where Miss Millett was a student. After a five months' honeymoon trip the couple will live in St. Paul. Miss Millett is 23 years old. Hill is 27.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Smith of Atlanta, Ga., formerly of Daytona Beach, Fla., to James Gamble Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rogers of Chicago and Winter Park, Fla., will take place today at the residence of the bride's parents in Atlanta.

The marriage of Miss Louise Marie Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Hobbe of 7432 Oglesby avenue, to Walter A. Beer, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Beer of 8047 Langley avenue, will take place at 7:30 o'clock this evening at the Bryn Mawr Community church.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Wedgewood hotel. Miss Hobbs is a member of Epsilon chapter of the Thalia sorority and Mr. Beer of Phi Delta fraternity. They will leave after the ceremony for a motor trip through the south and east.

Eleven Religions All Strive for Methods for Averting Wars

Dean Shailer Mathews of the divinity school at the University of Chicago returned yesterday after a summer in Europe and reported that progress had been made by the executive committee of the universal conference for international peace through religion. That group met in Munich in August, with him as chairman.

Dean Mathews added that seventy members of the committee, representing eleven religious systems, drew up a plan of action and laid plans for a general conference in 1930.

"Our plans call for an independent working towards our ideal by each religion using its own technique," he declared. "First, we decided to study the causes of war, second to make a survey of those forces in society, such as education and religion, which may be utilized in preventing war; third, to examine what religion has done in preventing wars, and fourth, to draw up suggestions on how to proceed."

What Will You Name Your Boy? Read Sunday's List

A "Play Booklet" by Mrs. Bevans for mothers of pre-school children will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

As last Sunday's article was on girls' names, tomorrow will be given over to a list of names for boys.

This list, when finally selected from several sources, proved to be longer than the space permitted, so it was necessary to cut out a number of names. Many of the more usual ones that we are all familiar with and many that we think of as family names—Finley, Hanford, etc.—also had to be omitted for lack of space.

It was a temptation to include in this list some beautifuly romantic names redolent of an earlier epoch—Tristram, Ballantyne, Tamerlane, Anson, Gilderoy, etc. But their entire inappropriateness to this modern age compelled me to omit them.

In going over these old books on names and their meaning it is interesting to read what used to be the governing factor in naming a child. There was always some reason why a name was conferred. Among the ancients—particularly the Greeks and Jews—names stood for family honor, glorious deeds, sacred relationships. In the east names had an imaginative or poetical quality.

In the west, with its more practical and utilitarian civilization, and particularly in the last five hundred years, a larger proportion of names was traceable to the crafts and professions.

One authority in a book published 75 years ago made the statement that the Bible supplied us with fifty per cent of current names. I doubt if this holds true in our modern times.

What does govern the selection of names nowadays is hard to tell. We are, not so often named after our grandmothers, grandfathers, and aunts and uncles for sentimental reasons, although some families still hold to this custom. So the earth is not so full of Little Johns and Big Johns and Young Tims and Old Tims. Lately there has been a style for very simple names—John, Henry, William, Walter, and also for names that are euphonious. Some people feel that the nicest names a boy can have is his mother's maiden name. It often gives a distinction to the full name and is a means of keeping alive among one child families some trace of the mother's lineage.

The collection of the names of boys and girls may appear later in booklet form, when it will be possible to make the list more inclusive.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES DRESS.

A dress made of black crêpe satin shows a new princess silhouette with unusual flare from the hips. The front panel effect makes it equally suited to large or slight figures, and the round neckline is generally becoming, and in this instance is prettily finished with a shoulder bow of the dull side of the crêpe, which also appears as trimming on the skirt.

The pattern, 2887, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

The fruit and vegetable season for people who live in large cities lasts twelve months each year. There is no closed season for fruits and vegetables and green peas can be bought in the metropolitan market every business day in the year.

Another characteristic of this market is the great variety of fruits and vegetables offered to the people throughout the year. Seventy-eight varieties of fruit and vegetables have enough sales to be represented in the market summary issued by the New York City office of the United States department of agriculture.

The foregoing facts are from a bulletin on the production and sale of New York market peas, just issued by the Cornell university station. This bulletin discusses the growing of market peas, which is characterized as profitable, especially where the vines are fed to stock. A recommendation made by the bulletin is that all peas should be marketed in baskets, because the buyers can see them more easily and they sell for enough more to justify the actual expense of the better package. Bags are still used in some sections, but this practice is declining.

Another section of the pamphlet tells of marketing peas through cooperative associations and says that these associations present many real advantages to the grower.

A copy of this bulletin will be sent to any person interested who addresses Cornell university agricultural experiment station, Ithaca, N. Y., and asks for P-475.

Little Teddy, pointing to a fox terrier's short little tail, exclaimed, "Say, daddy, I wish you'd buy me one of these cute little short stem dogs."

Imperious little Nancy, age six, was awakened in the middle of the night by a terrific clap of thunder. "Daddy," she cried indignantly, "Daddy, this shouldn't be allowed!"

E. L.

"I hear you and that rough Jimmy got into an argument today," said Sonny's big brother. "How did you get out of it without a scratch?" he continued.

"Well," said Sonny, "I'm not a good fighter, but gee, I can run."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Indian Chutneys.

In pickle making time the English people have made chutneys as one of the seasonal performances and made the season begin with the gooseberries. In some of the English cook books we find gooseberry chutney sauce, but we have much reason to believe that a true Indian chutney is made of the mango when it is still unripe. The English have made an imitation of mango chutney by using unripe apples.

Without working over these recipes it is difficult to guess which would probably be the most satisfactory to American taste, but from some experiences I have had I should incline to these recipes which prescribe raisins. In that compendious Mrs. Beeton volume which contains about two thousand pages there are two Indian recipes for chutney, besides another for chutney mango, one for tomato chutney, and another for English chutney.

Since I have discovered that a good many of my readers are willing to experiment, just as I do myself, to find out how a given recipe will come out, and whether it is worth anything or not, I am quoting one of these Indian chutneys from the great Beeton "Household Management."

The ingredients for this chutney are: One quart of mild vinegar, one pound of sour apples, peeled, cored, and sliced; one-half pound onions, peeled and coarsely chopped; one pound of moist sugar; one-half pound raisins, stoned and quartered; four ounces salt, four ounces ground ginger, two ounces dry mustard, one-half ounce cayenne, four cloves of garlic finely chopped.

The method is to cook the apples, onions, and garlic with the sugar, salt, and vinegar until quite soft, then pass them through a fine hair sieve. Add the raisins, ginger, cayenne, and mustard, mix well together, turn into a jar, stand in a warm but not hot place until the following day. The next day this is sealed, and the directions say that it will keep for a year or two.

Furred Wrap Dominates Fashion Picture

BY JEANETTE EATON.

Paris dressmakers are certainly making the fur fly this season. Never was its use on both suits and coats more lavish. Only those velvet wraps topping the formal afternoon ensemble or those creations of Schiaparelli type, topped by her characteristic scarf collar, dare to appear unadorned by any pelt.

Collars of fur are high and voluminous, often giving a Queen Anne suggestion. Lelong is sponsoring high collars with the fur only on the outside, and others, Chanel in particular, feature separate cape collars of fur. Deep cuffs and trimming which outlines the front flare afford further excuse for luxurious application of beautiful skins. Fox remains a special favorite, but is rivaled, thanks to the present emphasis of brown tones, by brown Persian lamb.

Formal coats for which broadcloth is being much stressed show interesting sleeve developments. Often the sleeve is cut in one with the back and offers a loose shoulder treatment. Some of the short coats are flared from the shoulder, but the majority of them place the flare rather low and preserve a tendency to a back dip. One of the newest imports revealed several of these features. A raglan sleeve diversified a princess cut with elongated back section and the deep collar and cuffs were of wolf.

Today's model typifies the graceful and feminine theme which is the paramount message from Paris. Especially in the back there is a suggestion of the princess line. But its dominant feature is the front flare established by slanting seams. Red fox outlines this flare and fashions the cuffs and the voluminuous collar. The fabric is one of those new woolen materials with velvety surface and the color is dark brown. Brown suede pumps and a hat of soleil in the same shade complete the costume.

MARSTERS ACE IN DARTMOUTH FOOTBALL HAND

Cannell, New Coach, May Change Style.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 27. — The Dartmouth football team won only one major game last year, the one with Cornell. This was an abrupt and shocking change from the fortunes that the school and the alumni had come to regard as their right.

When a poker player bets on three kings and is beaten by three aces, he has a fairly clear notion as to why his three kings didn't win the resources, but it is a peculiarity of football that when a team loses a game or a lot of games people look for reasons invisible to the naked eye.

Dartmouth has been selecting freshman classes of about 600 students from an annual list of about 1,800 or 1,900 applicants by a pecial choosing process for the last eight years, and it may be that some of the old stars of the great Dartmouth teams could not have entered the college at all under these conditions.

Old Stars Couldn't Pass.

I was talking about this to a man who starred here in the days before the selecting system was installed and he tells me that in his opinion some of the great players of his day probably couldn't pass the entrance examinations even now, although they are athletes.

However, I also discussed it with Gordon Bill and he pointed out that the last really great Dartmouth team, the champion team of 1925, was composed entirely of players who entered school by the selective system, which began to operate in 1922, so that if any, bearing the selection test on the football fortunes of Dartmouth college is something that our correspondent just can't figure out.

The dean said Dartmouth last year had the best material for a football team that it ever had but that Al Marsters, the little running back whose gait strongly resembled that of Red Grange, bruised the bones in his ankles by kicking himself in his sleep, as running horses often do, I suppose, and couldn't exercise his native change of pace. This change of pace had carried him on a memorable straight run along the side line in the Yale bowl in 1927, with a curious half break in his stride that sent Yale tacklers, one after another, driving past him with their arms squeezing empty air when they felt absolutely sure of nailing him.

Every One Gets Hurt.

Marsters was hurt. Other fellows were hurt. It seemed that every one in Dartmouth who could do anything approachable in the way of aggressive and inventive football was bunged up and, as the dean said, Dartmouth had a disastrous season, losing to Harvard, Yale, Northwestern, and Brown.

More than Jess Hawley, the coach, who resigned and Jackson Cannell, who has been up here as coach and player, boy and man, since 1916, has been over the job. He has made some changes in the tactics of the team, but beyond saying that he has ordered not to use the forward pass as much as Hawley did I can report no innovations and no magic at all.

He is using Marsters at quarter back this year because, as he says, Marsters is one of those rare kids who have a feeling for football. Like Red Grange, he is as calm as a statue when big violent fellows are diving, sliding and tumbling all around him. He is a leader, a quick, smart thinker, and, given a single yard of leeway in which to get going, is likely to ghost through a line and on through a whole field like a fog through a screen door.

Marsters Was at Half.

Marsters used to be a half back, but it was only to gain advantage of his versatility that Cannell shifted him to quarter back, and not to save him the knocks and shocks of general back field work. The quarter back takes as much punishment as the next one nowadays, and if Marsters is to be hurt again it is just as likely to

ATHLETIC CHIEF AT IOWA CLEARS PAPE OF CHARGE

Probes Galena Report on Griffith's Tip.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Charges that Oran Pape, University of Iowa half back, played professional football in 1927 lack foundation and probably will be dismissed as untrue, Athletic Director E. H. Lauer said tonight.

EDWARD H. LAUER

The report, filed with the Western conference, was contained in a letter from Commissioner John L. Griffith of the Big Ten to Mr. Lauer. Pape, according to Griffith's informant, is accused of playing in a professional game with Galena, Ill., against Darlington, Wis., in the fall of 1927.

Lauer returned from Galena tonight after investigating the charges. He will report to Iowa's eligibility committee, headed by Dean Williams, tomorrow that he could find no evidence of Pape's participation in a professional game with Galena. He was told that the fleet half back, whose long run defeated Minnesota at Iowa's homecoming game last fall, officiated at Galent in a game that season, but did not compete.

Lauer said he knew nothing of the source of the charges except that there was a report they had come from the University of Wisconsin.

Pape denied the accusation, expressing confidence that an investigation "will show that everything is all right."

GALENA PILOT CLEARS PAPE.

Galena, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Leo Allen, manager of the Galena Triangles, the professional football team with which Oran Pape of the University of Iowa is reported to have played in 1927, tonight denied that the Hawkeye athlete ever had appeared in his lineup.

"I told Mr. Lauer of Iowa that I am willing to make an affidavit that Pape never has played with Galena," Allen said. "That apparently satisfied him that Pape is eligible for Western conference competition," he added.

Allen is clerk of the Circuit court and a former University of Michigan man.

DENIES RESPONSIBILITY

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Emphatic denial that any one in the Wisconsin athletic department had filed charges against Oran Pape, University of Iowa half back, accused of playing professional football at Galena, Ill., was made tonight by Glenn Thistlethwaite, head football coach.

Athletic Director George Little could not be reached.

"We members of the athletic department keep in close touch with each other," Coach Thistlethwaite declared. "I can say positively that no one at Wisconsin has made charges against Pape or against any one."

Professor J. S. A. Pyre, president of the University of Wisconsin athletic counsel, also denied that Wisconsin had any part in the charges against Pape.

QUITS BIG TEN GROUP.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Prof. Thomas E. French of Ohio State, a member of the Big Ten eligibility committee, withdrew from the group today when the question of Allen Holman's eligibility came up. He was opposed to the board's action in naming Allen Holman eligible for another year of competition. The athletic department officially was notified that Holman was eligible.

Maybe Pat's Just Out for Fun, but He's Won a Lot of Games

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Perce Lay Malone, otherwise Pat Malone, is one of the prominent members of that great lodge, the Brotherhood of Star Ball Players Who Have Been Bounced by John J. McGraw.

But Pat's hitch with the Giants was a long time ago—the spring of 1922—so the Master Mind can't be blamed so much for not being able to foresee that Pat in 1929 would be the first National league pitcher to win 20 games and that he would be the laddybuck who'd depose Dazzy Vance as strikeout king of the National league.

These things have come to pass, however, and Pat has forgotten his erstwhile wails that McGraw kept him in the minors for three long years, thus discouraging him so much that he stayed three more years on his own account. Right now his thoughts are focused on the manner in which he expects to strike out Jimmy Foxx, Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane, Bing Miller and some of the other Philadelphia gentlemen who have been whispering around that fast ball pitching is duck soup for them.

Refuses to Be Impressed by Philadelphians' Bats.

Malone is distinctly a speed ball thrower, though, in his boyish way, he's sort of proud of a funny little slow ball he's been trying to develop this year. He's skeptical of all those stories about the Athletics murdering righthanded speedsters. Other Cub stars are quietly eager to try out the reputed specialties of the enemy. But Perce Lay is roaring about it.

Pat, though a model husband and the proud parent of a beautiful daughter, Patricia, age 5, is the "big, overgrown boy" of the Cub outfit. He's in no sense erratic, off the field, we mean—but just one of those big, happy bruisers, who gets a huge kick out of being alive and well.

Ball players as a class aren't generally supposed to hold any records for spending money, especially before they get it. But Pat's been spending or planning ways to spend his split of the world series for a couple of months now.

In St. Louis the other day he came busting into the Cub hotel with his arms and those of two porters loaded to capacity. Here's what he'd bought, among other things:

Three rifles, one shotgun, 500 rounds of ammunition, two pairs hunting breeches, two hunting jackets, one bear trap, three pairs boots, six pairs heavy socks, one moose horn, one bowie knife, one hatchet, two pairs of blankets.

What Does a Traveler Do on Vacation? Just Roams.

"Do you plan to go hunting?" we asked Mr. Malone, naively.

"Yes, sir, in the wilds of Canada," responded Pat.

"How long are you going to be in the woods?"

"Until I leave for Havana, Cuba."

"Thought you were going into business in Milan, O."

"I may, if I get around to it."

"When do you expect to leave for Catalina Island?"

"Gee, you're lucky," we said. "This spring and summer you traveled 20,000 miles because you had to. But now, just think of all those restful miles you're going to ride this winter, all on your own. Lucky boy!"

Loses First Six Games, but McCarthy Is Patient.

Pat was born in Altoona, Pa., Sept. 25, 1902 and though healthy in every way, in due time was christened Perce Lay. The Perce handle is the actual name and not an abbreviation of Percival or an effort to take the curse off Percy. The name was bestowed by Pat's father, Christ Malone, now night yardmaster of the railroad yards in Altoona. The child was named after Perce Rich, a railroad pal of Malone, Sr.

Malone came to the Cubs at the beginning of 1928 from Minneapolis for a reported $25,000, after he had won

McCarthy Hones Cub Attack for Series; Play Reds Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The process of putting themselves in trim for their appearance in the grand finale will be taken up by the title holding Cubs this afternoon. After five days of leisure they will pick up the few remaining bits of the season's schedule and this task will keep them engaged almost daily between now and the opening against Mack's Athletics here Oct. 8.

Today's business matters at Wrigley field involve the Reds who are back for the first time since Hack Wilson battled a few of them July 4. All that has been forgotten, however. The Reds also are on the program tomorrow after which the two teams move down to Cincinnati for five games starting Tuesday. Then the Cubs come home for their final seasonal engagement next Sunday with Pittsburgh, the late pennant contender.

Prime Pitching Staff.

So long as the chance of attaining the one hundred victory goal seems remote, Boss McCarthy for the last week may concentrate more on priming his pitching staff than on trying to win a few useless ball games. If he decides on this course he will divide the pitching each day between two or three of his regulars instead of letting one man stick for a full game.

About next Thursday or Friday McCarthy can be expected to tip his hand on his pitching choice for the opener of the classic. If Root starts on either of these days and is followed by Malone it will be a pretty sure indication that Root is going to draw the honor. If Malone precedes Root by a day it will be the other way around. In their last starts both will be permitted to go the route, unless the opposition gets too rough.

Wants Left Hand Twirling.

What McCarthy wants the last week of the race is some left handed opposition. The idea of this is to get his sluggers accustomed to southpaw pitching, a variety they may be forced to look at considerably during the series. The supposition is that the Cubs can clip the ears off any southpaw extant, but they can't. A good southpaw can worry them as effectively as a good right hander. This might not be true if they had to hit against left handed hurling every few days, but during the last half of the season it was an exception for them not to face right handers.

Although knowing nothing about Mack's ideas, McCarthy is inclined to think the series will start with Earnshaw on the knoll for the American league champions. McCarthy figures Mack might pick the big right hander over Lefty Grove, because the former would be less affected by the glamor of the occasion.

DETROIT DEFEATS DE PAUL, 27 TO 7 IN NIGHT GAME

Chicago Defense Weakens in Second Half.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The University of Detroit inaugurated night football tonight with a 27 to 7 victory over De Paul university of Chicago. More than 25,000 saw the game.

Thirty powerful projectors illuminated the field without glare or shadows. Forward passes, which require good light, were used frequently by both teams.

Brazil Makes First Score.

Detroit began its first touchdown drive shortly after the second half opened. Taking Harrington's punts on De Paul's 45 yard stripe, the Titans worked the oval to the 14 yard mark, with Brazil, Ross, Storen, and Vachon carrying the brunt of the attack. Vachon then went around De Paul's right end for 12 yards, Brazil making the remaining 2 around De Paul's left flank. Parsaca replaced Vachon and kicked the extra point.

The Detroiters got under way again after receiving a De Paul punt on their own 45 yard line. Brazil tossed a long pass to Ross that was good for 22 yards. Brazil made 7 through right tackle and the elusive Ross found a hole off De Paul's right tackle, sprinting 18 yards for the second touchdown. Parsaca again kicked goal.

De Paul began a goalward march of its own at the start of the last quarter, but after picking up a couple of first downs deep in Detroit territory Ross intercepted a forward pass and the Titans were under way again. Brazil shot a long pass to Hackett, who was downed on De Paul's 5 yard line. Zettel punched the center of the line for one yard. The troublesome Ross then swept wide around the Chicagoan's right end for another touchdown. Parsaca placed his third kick between the bars.

Harrington Scores for De Paul.

Detroit scored its final touchdown when Brazil sent a 30 yard pass to Brown, who eluded the De Paul secondary defense and crossed the goal line, making the score Detroit 27, De Paul 7. Parsaca missed the try for the extra point. Lineup:

CHICAGO BOY INJURES ANKLE EARLY IN FIGHT

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The fight ended after one minute and 22 seconds of fighting in the eighth round. Eddie sprained his ankle in the first round but fought gamely until a left hook sent him to the mat for a nine count in the eighth. That punch, combined with his sprained ankle, forced him to inform Referee Phil Collins he was unable to continue.

First Round was Even.

If Mack had not sprained his ankle he might have won the decision. There was action in every round. They traded punches toe to toe. The body was the particular target of each.

The first round was about even. Both scored with straight lefts to the face and connected with right crosses and swings to the jaw. Fifteen seconds before the close of the round Eddie sprained his right ankle coming out of a clinch.

Canzoneri won the second round by a wide margin. Mack was in pain, but he fought back gamely while retreating. The third round was about even and Mack took the fourth by clever use of his left hand. The next three rounds were a standoff.

At the start of the eighth round Canzoneri tore in. He finally connected with a left swing and Mack took a nine count. After getting to his feet he notified Referee Collins he was unable to continue.

Bass Is Disqualified.

In the fight which followed the main event Johnny Datto of Cleveland won on a foul from Benny Bass of Philadelphia in the fourth round. Bass was disqualified for hitting low after he had been warned repeatedly to keep his punches above the belt line. Up to the time of the disqualification honors were about even. They met at 130 pounds.

Solly Schuman, local 122 pounder, was given the four round decision over Benny Husik of New York in the four round opener. Solly scored a knockdown in the third round and won the other rounds by decisive margins.

Paul Pirrone of Cleveland took the eight round decision from Joe Bezanah of Cincinnati. It was a slugging match. They met at 152 pounds. In the other fight on the card Jackie Brady of Syracuse, N. Y., was given an eight round verdict over Roxey Allen of Camden, N. J. They weighed 148 pounds.

George Mason and Rube Metz were the judges and Norman McGarrity was the other referee.

According to Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the boxing commission, Bass will be suspended indefinitely at the Tuesday meeting of the commission.

HYDE PARK AND MT. CARMEL PLAY SCORELESS TIE

Hyde Park of the City league and Mount Carmel of the Catholic league played a scoreless tie at White City yesterday. Mount Carmel drove down the field in the second period to bring the ball within four yards of a touchdown, but Hyde Park's line held. The Carmelites lost the ball on downs when Zegers threw an incomplete pass over the goal line. Hyde Park rallied in the second half, the game ending with the ball on Mount Carmel's ten yard line. Lineup:

| HYDE PARK [0]. | | MT. CARMEL [0]. |
| Rogers | L. E. | Henderson |
| Schenker | L. T. | McNitt |

Fogarty Files Answer to Tunney's Counter Suit

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The $500,000 alienation of affections suit brought by John S. Fogarty, U. S. civil engineer of Fort Worth, Tex., against James J. "Gene" Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, moved a step nearer trial today when Attorney Charles J. Martin of New Haven filed a reply to a counter suit by Tunney claiming slander and asking damages of $100,000. Martin denied all the charges.

GREENOCK WINS CRETE FEATURE BY 3 LENGTHS

Pays Backers $11.12 for Each $2 Wager.

Greenock, four year old son of The Porter-Starella, appears to have found a distance to his liking. Prior to the running of the Old Elm Country Club purse yesterday he had started in five six furlong races at Lincoln Fields, but the best he did was to run second twice. The Old Elm was at a mile and a sixteenth and Greenock showed that he could do it by decisively defeating four others for the purse of $1,100.

Greenock was at 4 to 1 in the betting and paid $11.12 for each $2 investment. Cuddle, J. D. Grant's four year old filly, was outrun until the stretch, where Jockey Mel Knight's rousing ride brought her up to beat out the veteran Devon for the place money by a head. Frances Milward, the red hot favorite, followed Typhoon home, and the only encouragement she gave her backers was to run third into the stretch, where Typhoon, which had been running second, outdistanced her by nearly three lengths.

Jockey Jack Parmelee took Greenock out in front immediately after the barrier lifted and was never headed, holding a three length advantage over Typhoon as the field came down in front of the grandstand.

The Dixie Country Club purse, secondary feature on the program, went to M. Tansor's Water Lad, who crossed sharply in front of the field in the stretch, crowding Crofton and Old Kickapoo. The winner paid $8.38 in the $2 mutuels. Old Kickapoo appeared to have won until Water Lad, which had been outpaced at the half mile, crossed him.

Three choices had another good day, with the exception of the second race, in which Jockey Bob Jones hustled J. L. Wilson's filly Paquette to the lead and held it throughout under a strong ride. Paquette rewarded backers with $32.86 for each $2. The favorite, Easter Boy, was out of the running at every stage. Flo O'Neill ran a game race to take the place money, beating Gotta Go Now by a half length.

PREP CAGE MEET AT NEENAH.

Neenah, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Neenah will entertain the 1930 high school district basketball tournament. Officials of the W. I. A. A. informed F. U. Ballentine, principal of the high school, of the selection today. The tourney dates are March 13, 14, and 15.

New York Pays Final Tribute to Huggins

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—In a service as simple as the life Miller Huggins led, New York this afternoon said its prayer for the manager of the New York Yankees and his body left with an escort of baseball players, officials, and writers to rest in the soil of his native Cincinnati.

The funeral, held in The Little Church Around the Corner, was attended by a congregation of fewer than 500 persons, limited by the capacity of the small edifice, but more than 10,000 others stood massed about the corners of 29th street at Madison and Fifth avenues.

More than half the small congregation was made up of men connected with baseball. All the Yankees, from little Eddie Bennett, the bat boy, to big Babe Ruth, were there, arriving in a body just before the service began. Eight were pallbearers. Arthur Fletcher, Charles O'Leary, Babe Ruth, Herbert Pennock, Bob Shawkey, Tony Lazzeri, Lou Gehrig, and Earl Combs.

Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American league, and John A. Heydler, president of the National league; Thomas S. Shibe, president of the Athletics; William F. Baker, president of the Phillies; Robert Quinn, president of the Red Sox; Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants; Wilbert Robinson, president-manager of Brooklyn, and Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, were among the baseball executives present.

Led by John J. McGraw, virtually every member of the Giants came to the church and a majority of the Brooklyn team had places. Tris Speaker, who in other days matched baseball wits with Huggins, and dozens of players of yesterday's baseball generation, including Hans Lobert and Rube Marquard were there.

Every bat and glove in the American league was idle today, by order of President Barnard, as a tribute of respect to the manager of the retiring world champions.

Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, could not attend the services for his friend and colleague. Having broken under the strain of the Yankee manager's illness, he was confined to his home by sickness.

RICHARDS PAIRS WITH KOZELUH TO WIN CROWN

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Triumphant in the final of the first national professional doubles championship ever staged in the United States, as well as in the semi-finals of the singles, Vincent Richards and Karel Kozeluh monopolized honors on the tennis courts of the West Side Stadium today.

HANLEY TO SEND PURPLE VARSITY AGAINST FROSH

Annual Game Scheduled Today at N. U.

Accurate knowledge of how the Wildcats are shaping up for the coming grid season is expected today when Coach Hanley send the varsity against the Freshmen in a regular game. Only holders of practice pass cards will be admitted to the stadium. Today's scrimmage will be the first this week.

New plays have been handed out during the week and the greater part of the practice periods have been spent in running signals with these new formations. Yesterday Hanley placed a blackboard on the practice field and gave the boys a skull session on the entire repertoire of plays.

A freshman squad which has been perfecting Wisconsin's formations during the week will oppose the varsity. Frequent use of the forward pass is expected, Coach Hanley has indicated that he intends to utilize the aerial attack this fall. Lee Hanley has been passing the ball in practice and the backs and ends are nabbing them regularly.

The same varsity squad which has worked in other scrimmages will start today with the exception of full back where Bergherm's injury will keep him out. Al Moore is slated to start for him. Calderwood and Bruder will be at half back. Miskey Erickson will start at center with Woodworth and Hutchinson, tackles, Anderson and Engebritzen, guards, and Baker and Gonya, ends.

HEAT SLOWS PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—A wave of midsummer heat descended on the Purdue practice field today and brought a slight let-down in training. Instead of a scrimmage Coach Phelan sent the squad through formation and signal drill.

With Welch and Harmeson assigned posts in the back field, a battle is being waged by sophomore candidates for the right to team with them. Ed Risk, Jim Purvis, Louis Pope, White, and Weaver were all given a chance to work with the veteran pair.

An epidemic of colds that has been running the gantlet of the squad seems to be abating and most of the squad were in uniform.

ZUP PROMOTES ROBINSON.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—With a varsity-freshman game tomorrow afternoon, Bob Zuppke curtailed the Illini practice today and confined himself with formation drills.

One significant shift was that of Robinson, a sub full back last year, to one of the two first elevens, displacing Art Schultz, a sophomore full back. Robinson, one of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Glove boxers who went to New York last year, played in some games but not enough to win a letter. Schultz has considerable promise but needs some polishing, it is indicated. Roush, one of the centers last season, has moved into the guard position left vacant temporarily by the disability of White.

SPEARS CALLS OFF DRILL.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Discovering that he didn't have enough regulars on hand to hold a signal drill, Dr. Clarence Spears today called off the afternoon workout. Athletes who weren't injured were either preparing for examinations or registering for the start of classes. Spears was in anything but a congenial spirit following his unusual decision. The most serious cripple today was Rieth, whose ankle was badly bruised Thursday. Brockmeyer, Pharmer, Barnhart, Burdick, Anderson, and Langenberg are others on Minnesota's hospital list.

SNIDEMAN REACHES MIDWAY.

Dawson Snideman, a 195 pound center from last year's freshman team, pulled into town from Portland, Ore., yesterday and appeared in a Chicago suit for the double practice session.

The center position has been one of the big puzzles confronting Coach Stagg and every one is hoping Snideman can fill the bill. Marshall, another candidate, has been out with a strained shoulder, but expects to get back into harness the first of the week.

Buck Weaver, 235 pound giant, has been shifted from guard to center recently but has had some trouble with his passing. However, in yesterday's short scrimmage he seemed to have mastered that difficulty and may continue to fill the pivot post.

A long drill on signals and fundamentals took up the whole morning workout and most of the afternoon, though a scrimmage between two teams picked at random closed the day's work.

The best freshman squad seen on the Midway in several years will take on the varsity this afternoon, although the yearling team has had but two days of practice.

MARQUETTE GRID TEAM IMPROVES IN PASSING DRILL

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Marquette university gridiron candidates showed even further advance on forward passes in today's heavy scrimmage against the varsity, and, a week in advance of the opening game with Lawrence college, Coach Frank J. Murray is not at all unoptimistic about the season's prospects.

Murray's host of back field candidates looked better and better, and a certain fact is that the Golden Avalanche will have considerably more versatility in the back field this fall than has been the case in years. A half dozen back field letter men are back in the fold, but the real surprises have come from the sophomore backs who loom as real threats to the varsity veterans.

Another sophomore comer was found in this week's workouts, and his adds another name to the list of Chicago lads who are bidding strongly for berths on the Blue and Gold eleven. He is Oscar Blattney, 155 pound half back from St. Phillip's high, and his work was outstanding in today's offensive drive against the scrubs. Co-Capt. Gil Corbett, Bud Linscott and Frank McElligott, the latter another Chicago entry, took turns in tossing today's passes.

Badger Teams in Dual Role on Grid Today

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Forty-five Badgers, in good condition despite a practice of only ten days, await the opening of the football season at Camp Randall tomorrow.

Coach Thistlethwaite has split his varsity squad into two teams. One of them will face South Dakota State in the first of a double header. The other will take on Ripon college in the afterpiece.

Five New Badgers.

Five of the Wisconsin gridders to oppose South Dakota in the major game will be playing for the first time in a Cardinal uniform. They are Armin Baer, Bloomer, Wis., guard; Moose Kruger, Madison, center; Dave Tobias, La Crosse, tackle; Nello Pacetti, Kenosha, half back, and Walter Gnabah, Chicago, full back.

Coach Cy Kasper led twenty of his South Dakota State Jackrabbits into town today and sent them through a brief workout. The visitors appeared heavy and the weight of their line is expected to equal that of the Badgers, estimated at 183 pounds.

Make Three Changes.

Three changes in the Wisconsin lineup which will face Ripon were indicated at the Badgers' final drill. Larry Shomaker replaced Minahan at tackle, Jensen at right end instead of Warren, and Harry Kry, Cleveland, replaced his fellow Buckeye, Ken Bartholomew of Dayton, at blocking half back. Bartholomew had a lame leg. The lineups:

| WISCONSIN. | | SOUTH DAKOTA. |
|---|---|---|
| Gantenbein | L. E. | Herting |
| Lubratovich | L. T. | Roberg |
| Baer | L. G. | Adler |
| Kruger | C. | Simkins |
| Parka | R. G. | Hadler |
| Tobias | R. T. | Jenison |
| Casey | R. E. | Collinson |
| Behr | Q. B. | E. Parks |
| Lusby | L. H. | Schultz |
| Pacetti | R. H. | Englemann |
| Gnabah | F. B. | Baker |

HOOSIERS PLAY PAIR.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Wabash and Ohio U. will invade Indiana university's Memorial stadium tomorrow afternoon to play Pat Page's Hoosiers in a double header, the first of the 1929 gridiron season. Since both visiting teams are equally strong, Page will match them with equally strong elevens.

Definite lineups are not certain, Page said tonight, but he expects to start with a team of veterans. He plans to use all of his 44 man squad in both games. The Indiana-Wabash scrap will be played first. The Wabash student body and their college band is planning to make the trip here for the game.

HAWKEYE LINEUP NAMED.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Two weeks of preparation for the opening game with Carroll college tomorrow were topped off with a light signal workout in the University of Iowa football camp today. Coach Ingwersen used a lineup consisting of Capt. Glassgow and Farroh, half backs; Leo Jensvold, quarter; Hagerty, full back; Magnussen, center; Roberts and Myers, guards; Westra and Ely, tackles; Rogge and Reedquist, ends.

RIPON CRIPPLED FOR GAME.

Ripon, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—A crippled Ripon college eleven rushed through a final workout today for the season's opener with Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite's Badgers at Camp Randall tomorrow. Wisconsin is the first of Ripon's three Big Ten opponents, Chicago and Minnesota also appearing on the Redmen's card.

Injuries to Harold Antross, 185 pound guard, and Steinman, end, will reduce the line starters to five experienced performers. Paul Lofthus, reserve last year, will not be available for the back field duty. The line vacancies will be filled by sophomores.

WESLEYAN SQUAD OFF FOR OPENER AGAINST BUTLER

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Acting Head Coach J. Norman Elliott today took the Illinois Wesleyan football team to Indianapolis, where it opens the season against Butler tomorrow. The players making the trip were:

Acacia held an informal day of golf followed by a stag dinner and billiard invitation yesterday, for the purpose of making new members acquainted with the old timers. Percy Collins and Jerry Worth, winners of many amateur championships, played the billiard exhibition.

Bobby Jones, who was scheduled to play an informal round at Park Ridge yesterday, failed to arrive. He is expected today.

After a lapse of several years Onwentsia will revive its famed Pow Wow ,the annual invitational tournament, today. A field of about 150 will play 36 holes.

The Chicago High School team and individual golf championships will be decided today with a final 18 holes at Cherry Hill. A. Offil, Hyde Park, is in the lead for the individual title, having score 35—37—72 in the first round at Mid-City. D. Marlbrough, Lindblom, 76; J. Graw, Senn, 79; G. Hunt, Roosevelt, 79, were nearest to him. Senn, with a total of 321, led in the team championship, with the other teams scoring: Hyde Park, 324; Lindblom, 325; Lake View, 332; Roosevelt, 333; Lane, 340; Fenger, 342; Bowen, 343; Tilden, 345; Crane, 353; Morgan Park, 367; Harrison, 381, and Waller, 386.

Long Distance Record Goes to Arctic Tern

BY BOB BECKER.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Many a bob white lives its life without traveling more than two miles from the nest in which it was hatched. This puts him in the stay-at-home class. Contrast the sedentary habits of this bird with the Arctic tern which makes a round trip of 22,000 miles every year in order to nest in the Arctic and winter at the edge of the sub-Arctic continent and you have a graphic example of what migration means to some of our birds.

By hanging up this record every year the Arctic tern takes all honors as the long distance traveler of North American birds. No other "two wing" power flyer better illustrates the urge of migration, the power of small feathered bodies, and the mystery of how birds find their destination than this resident of the North Pole.

Nests Near Pole.

The Arctic tern is well named. He's a handsome fellow, with a black cap and a long tail. However, instead of a black cap and soft feathers you might expect him to wear fur because he nests as far north as land occurs. The first man to discover a nest of this tern found it within 7½ degrees of the North Pole, and there was a baby tern well and apparently flourishing, although it was literally surrounded by a wall of newly fallen snow which the parent bird had scooped out of the nest.

The terns raise their families in that inhospitable north country and then depart for the South Pole about August 25th. Inasmuch as they arrive on their nesting grounds about the middle of June, the following year, they stay just about fourteen weeks around the North Pole. The rest of the year finds them traveling or at the edge of the Anarctic continent.

What route did these bold, sturdy flyers take when they left their northern nesting grounds in late August? The ornithologists would like to be able to answer this question.

Little Known About Route.

As yet very little is known about the transcontinental and transoceanic route of this tern, which is flying 11,000 miles this fall. A few of these terns have been seen along the east coast of the United States, but what of the enormous flocks of thousands and tens of thousands of young and old birds flying day after day facing all hazards of storms and winds? No one has seen these flocks. Today their preferred route and the speed they make still are unknown.

By covering more than 22,000 miles in approximately twenty weeks this champion long distance migrant must fly at least 150 miles day, after day. It is likely that the birds zigzag in search of food and so cover many extra miles. No other migrant can challenge this magnificent feat of endurance, blind flying and fortitude. An annual trip of 22,000 miles over land and sea is a high point in migration records.

Austin Meets Oak Park in Annual Game

Prep Games Today

Parker at St. Rita.
Morgan Park High at Thornton.
Austin at Oak Park.
Calumet at St. Leo.
Waller vs. Crane at Mills stadium.
Lane at De Paul.

Waukegan at Deerfield.
Harrison at Morton.

Englewood vs. Waite at Toledo, O.
Hinsdale at La Grange.
Downers Grove at Joliet.
Roosevelt at Proviso.
Schurz at Elgin.
Mooseheart at Emerson, Gary, Ind.

Chicago prep football presents its most crowded program thus far this season today with the majority of the City league, Catholic league and suburban teams going into action.

The Austin-Oak Park game at the latter's stadium and the Tilden-Normal battle at White City are expected to draw 15,000 fans between them. The first will be the eighteenth game between the two schools, and inasmuch as Austin upset the suburban eleven last year for the first time in their annual series, the Oak Parkers will be out to redeem themselves.

De Paul, Catholic league champions, with victories over Roosevelt and De La Salle of Joliet, will have its first real test of the season against the strong Lane eleven. Englewood will journey to Toledo, O., to meet Wafte High. Parker and St. Rita and Harrison and Morton are others who will renew old rivalries. For the third straight year, Lindbiom takes on Fort Wayne. Coach Moore's team has demonstrated by victories over Schurz and St. Charles that it will be in the running for the city league title.

Beloit and Northwestern of Watertown Clash Today

Beloit, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Bob Jaggard, new Beloit college coach, will send his eleven into its opening contest of the season here tomorrow against Northwestern college of Watertown, Wis. Tomorrow's engagement will give Coach Jaggard an opportunity to pick his men for the University of Chicago game at Chicago next week. These men probably will be in Beloit's starting lineup:

happen at quarter back as anywhere else. When he broke into the varsity as a sophomore in 1927 and ran so fast that his breeze tore the helmets off the startled Harvard and Yale boys, he seemed rather small, but he claims to weigh 180 pounds now, after a summer in the woods at one of the camps run by Izzy Zarakov, the Harvard back of a few years ago.

There are a couple of other quarter backs, Tommy Longnecker of Delta, O., and Ed Jeremiah of Somerville, Mass., who has previous varsity experience, but Marsters will run the team in all important moments, barring injury.

But in the tentative organization of the team just now, there are seven juniors and one sophomore, which may be taken to indicate that Cannell is concerning himself with drilling a team for next year. A coach usually is allowed a shake down period of one year, nothing that happens in his first season being held against him.

Booma's Third Year.

In some places the competition is so close that the second and first men men are virtually equal and interchangeable. Jay Whitehair, a sophomore, ought to see service at end, and Longnecker, Jeremiah, Sutton, and Ted Wolff all are likely to get more or less work as the season marches. I don't want to pretend to know more than I do about this and am no more vague about it than Cannell was with me. He even looked out the window when I asked him what changes he had made in the Dartmouth style of play and, not knowing what to make of this reticence in a day when most coaches make boast of their innocent simplicity, I remarked that, hell's bells, Chick Meehan, down at New York U., had a stand offer to send charts of his plays to any opponent.

"Meehan is kidding you," said Mr. Cannell.

Plans Balanced Game.

But I found out that he is working on a more balanced game than has recently been characteristic of Dartmouth, intending to use the pass more as a threat or feint than as a weapon. Perhaps his backs aren't handling the pass well enough to go overhead persistently. That always makes a difference.

Regarding the selective entrance system, I asked one of the alumni stationed at the school whether Gus Sonnenberg, the heavyweight champion wrestler, who used to play football in a sweater of Dartmouth green, could have qualified under the same conditions in his day.

"Yes," this man said, "I think he would have made it all right. He was a smart enough fellow."

British Fighter, Flyweight Champ, Dies in Training

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The flyweight bout between Johnny Hill, British champion, and Frankie Genaro, world champion, scheduled for next month, will not take place. The British fighter burst a blood vessel in his lung at 11 o'clock last night, and died at 2:30 this morning at his training camp in Strathmigio, Scotland, where he had been conditioning for the match.

By a strange coincidence, Genaro, who sailed from New York Sept. 18 on the George Washington, arrived in London today and was greeted with the news that the champion whom he had crossed the ocean to meet was dead.

Hill, who was a Scotsman, was known as one of the pluckiest and most likable of the British fighters. His death was probably an indirect result of the knockout by Emile Pladner in Paris early this year, which was the first time that Hill ever had taken the count. He had never been well since, and his doctor believes that the training regime aggravated the weaknesses caused by that fight.

POLO PLAYER INJURED.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Lieut. Col. Arthur H. Wilson of Fort Bliss, member of the army international polo team, was in a hospital today with several broken ribs received when he was thrown and trampled by his polo pony.

Fields' Arm O. K.; Ready for Dundee

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion of the world, who boxes Vince Dundee, Baltimore, on Jack Dempsey's opening card at the Chicago Coliseum next Wednesday night, yesterday boxed seven rounds with three sparring partners. This will be his first appearance since he won the welter crown from Joe Dundee, older brother of the flashy fighter he meets on Dempsey's program.

An infection in Fields' left arm, which caused him an enforced vacation for several weeks, is completely healed. There was no indication of any soreness in the member as he banged Benny Stanley, Billy Brent, and Bob Bryant in his first workout.

Dundee dispensed with boxing in his training routine yesterday but spent an extended period at his floor work, punching the light and heavy bags, skipping the rope and shadow boxing.

Dave Shade, New York, who meets Joe Roche in the semi-windup of Dempsey's opener, will arrive today to complete training.

DEMPSEY TO REFEREE.

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, will referee a bout in Davenport Oct. 4, between Charlie Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight champion, and Nick Neuman of Cleveland.

COULDN'T SEE AFTER K. O. BLOW, LOUGHRAN SAYS

Glad Referee Stopped the Fight.

Loughran said today during an interview with newspaper men at Madison Square Garden, that he did not see the punch coming and frankly admitted that "it must have been a bip because when it landed everything went black."

"All I remember," said Tommy, "is that I backed into the ropes and blocked a left hook with my right elbow. Then, instinctively, I must have lifted my shoulder to guard my chin and in so doing exposed my temple to the shot which stopped me."

The paid attendance was announced today as 43,379. The gross receipts were $320,355, and the net receipts after federal and state taxes had been deducted, $254,621.

It was understood that Sharkey collected $100,000 as his share of the gate while Loughran received 20 per cent, or about $64,000.

THOMAS TO LEAD KENOSHA RIDERS IN ELGIN RACE

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Kenosha bike racers will compete tomorrow in the fourth annual Elgin-to-Chicago bike races. Bobby Thomas, Kenosha Kollmann A. C. rider who was national amateur junior champion last year and who this year finished second in the national senior races, will lead the Kenosha racers. Others from here will include Frances Bonn, Peter Saulo, Clem Zelhen, Ted Johnson, Richard Huber, George Thomas, Jr., and Norman Olle.

Al Vertenten, Illinois state champion and third place rider in the national meet, and Frank Lemajeur, Chicago, winner of the recent Kenosha-to-Chicago 60-mile race are among the stars entered. D. J. McIntyre, national race chairman for the Amateur Bicycle League of America, will attend the race.

MARCEL CAMP WINS NORTHERN BILLIARDS MEET

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Marcel Camp of Detroit tonight won the northern sectional pocket billiards tournament when he defeated Jake Schleisman of Minneapolis, 100 to 53, in 18 innings. Camp had a high run of 28 and Schleisman 22. The high run of the tournament was made by Major White of Chicago, who piled up an unfinished run of 54.

In the other game of the day Major White defeated H. Pindle of Appleton, Wis., 100 to 73, in 44 innings.

DEATH OF ELGIN ASYLUM PATIENT LAID TO NEGLECT

Physicians Make Charges at Coroner's Hearing.

Charges that Arlington J. Sawin, 31 years old, of Batavia, died last Monday as a result of neglect in the Elgin State hospital where he was a volunteer patient, caused Coroner Herman Beirke of Kane county last night to order an inquiry. The charges were made by two physicians who attended Sawin before he entered the hospital.

According to a preliminary inquiry conducted by Deputy Coroner W. A. Keiser, Sawin had been an invalid for six years. Five weeks ago he entered the state hospital hoping to gain some benefits from hydro-therapeutic treatments available there. He was taken to his home last Saturday and died two days later.

Doctor Tells Loss of Weight.

Dr. H. T. Mostrom, Sawin's physician, testified before the deputy coroner that he had attended Sawin for a long time and that his patient was a victim of paralysis agitans. He said that Sawin lost 25 to 30 pounds during the four weeks he was in the state hospital.

'In my opinion, the cause of death was due to a lack of care at the hospital," said Dr. Mostrom in response to a question by the deputy coroner. "If Sawin had not gone to the hospital he would be alive now. He showed evidences of four weeks of neglect. His body was covered with bed sores. His disease might have killed him in five or ten years."

Dr. William S. Elliott, an associate of Dr. Mostrom, corroborated Dr. Mostrom's testimony. He said that Sawin had been in fair physical condition before he went to the state hospital and that his life expectancy had been 10 years or more. He declared that his observations had convinced him that some sort of neglect was responsible for Sawin's death.

Neglected, Friend Is Told.

Sawin lived with his mother and Mrs. Mary Hart in Batavia. Mrs. Hart said that Sawin complained before his death that he had been neglected, had been given little water to drink and unfit food.

Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, superintendent of the state hospital, said that Sawin had been suffering from post-encephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness. He said that Sawin had been in poor condition and denied that he had been neglected.

"It was one of those unfortunate cases which are hard to take care of," he said.

JACK G. PALMER, PRESS CAMERA MAN, IS DEAD

Jack G. Palmer, one of Chicago's best known newspaper photographers, died yesterday of pneumonia at his home, 4425 Maypole avenue. He was 48 years old and for nearly thirty years had been a camera man here.

Jack was particularly well known on the gold coast and north shore because of society events he covered. Weddings, horse shows, the opera, exclusive club affairs were hardly complete without Jack and his camera. At many society functions, he would be the only camera man admitted because of his wide friendships.

Born in England, Palmer came to this country when very young. When the United States declared war, he tried to enlist in the American army, but was rejected. He then joined the Canadian infantry, saw service overseas and was wounded several times, winning two citations for bravery. After recovering from his wounds, he came back to Chicago and took up his camera again.

He is survived by his widow and a son, Robert, a camera man for THE TRIBUNE. Robert is also seriously ill at present with pneumonia, being stricken shortly after his father became ill. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

NOT GUILTY PLEA BY WAGGONER TO ALL COUNTS

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Charles Waggoner, the small town banker who came to New York and departed with a half million dollars in cash and credit, fraudulently obtained, pleaded not guilty to all counts in the indictment against him today before Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy and through his attorney agreed to go to trial next Friday.

The early trial date was requested by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, who explained that a number of witnesses here from the west would find it difficult to live on the allowance of $5 a day granted them by the government. As a further reason Mr. Tuttle pointed out that Waggoner, unable to obtain $100,000 bail, was forced to wait in prison pending the trial.

Waggoner appeared entirely at ease and eyed Mr. Tuttle with interest as the government prosecutor old Judge Kennedy that "from newspaper accounts of interviews with Waggoner he had gathered that the defendant might expedite certain aspects of the case if he so desired."

Waggoner smiled broadly at this statement. He is reported as having admitted defrauding the New York banks in the hope of liquidating his indebtedness to his western friends.

WHEAT VALUES ON DOWNGRADE; CORN WEAKENS

Oats and Rye Prices Also Show Declines for Day.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Weakness in the stock market and a disposition on the part of scattered longs to take advantage of a bulge in order to get out of their lines put considerable pressure on wheat futures yesterday.

Values were on the down grade a good part of the day, closing at the bottom, with net losses of 1⅞@2¼c, with September leading. Minneapolis again showed more strength than the local market, closing ⅞@1⅛c lower, with reports of heavy flour sales. Winnipeg was 1¼@1⅝c lower.

Corn failed to show the strength so much in evidence on Thursday, and with the local element on the selling side prices dropped sharply and closed ⅞@1¼c lower, with September leading. Oats lost ⅞@1⅛c. Rye was off 1¼@2¼c for the day.

Australia Receives Rain.

The general run of news was somewhat less favorable to holders of wheat futures than on Thursday. Good rains were reported in South Australia and showers in New South Wales and Victoria, and more favorable crop comments were received from Argentina, although the rainfall in the latter for the week ending Sept. 24 was only about normal, and during the first four weeks of the month has been about half of normal. Buenos Aires, however, was 1¼@1⅝c lower at the close.

It was claimed that a good part of the export business in hard winters on Thursday was done at a price several cents below a replacement basis, and a London cable reported No. 1 hard afloat sold at $1.29 per bu, or equal to 7c under Chicago December.

Liverpool wheat prices were off over 1d early, but that market staged a strong comeback and closed unchanged to ½d higher, a failure in the cotton market there having some effect in causing the early break. Houses with northwestern connections were on the buying side of futures here and mills were good buyers at Minneapolis, while support against bids was a factor in checking the decline at the last.

September Corn Easier.

While September corn sold up to $1.02 at the opening, a new high on the present movement, long grain came out freely thereafter, with a drop of 2c from the top. Only two more business days remain to even up contracts in the nearby delivery and erratic fluctuations are generally expected. Commission houses bought the deferred deliveries on the decline and holders of bids also gave support. Country offerings of old corn were not as liberal as the previous day, but 70,000 bu were booked to arrive, and the spot basis was steady to ½c lower. Less pressure of Argentine corn was reported in Liverpool.

Bids of 50c track Chicago made for cash oats to arrive brought out increased offerings from the country, and purchases of 130,000 bu were reported, mainly from Iowa and Illinois points. Futures showed fair strength early, September equaling the high point of the season, but the market eased under profit taking and local pressure toward the last, with the finish at the bottom.

There was persistent buying of December and March rye by a local cash house on scale orders, but it was insufficient to offset the effect of the break in wheat.

Kroger Grocery & Bakery to Acquire 4,400 More Stores

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27.—Deals were practically completed today by which the Kroger Grocery and Baking corporation of this city, will acquire 4,400 additional chain stores in Boston, Mass., and San Francisco districts.

The New England chain stores are 1,200 First National Stores, having headquarters at Somerville, Mass., and the 2,800 chain stores are known as the safe Way Stores on the Pacific coast. The First National Stores are reported as having $75,884,639 sales for the year ending March 31. Safe Way Stores are reported to have had total sales of $47,000,000 in the last six months.

The Kroger company officially announced ownership of 5,500 stores before the present deal, making a total of 10,000 with the new stores added.

BREAK IN LARD AND MEATS

A fair business was on in provisions yesterday, with a lower range in sympathy with hogs and grain. Liquidation of nearby product was a feature, with commission houses the principal sellers and packing interests and warehousemen buyers. There was selling of October and buying of December and January lard, and the close was at losses of 7½@10c after a 15c range. Liverpool lard was 3@6d lower and export clearances to the seaboard 3,200 lbs.

Bellies were offered freely and September broke 20c, October and January 5c. Cumberland sides in Liverpool were 3s higher. Exports of bacon were 386,500 lbs. Prices follow:

TRADE REVIEWS NOTE CAUTION OF U. S. CONSUMERS

Industry Slows to a Steady Pace.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While trade and industry continue to move along at a satisfactory pace, there is accumulating evidence that considerable conservatism is being practiced in both fields. In the two largest industries, steel and automobiles, consumers are showing caution and operations have declined. The general situation is somewhat more spotty than was forecast some weeks ago, according to the weekly and monthly reviews.

"The general trade situation has retained its equilibrium, with steadiness remaining one of its chief characteristics," Dun's Review says. "Despite another excess of declines, no pronounced tendency toward lower wholesale prices has developed and the easing in steel products, which has caused comment, is scattered.

"It is important, in view the lessened momentum of the great basic industry, to consider the unparalleled record already made this year and the present slackening seems a not unnatural phase. An offset, however, has appeared in quickened activities in numerous other branches which are responding to the stimulus of the new season.

Confidence in Future.

"Even with disappointing crop results, no widespread reduction of the public purchasing power has been revealed. Both statistical measurements and reports from the principal centers reflect a sustained large distribution of diversified merchandise. Where action with regard to forward commitments has been disclosed, confidence in the future has been indicated; yet prudent conservatism still marks most commercial undertakings."

"Trade and industrial reports, the latter particularly, tend to become more spotty with the advance of the month," Bradstreet's review says. "Because of the sharp upward swing shown a year ago in both trade and industry, comparisons with a year ago fail to show gains over 1928 equal to those earlier noted. In wholesale and jobbing lines, the general report is of a fair to good fall trade and retail trade is fully equal to a year ago."

"Production in basic industries increased somewhat in August, compared with July, but the increase was less than is usual at this season," the federal reserve board reports. "In consequence, the board's index of industrial production, which makes allowance for usual seasonal changes, showed a decline. Wholesale prices declined slightly."

"Increases in industrial employment during the period July 15 to August 15 were about as large in the aggregate as the losses of a month earlier, the Chicago federal reserve bank says. "Gains of 0.7 per cent in the number of workers and 3.9 per cent in pay rolls offset the declines of 0.2 and 5 per cent respectively reported for the preceding period.

Wholesale Distribution Off.

Both wholesale and retail distribution of new and used automobiles showed a recession in August from the preceding month, while the number of retail sales and of used cars sold totaled above the volume of August, 1928, and wholesale distribution continued much smaller than a year ago. Meat packing declined in August from the preceding month but remained above a year ago."

Higher prices as the result of lowered world crop production will give the farmer about as much income as previously, Montgomery Ward & Co. forecast in reviewing the agricultural situation. It also finds that business as a whole has maintained unusual strength during the summer. Sales are expected to show creditable increase for the balance of this year.

Prophecy that the National Cash Register company will have the best year in its history was made by J. H. Burringer, vice president and general manager.

Police Guard Loose-Wiles Plant as Workers Strike

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Police guards were called today at the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company plant following a strike of between 1,000 and 1,500 workers who complained of changes in wages and working conditions. Pay under a system recently inaugurated is based on production. The workers charged they were pitted against each other and no matter what production resulted the salary was less.

DIRECTORS APPROVE 709 MILLION DOLLAR DETROIT BANK MERGER

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A bank merger that will bring into being an institution with total resources of $709,830,529 was approved today by directors of five Detroit financial institutions, including the two largest banks and the largest trust company in the city. The institutions involved are Peoples Wayne County bank, First National bank, Bank of Michigan, Peninsular State bank, and the Detroit and Security Trust company.

The merger will be effected through formation of a holding company, to be named later, which will have a $50,000,000 capitalization, with 2,500,000 shares of $20 par value stock. Of this amount $35,000,000 will be exchanged for the stocks of the four banks and the trust company, the balance remaining in the treasury.

The combined capital of the five institutions is $29,000,000; surplus, $43,500,000; and undivided profits as of June 29, the last bank call, of $14,793,000. The Peoples Wayne County bank, itself the result of several earlier consolidations, is the largest of the group, with resources alone of $322,391,583 and surplus of $22,000,000.

STANDARD GAS RISES AGAINST MARKET TREND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—An advance of 40 points in three days in the price of Standard Gas and Electric company common stock on the New York stock exchange in a generally weak market brought in its wake today rumors of a battle between powerful groups for control of the company.

The stock opened at 219 today, the closing price the day before; soared to 243¾, the highest level in its history, and closed at 235½, up 16½ points. This followed a gain of 19⅛ points on Thursday and one of 3⅞ points on Wednesday.

Prior to this movement the high record for the shares was 205. The low point this year was 80¾, or one-third of today's high mark.

The Standard Gas and Electric company is one of the few billion dollar utilities in the country. Since its organization in 1910 it has been controlled by H. M. Byllesby & Co. of Chicago who owns all of the 1,000,000 shares of $1 par 6 per cent preferred stock which is a voting stock. There also are outstanding 1,560,841 no par common shares, also with voting rights. Utility and Industrials, an investment trust, organized and controlled by the Byllesby group last spring, is believed to own sufficient Standard Gas common to prevent control from passing into other hands without the consent of Byllesby & Co.

Wage Scales Deterrent to Foreign Trade

BY SCRUTATOR.

Foreign trade is not so attractive as it sometimes is made to appear. Even the figures bearing on it are not always representative of the truth.

The United States consumes a large amount of merchandise that originates in foreign countries of the backward type—backward at least in the sense that their peoples have low purchasing power. The rubber, the coffee, the tin, the bananas, and other tropical goods that come in from such countries must be paid for either in our own goods or in gold.

It is frequently assumed that we pay our bills by sending American manufactured goods or agricultural products to those from whom we purchase. As a matter of fact, the United States pays the backward countries through other nations higher in the scale. It is almost as if the country in the highest place, on the individual income basis, must transact its foreign business with those nearest it on the same basis to reach the lower levels.

Trade with India.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, recently showed that the United States purchased in India goods worth more by $95,000,000 a year than it sold there. Obviously this difference was settled through a third party. The United Kingdom was the collector and balancer. It has an unfavorable trade balance with the United States, but India owed the British Isles on balance something like $100,000,000.

As Dr. Klein expresses it: "Neither nations nor individuals stand today in the medieval position of bartering goods directly back and forth." Therefore, he adds, it is short sighted to accept a so-called unfavorable balance with some country or other as evidence that we are slipping and must immediately make efforts to increase our exports to or cut down our imports from that country.

It is doubtful, in fact, whether finished American products can be sold in countries like India in quantity to balance imports, unless the standard of purchasing power is greatly raised in these countries. The wage scale has been going up a little in India, but probably the average per individual even yet has not reached in American money more than a few cents a day. There is literally no market among the masses for American goods.

China's Purchasing Power.

China possibly has 300 million people. But a Chinese workman is worth 15 cents a day. It takes thirty like him to produce what one average American can produce. If all the purchasing power in China were rolled up into an American package it would make the 300 million equal only to ten million not over-paid producers.

There is not in much of Latin America a purchasing power to handle American products as Europe handles them. The Argentine, per capita, has about one-third the purchasing power of an American, according to the department of commerce. A Cuban's is relatively 16 per cent of an American's, a Mexican's 11 per cent, a Panaman's 10 per cent, a Peruvian's 6 per cent and a Brazilian's less than 3 per cent. Others range down to virtually nothing.

Consequently, a large part of our exports to the nationalities mentioned are to firms that are financed by American capital and engaged in exploiting foreign resources. One might assume that Venezuela is a fine market for pipe and pipe fittings, as five million dollars worth was sold there in 1927. As a matter of fact, one large American oil company bought it all.

Living Standards.

Under present conditions, it seems probable that the bulk of American exports will continue to go to European countries nearest America in purchasing power, to Canada and to Australia.

Exporting is necessary to cover the goods we need which cannot be produced here and to cover tourist expenditures and other invisibles. But the great gain in foreign trade will come only when standards of living have been markedly raised in the backward countries.

Capital exports are accomplishing this in some degree. The United States is learning, as England did, that to get customers in the far distances you must finance them.

JOLT CHICAGO STOCKS OUT OF UPPER STRATA

Many Issues Sell at Decline.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

The unexpectedly large increase in brokers' loans jolted stocks out of high levels yesterday, with active issues on the Chicago exchange selling down from one to four points. Some recovery took place in the last half hour of trading, but most of the list finished with net losses on the day.

Bendix Aviation led the automotives with a 3¼ point decline. The Houdaille issues, Cord and Borg-Warner were off from 2 to 2½ points. An increase in the authorized class B stock of 1,000,000 shares of the Houdaille-Hershey corporation was approved by the stockholders, bringing that issue to a total authorized issue of 2,000,000 shares.

The directors were given authority to issue any or all of the additional stock for acquisition of stock or property of other corporations. This action is expected to be followed by an announcement of further expansion in the company's activities. Part of the new stock will be used in payment for the acquisition of the General Spring Bumper corporation and the Skinner company, Ltd., of Canada.

Reflects Income Rumor.

National Standard reflected rumors that the annual report for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 will show net income equal to around $5 a share. In the preceding fiscal period the company earned $4.01 a share.

Exceptions to the rule in the general list were General Theater Equipment and Construction Materials, which were up 3½ points and 3 points respectively.

Insull Utility Investments led the investment trust group with a decline of 5¾. Lehman was off 3¾ and Continental Chicago closed 3 points lower. Midland United was up a point.

Central and South West Utilities lost four points. Commonwealth Edison dropped 21½ points on a few odd lot sales totaling 225 shares. The Middle West Utilities issues sold without the rights at prices from 75 to 83 points below the previous day's close, when the rights were included. Middle West new common was initially traded in to the extent of about 162,100 shares at a range of from 48⅛ to 50. The rights sold at 67 and 70⅛.

Leads Radio Group.

National Union led the radio group with a three point decline. The Sonatron division announced an increase in the price of seven of its forty-four types of tubes. The new prices range from $2.50 to $6. Declines of a point to 2½ points were felt by Grigsby-Grunow, Zenith, Polymet, Wextark, U. S. Radio and Ceco.

Ken-Rad advanced a point. The company reported earnings for the first eight months of 1929 of $242,470, against $123,126 for the same period last year.

Nachman Spring-filled was not traded in. Louis A. Suekoff, president, announced that production of spring constructions for mattress manufacturers has been increased more than fifty per cent in the last month, and that another fifty per cent increase will take place within the next thirty days.

The stock exchange's educational institute for brokerage house employés opened the first semester of this year with a dinner at the Hotel La Salle last night. More than 350 students attended.

American Ice Boosts Annual Dividend Rate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—The annual dividend rate of the American Ice company was raised from $2 to $3 today with the declaration by the directors of a quarterly dividend of 75 cents. Directors of the Crocker-Wheeler company cleared up all arrears in dividends on the company's preferred stock with the declaration of a disbursement of $10 a share. A regular quarterly payment on the preferred of $1.75 a share also was voted.

The first declaration on the new $10 par value stock of the Indiana Pipe Line company was announced today in the form of a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share and an extra of 25 cents. The company distributed recently three shares of new stock of $10 par value in exchange for each old $50 par value share, on which dividends were at the rate of $1 quarterly.

Initial Payment.

An initial dividend of 50 cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock has been declared on the new common shares of the United States Finishing company, which resulted from a three for one splitup of the old stock. The new dividend represents an increase of 25 cents over the $1.25 quarterly paid on the old stock. The stock disbursement is the same.

An extra dividend of 5 cents a share and the regular quarterly of 25 cents were announced on the common stock of Telautograph. Directors of the Standard Royalties Wewoka corporation ordered a dividend of 10 per cent on its outstanding preferred shares. This can be converted into new shares of the company.

Conversion Privilege.

The stockholders of the North American Gas and Electric company have been offered the privilege of converting dividends on class A stock into additional shares at one full share for each fifty held.

Stockholders of the Autocar company will vote on Oct. 30 on a proposal to split the stock three for one and the offering of the additional 50,000 shares of new stock to stockholders of record that day. The De Forest Radio corporation has offered to exchange 1½ shares of its stock for 1¾ shares of Jenkins Television stock, the idea being a plan to acquire control of the latter concern.

Chicago Curb Exchange Admits More Issues

The Chicago curb exchange has admitted to listing 100,000 shares capital stock of Folds Buck Financial corporation to be admitted to trading on a when issued basis today, 165,000 shares of no par common of Chain Stores Development company of which amount 150,000 shares are to be outstanding and admitted to trading, when issued, on Monday, and $1,000,000 principal amount convertible 6 per cent collateral trust debentures of Peabody & Co. for trading on Tuesday. Trading will also begin Monday in Goddard Securities corporation, 1,000,000 shares no par common, when issued.

Nickel Plate Seeks Permit to Issue 20 Million in Notes

SEEK TO HOLD BIG 4 PACKERS TO AGREEMENT

Grocers Fight Shift in Consent Decree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The American Wholesale Grocers' association today moved in the District Supreme court for dismissal of the petition of the Chicago "Big Four" packers for modification of the consent decree which limits the operations of the latter to the processing of meat products.

Arguments on the petition, filed in behalf of Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company, are scheduled to begin next Wednesday.

Intervening Petition.

In the intervening petition filed by Attorney Edgar A. Watkins of Atlanta, Ga., the grocers insist that in the face of a decision of the United States Supreme court upholding the validity of the decree, the lower court is powerless to reopen the case nine years after the decree was entered.

It is contended in the grocers' petition that the pleas of the packers that they are unjustly discirimnated against by operation of the decree and prevented from entering the retail field while wholesale grocers and chain store systems are at liberty to operate meat packing houses are an "uncertain . . . confusing mass of impertinent and irrelevant statements."

In their petition for modification to permit them to operate retail stores handling unrelated grocery lines, and to own and operate stock yards, terminal railways and market journals, the packers contend that full use of their processing and shipping facilities will greatly widen the farmer's markets and thus afford a large measure of permanent agricultural relief.

Sound Farmers' Sentiment.

Hearings held by a special committee of department of agriculture bureau chiefs at the request of the attorney general to sound the sentiment of agriculture generally toward the packers' proposal disclosed that virtually all of the major farm organizations and a considerable percentage of local producers' cooperatives favored some modification of the decree.

A few of the organizations advocated revocation entirely and others endorsed the proposal to allow the packers to enter the retail field, but recommended retention of the ban upon packer ownership or control of stockyards, stockyard railways and market journals.

Cities Service May Soon Make New Stock Offer

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—The Cities Service company will soon make an offering of new stock to its stockholders, on the basis of one new share for each ten shares held, it was reported in well informed circles today. At the price of $4 a share reported, the value of the rights will be worth about $38,000,000 to holders of the company's stock. There are now outstanding 22,270,544 shares of no par common stock of an authorized issue of 50,000,000 shares.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—That $192,000,000 increase in brokers' loans was too much for Wall street's peace of mind and the stock market was abandoned to the bear crowd anew today.

United States Steel, New York Central, Eastman Kodak, Gillette, Montgomery Ward, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Columbia Gas, Cash Register, and a long list of others of that class were down anywhere from 3 to 10 points; Byers, off 12⅝; Columbia Carbon, 17¼, and Auburn Auto, 25 points—such was the extent of the ruin.

Down to New Low Levels.

Two-score of the sufferers were routed pell mell to new low price levels for the year. Most of them were second grade or inactive issues, but the general effect was discouraging to the rank and file of traders. And at least a dozen really active issues dropped below the bottom they hit in the price break of two days ago.

While the general inclination was to ascribe the weakness mainly to the surprisingly new expansion in the brokerage loan figures for the week, well qualified observers were saying that the declining prices were symptomatic of a general lessened confidence among the trading element because of rising money rates abroad, over extension on the buying side here, indigestion from too large a volume of new investment trust flotations and perhaps some disappointment over the failure of business to speed up with the beginning of the autumn season.

Bulls Lose Ground.

Money was somewhat easier today than it has been recently with the 9 per cent renewal rate maintained throughout the day.

Constructive forces made a rather impressive effort at the opening to start the list uphill, but the inclination to sell on the bulges was too great to be resisted and they gradually lost ground. By the end of the first hour Steel had reached a new low for the decline and the selling movement was under full headway.

Several other rallies were attempted during the course of the rather hectic session, one of them starting in the early afternoon, giving real promise of a substantial recovery for a while, but they were all checked in turn by fresh outbursts of bearish selling and liquidation by disappointed bulls and nervous stockholders. Paper values built up on the summer market continued to melt steadily and persistently.

Only a corporal's guard of worthwhile issues were able to make head-

DESERTED CURB STOCKS DRIFT TO LOWER LEVELS

Investment Trust Issues Suffer Most.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Deserted and friendless, most issues on the curb exchange today drifted materially below previous closing levels, bereft of bullish buoyancy. Not even the favorites that used to support the market on previous occasions showed signs of firmness.

Opening prices in almost all instances were below previous final quotations, reflecting to a large extent the alarm caused by the fresh increase in brokers loans when it was generally expected that these figures would show a moderate decline. Selling gained momentum with the approach of noon and around mid-afternoon was on a scale larger than in many recent sessions. A half hearted rally took place around the close.

Investment trust stock suffered the most, losing from 2 to 5 points on the day. These issues have resisted pressure during recent periods of weakness and have consequently been left somewhat out of line with other stocks.

In the trust group American Investors' stock and warrants, Goldman Sachs, which was especially weak, down 4½, Haygart corporation, Lehman corporation, Prince & Whitley Trading common and preferred, Shenandoah and Blue Ridge were all down. Trans-American was moderately lower.

In the utility section two or three issues, such as Cities Service and Memphis Gas, had the hardihood to climb to new highs for the year. Middle West Utilities old made a comeback of 35 points.

New York Central Orders More Electric Locomotives

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—The New York Central railroad has announced the purchase of forty-two electric locomotives, costing more than $5,000,000, for moving freight on the west side. The American Locomotive company will make the engines, and the General Electric company supply the electrical machinery. The first of these locomotives will be delivered within nine months. This order is in addition to the $4,000,000 order for thirty-five oil-electric switch locomotives for use on the west side recently placed.

The Chesapeake and Ohio has ordered 53,430 tons of rails for its 1930 requirements, of which the Bethlehem Steel corporation received 16,273 tons; Inland Steel company, 10,047 tons; Illinois Steel company, 18,604 tons, and Carnegie Steel company, 8,556 tons. The Père Marquette railroad ordered 20,300 tons of rails for next year, of which Illinois Steel received 7,920; Inland, 9,953; Bethlehem, 1,727, and Algoma, 700. Hocking Valley railroad ordered 5,476 tons from the Illinois Steel company.

ABANDON WALL STREET STOCKS TO BEAR CROWD

Brokers' Loans Increase Is Blow to Prices.

way against the sweep. Standard Gas and Electric, which has been in high favor for the last week or so, was the chief of them. It romped on for a further gain of 16¼ points. American Water Works was another—up 10. E. B. Hoffman, up 8¼, Cutler, up 3, and some of the Pacific coast utility issues, notably Southern California Edison, with a gain of nearly 4 points, were others.

Finally Gives Way.

National Cash Register distinguished itself by pushing into new record territory on unusually active buying, while selling went on about it during the forenoon, but it was forced to give way in the end and made a rather sorry finish some 4 points below the dividing line. Selling ex dividend at the opening, the stock quickly mounted for a gain of 5 points and held close to its new peak level from then until well toward the close.

Most Wall street eyes were glued on the fluctuations of United States Steel common throughout the session, and the old leader's inability to give a good account of itself spread some measure of consternation and gobs of gloom throughout the market. It opened at 261¾, dropped to 223⅛, and closed at 224, a net loss of 6¾ points.

Another erstwhile "old reliable," but here of late not quite so much so, was General Electric, which also suffered acutely. It went down pretty steadily and the finals caught it with a net loss of 13¾ points.

Join in Retreat.

Both the big gas issues were well up toward the van of the headlong retreat, Columbia winding up some 10¼ points on the wrong side of things and Consolidated showing a net decline of 4½ points. Weakness in Columbia was due in a large measure to profit taking following the announcement of a 25 per cent stock dividend. With the "good news" out there was a rush to unload.

General Motors dropped to a new low on its move, and virtually all the rest of the group was under more or less constant pressure. Studebaker and Chrysler both dropped under their bottoms of yesterday.

Many Wall street brokers expressed the opinion this afternoon that the distress selling which worked such havoc in the stock market today has just about been completed. It is expected there will be some minor liquidation tomorrow morning because of the large number of margin calls which went out tonight, but with this out of the way the opinion that leading stocks should get some semblance of organized support was rather general.

SOCIALISTS ARE BLAMED FOR RISE IN ENGLISH RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The raising of the English discount rate from 5½ per cent to 6½ per cent, was hailed as an inevitable result of the Socialist government by the Paris nationalist newspaper La Liberté, which triumphantly declares that "a demagogy of the same policy always results at all times in all countries in the same consequences."

"A year ago the Bank of England's gold reserve was $840,052,286," the newspaper states. "A few weeks ago it fell to $743,650,234. The legal coverage for the Bank of England notes is at a minimum of $727,500,000. The prosperity of England depends on its credit and its credit depends on the upkeep of the pound sterling. And now the credit of the pound sterling is gravely endangered. In a few months the gold reserve of the Bank of England has been diminished more than 25 per cent."

Pointing out that England should have remembered the fate of France when it had a left cartel government, the Liberté warns that the country should profit by England's example and avoid allowing the left factions to regain power.

COTTON FINISHED TAME

Cotton markets were narrow yesterday with a show of strength early in sympathy with Liverpool cables, but weakness in stocks and grain, combined with hedge sales from the south, brought weakness and lower prices, with a finish around the inside. Net losses on futures in Chicago were 4 to 11 points on the active trading futures while outside markets were off 3 to 11 points. New Orleans leading. There was uneasiness owing to expectations of a tropical storm hitting the coast of Florida and possibly extending into the interior. Weather conditions were in the main favorable. A little uneasiness was created by the reported embarrassment of Newell & Clayton, Liverpool importers.

Spinners' takings for the week were estimated at 276,000 to 286,000 bales, against 267,000 bales last week and the slowest movement was 689,000 bales, against 690,000 bales the previous week.

Spot cotton business was said to be active, with prices 5c lower. New York was 18.70c, New Orleans, 18.15c; Galveston, 18.50c; and Houston, 18.40c for middlings. Prices follow:

One month ago ..... 12.50@13.75
One year ago ..... 13.50@14.25
Top yesterday, $13.25; average, $12.50.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: 800 cattle, 5,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep.

The hog market scored a comeback yesterday, while cattle and lamb prices were pressed lower again. Lambs dropped to new low levels for the year, in spite of the smaller supply unloaded on the market this week. Bulk of the small supply of 2,500 cattle available yesterday went over unsold, due to the unsatisfactory condition of the trade.

A bulge of 10@25c in the hog market brought the top up to $11.00, while the general average advanced 20c at $9.95, comparing with a top of $11.10 and average of $10.20 at the close of last week.

Clearance Is Good.

The clearance was unusually good, only pen holders remaining at the close, the highest point of the day. The second largest Friday shipping orders since last May, coupled with the decrease in receipts brought larger houses on the market earlier than usual. Outsiders in five days have taken 28,000 hogs against 18,608 a week ago and 17,079 a year ago.

The cattle market came almost to a standstill after a top-heavy opening yesterday, due to narrow outlet for practically all classes except top notchers. The latter kinds were absent, the best available selling at $13.75. Cows and heifers met a demoralised trade, with the price level mostly $1.00 below a week ago in this branch.

Calves show $1.00@1.50 loss since a week ago. Bulk of beef steers finished in line with a week ago, although recent sales of choice and prime offerings show gains of 50@75c for the week. Stockers and feeders were slow and finished 15@25c lower.

Top Lambs at $13.25.

A slump of mostly 25c carried top lambs down to $13.25 yesterday, the lowest since November, 1928. Most good to choice natives brought $12.50 @13.75, only occasional sales of ewe and wether lambs passing the $13.00 line, with bulk of range stock around $13.75.

Aged sheep held firm again, while yearlings ruled weak to 25c lower in sympathy with the decline in fat lambs. Further gains of 15@25c were recorded in the market for feeding lambs. The latter are selling 25@50c above a week ago, while fat native lambs show 75c to $1.00 loss considering quality and severe sorting lately.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 800 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep, against 545 cattle, 5,230 hogs and 1,481 sheep, the previous Saturday and 645 cattle, 4,125 hogs and 3,188 sheep, a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 36,000 to 46,000. W. T. Reneker marked 30,000, W. S. Nicholson 32,000, J. M. Waters 23,000, S. Lund and G. M. Chandler 35,000, F. M. Sherwood 36,000, Wm. Garrett 38,000, W. C. White and H. Pattison 39,000, H. C. Carlson, C. Southwick, R. B. Ellis, F. Knutzen, J. T. Brown and A. G. Welbener 40,000, Geo. Brittain 41,000 and F. W. Young 45,000.

WOOL.

BOSTON Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "World market for wool have been more or less at a standstill this week, especially in the United States and this market; the slump in prices at London has had its effect here and especially on fine wools, which are about five per cent lower than before the London sales. Wools of three-eighths grade and lower are fairly steady at former rates.

"Of 4,000,000 pounds of wool offered in the Albuquerque sale, about 15 per cent was carried over. Prices at the close ruled in the clean range landed Boston of 75 to 80 cents, mostly. Some wools brought a little more.

"The piece goods market is waiting. There is no reason to believe that a very decent volume of business impends, contingent upon a stable market being seen.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1929, to Sept. 26, 1929, inclusive, were 133,546,000 pounds, against 120,121,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1929, to Sept. 26, 1929, inclusive, were 261,485,355 pounds, against 268,576,543 pounds for the same period last year." ## Discuss Anglo-American Inclusion in Oil Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—The possibility that the Anglo-American Oil company will be included in the merger of the Standard Oil company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company has been discussed in Wall street, but reports to this effect could not be confirmed. Anglo-American was formerly the marketing unit in the British isles for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey before the dissolution in 1911. It is now the leading distributor of petroleum products in England. The Standard of New York-Vacuum merger, it is understood, will be effected by exchanging two and three-quarters shares of Standard for one share of Vacuum.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

If you had the opportunity of meeting customers and talking over the details of a "mere trifling $500" loan, you would certainly be impressed with the importance of the loan to the borrower and how big a figure it cuts in his financial affairs.

Our second mortgage loans are naturally of larger denomination. Yet as real estate transactions go they are not what you would call big loans. This is the importance of a $500 loan made through the Personal Loan & Savings Bank is of big importance to the borrower. Kindly in handling your financial affairs, how much more important must be a loan of even larger amount with him to do with the home the family lives in?

It is the business of the Personal Loan & Savings Bank to do small things BIG. It is the business of our real estate loan department to be even bigger in its handling of loans backed by the home.

Our rates and terms are extremely fair. You may pay as low as 2% of the principal per month, plus interest which does not exceed 6% %, and a commission deducted at the time the loan is made as follows:

90.00 per 1,000 for 3 years.
